RUMANIA HUNTS VICE PREMIER AS REVOLT LEADER

Tanks Roam Streets; Many Jews Slain.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Jan. 24 (AP).—[Passed by military censor]—Rumanian troops were sent out tonight to hunt for Horia Sima, the powerful leader of the pro-Nazi Iron Guard, and "every last cut-throat" involved with him in the guard's bloody four day rebellion. Sima is vice premier of Rumania.

Horia Sima.

A communique blaming Sima for the outbreak likewise announced that any Rumanian withholding knowledge of his hiding place and those of other "originators and executors" of the revolt would be treated as an accomplice and made to "suffer the full penalties of the law."

[A dispatch from Sofia, Bulgaria, said Sima was believed to be hiding in Brasov, in the Transylvanian Alps, 75 miles north of Bucharest.]

Antonescu Weathers Crisis.

Gen. Ion Antonescu, the chief of state, whose authoritarian régime now apparently has weathered the greatest crisis it yet has faced, described the rebels still holding out as "under communist influence." He has promised a reorganization of the Iron Guard and a government which would include "sincere guardsmen."

Tanks of the German and Rumanian armies patroled Bucharest streets, which were filled with glass and broken masonry and the rubble left by heavy fighting. German fighter planes occasionally swooped low over the city.

Many Jews were reported slain in basement executions in their homes. Iron Guardists took over the home of Magda Lupescu, the red haired woman friend of the deposed King Carol who now is in exile with him in Spain.

Invade U. S. Official's Home.

During the height of the fighting the home of the first secretary of the United States legation, J. Webb Benton of Fort Myer, Va., was twice invaded—by troops and then by civilians who used it as a fortress from which they shot at the soldiers.

The Rumanian army later provided protection, stationing a tank in the yard. All Americans—including Benton and his mother—were reported safe.

The public was warned to buy no jewelry or furniture or anything else from second-hand stores—all of it, the government said, might be loot from homes.

Face Immediate Execution.

All persons arrested must go before military courts. They must be tried within 24 hours of apprehension, and punishments must be carried out within the succeeding 10 hours. Looters or snipers firing from houses on military men, citizens or public buildings were put under what amounted to an instant sentence of death. It was announced that they could be executed on the spot.

State employés not immediately reporting for work were made subject to discharge; army generals were put in charge of the secret police; the Bucharest police took over the gas and electric companies, and all public gatherings were outlawed.

The situation in the provinces remained in doubt—particularly in such cities as Brasov, Giurgiu, Constanta, Ploesti, Cantina, and Craiova, all of which the Iron Guardists had claimed to have occupied completely. Army headquarters asserted, however, that order was being restored rapidly in those areas.

Wounded Fill Hospitals.

The number of dead and wounded was unknown, but in Bucharest alone the hospitals were filled with wounded and partial lists of the dead were posted outside.

This was the first day since Sunday that had not been filled with the din of revolver, rifle, machine gun, and artillery fire, altho yesterday's action was largely a case of mopping up and driving guardists out of snipers' nests and public buildings.

Sima called on his followers to surrender at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon—after three radio appeals by Antonescu in which he had stressed that he was "a friend of the axis" and "no tool of the Jews and Masons."

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

ABOLISHES 347 JOBS; STATE TO SAVE $547,400

Halts Repair Work at Institutions.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 24.—Gov. Dwight H. Green's Republican economy ax fell twice late today with these results:

1. A total of 545 employés were swept from the pay roll of the department of public works and buildings and Green announced that 347 of the jobs held by the discarded workers had been abolished as unnecessary. Posts hitherto filled by the remaining 198 will be restaffed when and if they are needed. This mass severance brought to almost 1,000 the number of Democrats purged from the rolls since the governor took office last week, more than 400 others having been fired in previous orders.

2. Because contracts had been awarded without compliance with the legal provision requiring competitive bids, the governor ordered repair work stopped at seven state institutions. He took this action when he learned that these and other contracts made by Democratic administrations in recent years had not followed the letter of the law. It was forecast that additional stoppages will shortly be ordered. About $850,000 is involved in the contracts affected today, most of these having been awarded during the brief administration of Green's Democratic predecessor, Gov. John Stelle.

Stelle Creates Many Jobs.

Stelle was brought into the economy picture in a report made to the governor by Director Walter A. Rosenfield of public works and buildings, who said that 75 per cent of the 347 jobs abolished as useless had been created during Stelle's 100 day régime.

The remainder were positions which highway engineers told the director were unnecessary in the efficient management of the division.

Today's abolitions represent an annual saving of $547,400 the governor's office said. The largest item was 272 positions in the 10 highway district offices which were done away with for a monthly saving of $34,520. Seventeen jobs in the highway police office were abolished; six in the highway garage, eleven in the highway day labor division, twelve in the bureau of audits, and 29 others in various offices of the department. The monthly saving is $45,620.

Lieberman Holds on.

No big names were included among those of the severed employés, and the anticipated ouster of Ernst Lieberman, chief highway engineer, did not materialize. The governor has said several times recently that no decision has been reached regarding Lieberman's future with the state government, and appears to be still of the same mind.

The only name to draw any comment was that of Ray Hubbs, named superintendent of machinery by Stelle, who will be replaced.

Jobs abolished included engineer's assistants, paving foremen, guard fence foremen, draftsmen, plant inspectors, skilled and common laborers, rodmen, bridge painters, mechanics, landscape engineers and foremen, garage foremen and mechanics, traffic counters, and a designation listed as "second helpers."

Green's office also stated enigmatically that the job of one "straw boss" had been done away with.

Told of Contract Awards.

Director Rodney H. Brandon of public welfare notified the governor of the award of contracts without competitive bidding, and the stop order went from the executive office to Director Rosenfield of public works and buildings.

According to attachés of Brandon's office, all but two of the suspended contracts were granted within the 100 day régime of former Gov. John Stelle, during last October, November, and December.

The cost of the projects totaled about $850,000 and Green's statement noted that the work is, in general, less than half completed. It was also revealed that work on four other institutions, which was let without bids, had already been completed at a cost of $440,000.

The governor said other contracts are under investigation and it was forecast that work on some of them will be stopped soon. When Brandon began checking into the contracts he Roosevelt Meets Envoy's Boat in Person.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—Viscount Halifax, new British ambassador appointed to succeed the late Lord Lothian, arrived in this country tonight after a secret crossing of the Atlantic aboard the new British battleship, George V.

The member of the British war cabinet earlier had received the personal welcome of President Roosevelt in a precedent-shattering meeting aboard the Presidential yacht Potomac six miles out on the fog blanketed waters of Chesapeake bay off the United States Naval academy, Annapolis, Md. The envoy issued a statement in which he said, "the British people are united as never before, and I have no doubt that with your help we shall win."

Land After Dark.

Lord and Lady Halifax completed their journey aboard the Potomac, leaving the big man o' war anchored in the bay out of sight of shore. They set foot on American shores after dark at the academy wharf in the eerie light of flash bulbs, spot lights, and ship flares.

From there they were whisked in the President's car over 35 miles of winding, slippery road to Washington and delivered at the door of the British embassy by the chief executive on his way to the White House.

Before entering the stately mansion, the new ambassador posed patiently for news photographers. He is tall, with aquiline features and thin, sandy hair. Lady Halifax, several inches shorter, was dressed entirely in black and carried a muff into which both hands were thrust. She smiled into the cameras as the cold rain swept down around the portico.

Onlookers were startled when they saw a wartime helmet and a gas mask under the arm of one of Lord Halifax's secretaries. It was explained that these articles were being kept handy for a possible hurried return trip to England.

The Halifax Statement.

"Lady Halifax and I are very glad to be here, and we have had a voyage which we shall always remember," Lord Halifax said in his statement, which was issued to reporters before his and the President's parties disembarked from the Potomac. "It has been something of a rest for me.

"The Prime Minister and Mrs. Churchill came to the port from which we sailed to say good-by to us. And now the President has done my country the greatest honor of coming to greet us on arrival.

"I have come here to make known to the United States from time to time in what way, if they are willing, they can best give us the help we need.

"We have assuredly a rough, difficult, and perhaps a very long road before us, but the British people are united as never before in history and I have no doubt that with your help we can win thru and so save those causes on which your civilization and ours depends."

Dinner Aboard Yacht.

President Roosevelt earlier had been host at an informal dinner aboard the yacht. Guests who sat down as the craft crept thru the fog and rain toward shore included Lord and Lady Halifax, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, Neville M. Butler, British chargé d'affaires, and Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations.

An honor guard of marines, as well as reporters and photographers, and a handful of onlookers, were forced to wait on the wharf in the downpour for the conclusion of the meal half an hour after the boat docked. Thru the portholes, the President could be seen laughing and gesturing as he talked, first with his cigaret and then with his coffee cup.

The President's decision to welcome the new ambassador in person was something brand new in the history of Anglo-American relations. When King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth visited the United States two years ago, it was recalled, Mr. Roosevelt went only as far as the Action Hints Fear of Military Chiefs' Testimony.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—The Roosevelt administration today clamped down a lid of secrecy on the testimony of high ranking army, navy, and aviation corps officials before the house foreign affairs committee considering the President's war dictatorship bill.

William R. Castle as he testified. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

The action was taken in the apparent fear that the witnesses would be forced to admit that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, former Assistant Secretary of War Hanford MacNider, and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson were correct when they asserted that the United States would be in no danger of invasion if Great Britain fell. Previously cabinet officials had led a fear campaign by picturing an early German invasion if congress did not surrender its war-making and spending powers to Mr. Roosevelt in order that England might have unlimited aid.

Gag Suddenly Imposed.

Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff; Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, and Maj. Gen. George Brett, acting chief of the air corps, were to have appeared at an open hearing. They had stated their willingness to testify in public, but the Democratic majority of the committee, evidently operating under orders, suddenly imposed what was termed by Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] the most outrageous gag rule in his 20 years' experience in congress.

Tempers flared and heated words were exchanged by Fish and Chairman Sol Bloom [D., N. Y.], but the majority insisted that the three officials be heard in executive session. Bloom later announced that this secret session would be held next Monday.

Castle Presents Views.

The open hearing proceeded today with William R. Castle, former undersecretary of state and former United States ambassador to Japan, denouncing the President's measure as "clearly a war measure." Castle spoke as a representative of the America First committee.

"In the year 1776," remarked Castle, "the declaration of independence led to war. Is bill 1776, which may some time be called our renunciation of independence, also going to lead us into war?"

The committee met as usual at 10 o'clock this morning, the minority members expecting Admiral Stark and Generals Marshall and Brett to be present. Representative Luther A. Johnson [D., Tex.] suddenly moved that the committee close its doors to the public.

"So ordered!" said Bloom.

Minority Members Protest.

Minority members, bewildered, protested and inquired what was going on. It was then learned that Chairman Bloom had called the three officers and told them they had not been invited by the committee but merely by Fish and that they ought to insist upon being heard in secret session only.

About this moment, Fish received a letter from Gen. Marshall by messenger. Marshall wrote that he had been informed by Bloom that his presence had not been requested by the committee. Only the previous evening, Bloom had announced the names of the three witnesses and none of the majority members objected.

"Evidently Mr. Bloom heard from the higher-ups," commented Fish.

"I deny that!" yelled Bloom. "I talked to no one, not to the President or the secretary of state or any one!"

Fish Assails Procedure.

"This is the most important bill ever before congress," declared Fish. "It is well understood by all the committee members that representatives of the army and navy frequently appear at open hearings and have the

Tells Hazards of Ferrying British Planes

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Ferrying combat airplanes from English factories and assembly points to fighting squadrons has become so dangerous that many of the 50 American pilots who are doing this work in the air transport auxiliary—a civil branch of the royal air force—are turning to the "safer" job of ferrying American made bombing planes across the Atlantic ocean from Canada to England.

Such was the report made last night by Paul T. Miller, a veteran airman who returned Sunday from England after six months in the A. T. A. He said the danger, however, is not from German air raiders but from the British balloon barrages and anti-aircraft gunners who, unable to see well in the English haze and fog, often fire first and ask questions afterward.

Tells of Antiaircraft Fire.

"In ferrying we had to stay low, about 1,500 feet, and I was fired upon a number of times," said Miller, who has been flying for 21 years and has more than 6,000 hours to his credit as a cotton duster, air line pilot, charter operator, and aviation instructor. "Once I had to land a big twin-engined Wellington bomber—a 27,500 pound airplane—because the archie [antiaircraft] guns opened up on me. Luckily I found a big field.

"Those of us in the A. T. A. had to fly 40 different types of planes—combat types and trainers. I flew Hurricanes and Spitfires—England's fighters—big bombers, light bombers, American bombers that are just arriving, and many others. The fastest I went was 400 miles an hour in a dive in a Spitfire close to the ground. That was just for fun to see what the plane would do."

New Types of Planes Used.

Miller said the English have several new types of fighting and bombing planes coming along. The fighting plane currently considered the best in England is a type called the Bullfighter—a twin engine long range craft powered with two Rolls-Royce 1,200 horse power liquid cooled engines.

Two new types of bombers just coming into service are the Manchester, a bimotored ship, and the Sterling, a four engine long range plane.

Miller said the Rolls-Royce Engine company has several new types of motors, one a 12 cylinder engine delivering 1,450 horse power, and another a 24 cylinder engine of about 2,000 horse power.

Balloons Hamper Pilots.

"It would be a cinch to fly in England if the weather were like it is here," he said. "But they have clouds and haze all the time. The balloon barrages are terrific. We have to fly down corridors a mile wide. These constantly are shifted, and they vary from the maps when the wind blows. It's difficult for a pilot to fly when he can't see ahead and yet knows those cables are all around him.

"I hope to get settled down in a quiet routine flying bombers over the Atlantic soon. I've made two trips thus far as a captain, and I'm going to Montreal tomorrow to continue my job. I came to Chicago for a physical examination and to renew my American commercial pilot's license."

Miller flew from Chicago airport for years. His wife, Hortense, is staying with her mother in Anderson, Ind., where Miller has been visiting.

HISTORIC COMMUNION PLATE STOLEN FROM RAID DAMAGED CHURCH

LONDON, Jan. 24.—Historic silver communion plate which church officials regard as priceless—some of which dates back 250 years—has been stolen from St. Paul's German Reformed church in the East End, it was disclosed today. The church suffered badly from raids last autumn and again when London was attacked recently by fire bombs.

No services had been held in the church since last September, and during the interim looters found the safe and took its whole contents. The communion plate included a silver dish dated 1691, a silver cup of 1697, two silver flagons of 1701 and 1739, a silver cover of 1767, and a silver jug of 1881.

Terrific Blast Wrecks Home; S. Side Jarred

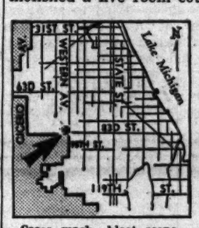
A terrific explosion last night demolished a five room cottage at 2444 West 83d street, damaged three adjoining residences and also smashed windows in many others in the neighborhood. Timbers and bricks were flung for half a block and the detonation was heard for miles around on the south side.



Cross marks blast scene.

No one was injured, altho a couple in the house to the east were flung to the floor of their living room by the force of the blast. The cottage, a one and a half story brick building, was the home of Walter J. Wende, 34 years old, a city fireman assigned to rescue squad No. 9.

Family Away on Visit.

Wende was off duty last night and he and his wife, Marie, 34, and their son, Walter J. Jr., 6 months old, left home at 5 p. m. to visit his mother, Mrs. Viola Wende, at 3651 West 64th street. They left there at 9 p. m., about a half hour after the explosion, and arrived in time to see firemen from engine company No. 49 playing hose on the smoking ruins of their home. The Wendes had to fight their way thru a crowd of several hundred persons.

Mrs. Marie Wende collapsed and she and her baby were taken to the home of neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. La Verne Poust at 2434 West 83d street.

The cottage was leveled as if struck by a hurricane. The roof was blown south across 83d street and landed on the golf course of the Beverly Country club.

Couple Thrown to Floor.

Anthony Posen and his wife, Marie, who live at 2436 West 83d street, to the east of the Wende home and separated from it by a vacant lot, were hurled to the floor by the explosion.

Wende was unable to give any cause for the explosion. He said there were a gas fired furnace and a coal stove to heat water in the basement. There was no fire in the coal stove when he left home, he said, and the furnace was operating satisfactorily. Wende had the house built a year ago at a cost of $6,000.

Greece Next for Donovan; to Visit Albanian War Zone

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Jan. 24 (AP).—Col. William J. Donovan, in Europe on a mission from the United States, said today that he planned to visit the Albanian front during his stay in Greece. He concluded the official part of his visit to this Jugo-Slav capital today with calls upon the chiefs of the nation's armed forces. He said he would leave tomorrow for Athens.

absolute right to decline to answer any question, asserting that they will answer it in executive session.

"Generals Marshall and Brett and Admiral Stark have made many such appearances before congressional committees and are well able to guard confidential information.

"What the committee should want is not political information, such as was largely received from cabinet officers, but the expert testimony from the highest ranking officers of the army and navy in open session to answer the statements made in open session by Hanford MacNider, Col. Lindbergh, and Gen. Johnson.

Entitled to Know, He Says.

"The country is entitled to know, for example, whether Lindbergh was correct when he said we had only several hundreds of modern combat planes, which was a direct negation of the statement of Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox that we had 2,500 modern fighting planes. It is entitled to have the views of military experts on the possibility of invasion of this country and of the possibility of victory in an attempt to take Europe away from Germany.

"All the minority sought to bring out were answers to statements which had already been made publicly—whether we have done anything to follow the suggestion made by Col. Lindbergh more than a year ago that we acquire Latin American bases.

"The committee was derelict in its duty and responsibility to congress and the country by not calling for this expert testimony."

Democrats Issue Statement.

Democrats stalked out of the committee room and went into a huddle in a nearby office. After nearly two hours, they issued a statement asserting that the officers themselves had expressed a preference for testifying in secret. Fish immediately countered by saying he had again been assured in telephone calls to the three witnesses that they were perfectly willing to testify openly.

Fish sought to put a motion calling for open hearings but was prevented by an objection from Representative Johnson which Bloom sustained. Fish appealed from the ruling of the chair. The Bloom ruling was upheld on a strict party vote, 13 Democrats voting against 9 Republicans.

Several hundred spectators surged forward as the hearing was recessed and surrounded Bloom and Fish, who exchanged verbal punches.

Castle Condemns Powers.

The scene was calmer when the afternoon session started with Castle on the stand. Out of his 16 years' experience in the state department under both Democratic and Republican administrations, Castle voiced a grave condemnation of H. R. 1776 as giving to the President far greater powers than should be exercised by any one man.

Castle said that if the bill had to be passed the powers given the President should certainly not be granted for a period of longer than one year.

"I have no use for those who say that because Hitler has broken the rules of international law we are free to do the same." he declared. "There is no reason why we should copy the methods of international criminals any more than the methods of local thugs.

Points to Destroyer Deal.

"The President authorized the press to quote him as saying, in answer to the question whether he might give away part of the navy, that it was 'all cow jumped over the moon stuff,' all Mother Hubbard stuff. Yet, not long ago he gave away 50 American destroyers. To receive a quid pro quo for them in the shape of naval bases did not affect the legal principle.

"To take the ostensible purpose of the bill, it may be said that if we honestly want to aid Britain without involvement in the war and as speedily as possible, we can do so only by enlarging with all speed our facilities for production, by permitting the British to purchase all such output of our factories as our technical military and naval authorities certify is not necessary for national defense."

Cites British Position.

The measure, Castle asserted, would give the President such power that in practice he could dominate Britain, while the war continues, as well as the United States.

"The President alone could say what supplies were to be sent and when and where," the witness told the committee. "Thru his control of the supplies flowing out from what he pleases to call this 'arsenal of democracy,' he would become supreme in all military matters, British as well as American. At home, congress would be impotent, and in Britain, fear, rather than gratitude, would bring the British government to the feet of the American President.

"We would have two world dictators, one for the totalitarians and one for the democracies."

Castle said the bill purports to be a bill to help Britain but actually is a measure creating a dictatorship.

Questions Bill's Helpfulness.

"It does not enable us to help Britain more than we are doing now except in so far as it permits the President to ignore such laws as he pleases and thus to make war," he said. "Many Americans believe this country can be of greater help to Great Britain as a neutral than as an ally.

"We are not now at war. Britain is at war. But even so the British parliament functions as effectively as ever. It is not in the nature of an Englishman to surrender his liberties. As no Englishman would want to do away with parliament, so no American should want to do away with congress. I for one am certain that the congress of the United States is just as patriotic and works just as intelligently for the good of the country as does the parliament of Great Britain."

Other Witnesses Assail Bill.

William C. Dennis, president of Earlham college at Richmond, Ind., another witness heard by the committee today, said he opposed the bill because "it is a legislative authorization for the open and flagrant violation of international law, it is an unconstitutional delegation of legislative power, it repudiates certain planks of both the Democrats and Republicans, and, without necessity or adequate justification, it probably would involve the United States in war."

William J. Grace of Chicago, representing the Citizens' Keep Out of War committee, opposed the bill on the ground it is a "war making measure."

Other witnesses heard today included John Burke of New York, representing the American Defense society, and Benjamin Marsh of Washington, representing "the people's lobby." A statement by Amos Pinchot, also representing the American Defense society, was read in his absence.

Roosevelt Rejects Queries.

President Roosevelt at his press conference refused to discuss reports that he is willing to accept certain amendments to the bill. He had been reported as agreeable to a time limitation on his powers, to a specific prohibition against the use of naval vessels as convoys, and to a provision that he report regularly to congress on transactions, except information deemed by the army chief of staff and the chief of naval operations to be military secrets.

The President also declined to comment on Col. Lindbergh's testimony yesterday, particularly regarding Lindbergh's testimony that if this country had refrained from giving moral backing to Britain and France, the European war would not have started. Mr. Roosevelt said he had not read Lindbergh's testimony and, in response to a question, asked why he should read it.

The senate foreign relations committee voted to hear Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. as its first witness when open hearings begin next Monday. Secretary Knox will be heard Tuesday and Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson on Wednesday.

The house open hearing will close tomorrow with William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to France, as an administration witness.

200 CARGO VESSELS, COSTING 350 MILLION, APPROVED BY HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24 (AP).—The house approved a 350 million dollar emergency merchant ship construction program today after stormy debate over a proposal to forbid closed shop agreements with workers employed on the project. Two hundred cargo vessels will be built.

The proposal was offered by Representative Howard W. Smith [D., Va.] as an amendment to the bill appropriating funds for the measure, but it was defeated thru substitution of a prohibition against employment of ship workers who advocate overthrow of the government by force.

Representative Everett M. Dirksen [R., Ill.] urged immediate action to eliminate communistic influence in the merchant marine, saying: "If we don't clean house we may have a paralyzing problem on our hands." He characterized Joe Curran, president of the National Maritime union, as "a stooge for the subversive, communist element."

PUT NAVY YARD SKILLED LABOR ON 60 HOUR WEEK

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 24 (AP).—Because of an apparent shortage of skilled labor, the 23,000 civilian employés at the navy yard will go on a 60 hour week Jan. 27, receiving time-and-a-half overtime wages for all hours worked over 40.

While yard officials completed arrangements for the new working periods, private contractors at work on the nation's largest drydock—planned to speed construction of super-dreadnaughts—tried to arrange a settlement of a dispute which caused 60 structural steel workers to walk off the job yesterday.

U. S. COMMERCE CHAMBER RIPS DICTATOR BILL

Asks Congressional O. K. on Aid to Britain.

The chamber of commerce of the United States charged yesterday that President Roosevelt's dictator bill for aid to Britain would free the President from all restraint of law, and declared its opposition to enactment of the bill as "unnecessary and unwise."

The chamber, thru its board of directors, announced after a board meeting in Chicago that it favors lending, selling, or giving aid to England, but only with the express approval of congress or a bipartisan committee of congress.

War Danger Cited.

The bill "in its present form would "by the very power it proposes to grant, create the possibility of this nation entering into this war without further action by congress," the board said, and added:

"As Americans, our first concern should be for America—to insure that it is protected and defended, to keep it at peace, and especially to preserve the freedom of individuals."

The chamber, with 700,000 members, is the largest organization of business men in the nation. The directors met in an all-day closed session at the Edgewater Beach hotel to draft the statement on the President's bill and also to act on a report concerning national defense drawn by the chamber's policy council. The policy council and various committees had been holding sessions since midweek.

James S. Kemper, Chicago insurance company executive, who is president of the national chamber, participated in the directors' meeting as a member of the board.

Objections to Bill Listed.

In outlining the board's opposition to the dictator bill [H. R. 1776] the directors listed these objections:

"The President is specifically excluded from the restraining influence of any law.

"The President can, without the knowledge of congress . . . deliver not only to the British empire but to other countries our navy, our airplanes, our tanks, guns, and other military equipment.

"The President can spend public funds or incur obligations not limited in amount, not only without the consent, but without the prior knowledge of congress. The vast powers in this bill have no limit as to time."

Also, the board said, the bill, by lack of clarity, raises the question of whether the President could seize private property regardless of the wishes of the owner, or of congress, and give it to other nations.

The statement, adopted without a dissenting vote by the board members after the phraseology had been debated actively, said "our first obligation is to preserve and defend this country and its form of government."

Three Point Proposal Made.

Then the statement continued:

"The board advocates that congress enact promptly, but after full hearing and debate, laws designed to accomplish the following:

"1. To sell, lease, or give such military properties as now or hereafter may belong to the United States as may have the express approval either of the congress or any bipartisan committee thereof, to the British empire and other democracies now or hereafter fighting aggressors, without committing any recognized acts of war.

"2. To give the British empire and other democracies defending themselves from aggressor nations such credit or cash as the congress may specifically approve.

Limitations Are Proposed.

"3. To give to such democracies such further and additional aid as may be possible consistent with our own defense requirements subject to the following express limitations: [a] That in so doing no recognized acts of war be committed; [b] that no ship owned by the United States or flying its flag be sent into the war zone as defined by the neutrality act except with the prior approval of the congress; [c] that no soldier, sailor or other representative of the armed forces of the United States other than high ranking officers descend into the war zone except with the prior approval of the congress.

"The board, while favoring devotion of all of our energies to creating an impregnable defense and aid as above stated to other nations, challenges the wisdom of the so-called lend-lease bill as introduced in congress."

ILLINOISANS GET SOME IMPORTANT POSTS IN HOUSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—Newly elected Illinois Republicans were given places on several important house committees by approval of the members today. The prairie state, with 16 Republican representatives to 11 Democrats, has taken the lead as the strongest minority party state in the chamber.

Charles S. Dewey of the 9th district was awarded a place on the banking and currency committee, a spot to which he is fitted by his experience as a former assistant secretary of the treasury and as a former financial adviser to foreign governments.

William G. Stratton, representative at large, was placed on the civil service and flood control committees. C. W. [Runt] Bishop, 25th district, was placed on the census, mines and mining, and public buildings and grounds committees. Evan Howell, 21st district, was placed on the education and pensions committees. Stephen A. Day, representative at large, was placed on labor, revision of the laws, and elections committees. James V. Heidinger, 24th district, was placed on the elections, patents, and territories committees. George A. Paddock, 10th district, was placed on the interstate and foreign commerce committee.

Unparalleled in History.

History does not contain another instance where a President of the United States went out to meet a representative of another country of lesser diplomatic rank. The belief was also expressed that this was the first time a fully armed British man o' war has called at these shores since the war of 1812, when Dolly Madison just succeeded in hiding the Presidential silver plate before the "visitors" arrived at the White House.

In some quarters it was said that the eagerness of Mr. Roosevelt, renowned as an amateur admiral, to see the 35,000 ton British warship had as much to do with his trip as anything else. However, he did not go aboard the ship, for which this was the shakedown cruise. His meeting with Lord Halifax took place on the deck of the Potomac beneath sodden skies.

Britishers Are Tardy.

Mr. Roosevelt's presence completely overshadowed that of British diplomats, who were late in arriving at the naval academy for the trip to the warship. Besides the British embassy, they represented the Canadian and Australian legations. Ralph Close, minister from South Africa, arrived so late he was left on shore and forced to spend the afternoon in officers' quarters near the wharf.

The presence in United States territorial waters of the belligerent vessel aroused speculation as to its status under the neutrality act, which bars a warship of a belligerent longer than 24 hours. It was said in authoritative quarters that this restriction might not apply to the King George V. because it is on a special diplomatic mission.

The voyage was kept a closely guarded secret by this country and Great Britain. It was not made known here officially that the British ambassador was on the high seas until shortly before the warship was sighted entering the bay.

Description of Ship.

Launched Feb. 21, 1939, the 30 knot King George V. is one of five ships of her class constructed to raise Britain's capital ship strength to 19. The vessel—like her sister ships, the Prince of Wales, Duke of York, Jellicoe, and Beatty—was built in secrecy because of the war. Nothing was heard of her until last April 23 when it was announced that the five ships were undergoing trials. Rumors said all were in service but the British kept mum.

The King George V. cost $28,000,000, carries 10 14-inch guns, 6 forward and 4 aft, and the gunners are protected from shrapnel by steel enclosed turrets. Sixteen 5.25-inch guns are mounted on her sides and she carries special armor for protection against air bombs. Her normal crew calls for 1,500 officers and men.

Unofficial sources estimated that it cost $21,360 for fuel to bring the King George V. to Annapolis.

This evening most of the ship's officers were guests at a banquet in Bancroft hall, the naval academy's huge dormitory and mess. There also were a few shore parties from among the crew. The British tars were seen strolling about the rain soaked campus in large groups just prior to the President's departure for Washington.

After an exchange of greetings and handshakes between the British seamen and onlookers, some one handed the seamen a bottle of Scotch whisky. The bottle was passed around and emptied in less than a minute.

None of the seamen appeared more than 20 years of age.

LUTHERAN JOURNAL URGES CONGRESS TO KILL DICTATOR BILL

An editorial in the current issue of the Lutheran Companion, official journal of the Evangelical Lutheran Augustana Synod of North America, urges congress to reject President Roosevelt's dictator bill.

"What Mr. Roosevelt wants is war—war fought to a bloody and decisive conclusion; that will make possible a dictated and humiliating peace," the editorial declares.

"But Mr. Roosevelt is asking for more than war. He is demanding that congress shall surrender its powers into his hands, in order to give him totalitarian rule over the country. This [bill] virtually makes it possible for the President—like Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin, Churchill or Petain—to rule by decree. Do the people of America fully understand what this means to our form of government and the republic?

"It means that Mr. Roosevelt, in setting out to destroy a form of government which is repugnant to all mankind, is proposing the same form of government as a substitute for the republic."

LEGISLATURE IN KANSAS ASSAILS DICTATOR BILL

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 24 [Special].—The Kansas legislature strongly opposed President Roosevelt's lease-lend plan today with the senate's adoption of a resolution asking congress not to pass the bill "in its present form."

The house adopted the resolution yesterday. Copies will be sent to congress and governors of adjoining states.

The legislative resolution, urged by Gov. Payne Ratner, declared "our national defense program should be carried out and material aid should be furnished to Britain without placing such unprecedented, all-embracing, and unnecessary powers in the hands of one man and without a complete surrender by congress of all its legislative powers."

Ratner had told the legislators that the lease-lend measure would bring dictatorship to the United States.

PLANS TO SEEK D. A. R. BLAST AT ROOSEVELT BILL

A resolution condemning President Roosevelt's new bill will be proposed by Mrs. Vinton Earl Sisson of Chicago, librarian general and national defense chairman of the Daughters of the American Revolution, at the organization's national board meeting next Thursday and Friday in Washington, D. C.

"This lease-lend bill provides for the most sweeping centralization of power ever proposed in this country," Mrs. Sisson said yesterday. "It could bring about a complete change in our form of government. No such power should be given to any person under our representative form of government."

WAR MOVES STIR A RISING TIDE OF PUBLIC PROTESTS

Illinois Pleas Pour In to America First Group.

Three developments yesterday added impetus to the swelling wave of disapproval directed against America's drift toward war. They were:

1 Unsolicited petitions urging defeat of President Roosevelt's dictator bill and calling on the United States to build an impregnable defense and stay out of war poured into the offices of the Chicago chapter of the America First committee from all parts of Illinois.

2 President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago received messages from persons in all walks of life applauding his speech over a national radio network Thursday evening. In this talk he warned the United States that it is about to commit suicide by drifting into the European war.

3 More than 500 persons crowded into a meeting last night of the Citizens' Keep America Out of War committee in the La Salle hotel. They were told that more than 400,000 persons had signed petitions declaring the United States should stay out of foreign wars.

Avery Brundage, honorary chairman of the Citizens' committee, announced that Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.] will speak at a massmeeting in the Auditorium theater at 8 p. m. tomorrow.

Protest Dictator Bill.

"From almost every city, town, and village in the stat protests against the dictatorship bill and against anything else which would tend to involve us in war are coming in," said Mrs. Janet Ayer Fairbank, vice chairman of the Chicago chapter of the America First committee. "The citizens of Illinois have awakened to the realization that we do not have to go to war and that our democracy will perish if we enter the European conflict."

Mrs. Fairbank pointed to one of the home-drawn petitions just received, bearing 97 signatures of residents of Henry, in Marshall county, and 36 citizens of nearby Sparland. It read:

"We, the undersigned residents of the 16th congressional district of Illinois, wish to go on record as opposed to President Roosevelt's policy and the bill now pending before congress for the purpose of giving him dictatorial power over man power and finance."

Names Go to Congressmen.

Another petition carried 213 signatures of residents of Amboy, Dixon, Sublette, Harmon, and Ashton, all in Lee county, and Fairbury, in Livingston county. "We want to preserve our democracy and we don't want war," this petition said.

Names of protestors are being forwarded daily to Illinois congressmen in Washington.

Commenting on the wave of approval which greeted his radio speech, President Hutchins said: "I have already received 175 to 200 telegrams and some letters, and there were only five criticizing my stand against our entrance into the war under any pretext.

"Most of these telgrams are from people I never heard of, from people whose names are not in the newspapers. Several of them mentioned that I spoke for the 'inarticulate majority.' Undoubtedly many of the telegrams—judging from names and addresses of the senders—came from people who really don't have the money to spend on such messages.

Response Upholds Poll Findings.

"The response seems to indicate that the Gallup poll is correct when its reports show that 87 per cent of the nation answers 'no' to the direct question: 'Shall we enter the war to save England?'"

Commenting on the statement issued over the signatures of 125 faculty members of the University of Chicago and supporting President Roosevelt's dictator bill, Hutchins said:

"There have been a lot of agents on the Midway for several weeks trying to get signers to that petition. They asked me to sign, and I refused."

Hutchins said there are 756 full time staff members at the university and that emeritus members bring the total to 800. A number of the signers said yesterday that their action was not a "repudiation" of Hutchins' stand and asserted that they did not know that the petition was to be timed to appear when Hutchins spoke.

BERMUDA FREES U. S. BASE GOODS FROM CUSTOMS

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Jan. 24.—A bill exempting from customs payment certain machinery, materials, and supplies necessary for the construction and use of the United States bases passed the legislative council today with little debate. Several members who said that building materials should be taxable did not press the point when it was explained that the bill's duration was limited to three months and that the United States is anxious to push ahead with the work.

Emphasizing the need for quick action, Colonial Secretary Maj. Dutton said: "The United States government is most anxious to get on with this work." He added it was fully realized by the drafters of the bill that there may be some aspects which are not entirely satisfactory, but that the matter was linked with issues "which lie outside these islands."

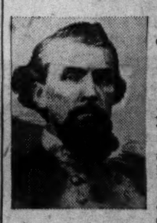
NAME CAMP PEAY CAMP FORREST IN FACE OF PROTEST

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24 [Special.]—Despite numerous protests, the war department today changed the name of Camp Peay, near Tullahoma, Tenn., where the 33d division of Illinois will train, to Camp Forrest, after Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest, confederate cavalry leader in the civil war.



Gen. Forrest.

Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, commander of the Illinois division, had informed Tennessee officials that naming the camp after Gen. Forrest would be distasteful to large numbers of Illinois citizens. Many others also protested against the name.

Altho Gen. Forrest was regarded as an able commander, he was charged with needless slaughter of Negro soldiers and in civil life he was a slave trader. He was famed for his advice that the way to win battles was "to git thar fustest with the mostest men."

The post, which previously was a Tennessee National Guard camp, had been named for Austin Peay, Tennessee governor in 1924-'28.

BUICK TO BUILD AIRPLANE ENGINE FACTORY IN CITY

25 Million Dollar Plant to Employ 10,000.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Chicago will be the site of a big aircraft engine factory to be constructed by the Buick division of the General Motors corporation, it was learned yesterday. The war department announced earlier this month that Buick would build an airplane factory costing approximately 25 million dollars and employing 10,000 persons.

One site under consideration for the factory is a 140 acre tract at the northeast corner of North avenue and La Grange road, near Franklin Park. The tract is served by the Indiana Harbor Belt railway. Other properties which Buick has considered include a large tract near the Electro-Motive corporation, another General Motors division, near La Grange.

Flint First Considered.

When plans for the factory first were announced it was said the plant would be built near Flint, Mich., the home of Buick.

It is reported, however, that Buick officials now favor the Chicago area or two reasons: First, Flint—in which are located big factories of Buick, Fisher Body, and Chevrolet—already is becoming overcrowded, and it is believed the addition of 10,000 workers would complicate Flint's labor problems; second, it was desired to take advantage of Chicago's huge pool of skilled workers.

The war department recently awarded to Buick a $36,497,520 contract to build 1,200 horse power Pratt and Whitney air cooled motors for airplanes. Harlow H. Curtice, president and general manager of the Buick division of General Motors, announced last Saturday that Buick eventually would have 125 million dollars in war department orders.

Capacity 5,000 Engines a Month.

Curtice said that when operations in the projected factory are at capacity the plant will produce approximately 5,000 engines a month.

On a basis of an average annual wage of $1,500 for each of the 10,000 workers approximately 15 million dollars a year would be added to Chicago's purchasing power.

The Buick plant will give Chicago its second large airplane engine factory. The Studebaker corporation will begin work soon on a plant in Cicero and Archer avenues near Chicago airport. The plant will produce precision parts and connecting rods for Wright aeronautical engines. Approximately 4,000 persons will be employed.

Defense Financing Provided.

The Studebaker plant will be financed by the Defense Plant corporation, a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. It is expected the Buick plant will be financed likewise.

Under terms of such agreements, title to the plant and equipment remains with the Defense Plant corporation. Companies so financed have the option of buying the property after five years at cost, less some prearranged rate of depreciation, or for some negotiated sum.

It was said that construction of two airplane engine plants in the Chicago area by major automobile companies might strengthen Chicago's position in the auto industry after the defense program ends. At present Chicago possesses only one automobile assembly plant—that of the Ford Motor company at 12600 Torrence avenue.

URGE SCHROEDER FOR POSITION OF G.O.P. CHAIRMAN

Mrs. Baur Cites State Ticket Victory.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—Mrs. Bertha Baur, Republican national committeewoman for Illinois, was in Washington today campaigning for the election of Werner W. Schroeder, Illinois national committeeman, to the chairmanship of the committee.

"Illinois scored the outstanding Republican victory in the national election last November and as a result of that achievement it is to Illinois that the Republicans of the country naturally look for leadership in the rehabilitation of the party," said Mrs. Baur as she left the office of Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr., of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican national committee. "And Illinois has the ideal man for the job—Werner Schroeder."

March Meeting Planned.

Mr. Martin, who managed the campaign for Wendell Willkie, announced after the election that he would resign the chairmanship in order to devote his entire time to his duties as Republican leader of the house. He contemplates calling a meeting of the committee the latter part of March to submit his resignation.

As a result of the upheaval in the party caused by Mr. Willkie's activities in support of President Roosevelt's war program the opinion is widely held that Mr. Willkie and his fellow eastern interventionists will be unable to name the new chairman and that the place probably will go to the west.

In addition to Mr. Schroeder, western leaders who are regarded as timber for the position include Ben L. Berve, Illinois state chairman; Arch N. Bobbitt, Indiana state chairman; Kenneth Wheary, Nebraska state chairman; Everett M. Dirksen, Illinois congressman, and John Hollister, former congressman from Ohio.

SENTIMENT FOR SCHROEDER.

Illinois, if it presses its claims, has prospects of naming the next Republican national chairman as successor to Representative Joseph W. Martin, who will retire, leading members of the committee from midwestern and eastern states said yesterday. Sentiment also is growing, members say, for maintaining permanent headquarters in Chicago.

Among those mentioned is Werner W. Schroeder, Illinois national committeeman. Indiana, Iowa, and Wisconsin Republicans report friendly sentiment for him.

Harrison W. Spangler, Iowa national committeeman, also is mentioned, as are several Ohioans, including David S. Ingalls, national committeeman for his state.

BERMUDA STAYS AFOOT DESPITE UPS AND DOWNS

When Trade Fails It's Tourist Who Pays.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 24.—There is a saying that tiny Bermuda, tucked away in the vastness of the Atlantic, is like a cat because it always lands on its feet.

So it is today. When the war started Bermuda's one big business, the tourist trade, almost completely evaporated. Then the coral island colony began to make money on the war. When this correspondent visited the islands recently Bermuda was very much back on its feet and had bright prospects for the immediate future.

For the distant future Bermudians are frankly worried. They are afraid the 6,000 Americans who will be quartered there at the new hemispheric defense base may rub off some of the old world quaintness which lures travelers and honeymooners to this British colony in peacetime.

80 Per Cent of Income from Tourists.

According to reports of the Bermuda trade development board, the tourist industry accounted for 80 per cent of the colony's income before the war and 25 per cent of the tourists came from the United States.

They came in swarms of 80,000 to 90,000 a year. They dashed from the cruise steamers and clogged the stores, shopping for British tweeds, cashmere sweaters, Scotch whisky, and French perfumes. They packed the hotels, cafés, bars, bathing beaches, and golf clubs. All in all, the tourist horde used to spend 8 million dollars a year in Bermuda. That's a lot of money to spread around in a country only 19 square miles in area.

Now the traffic in tourists is virtually nil. The Bermudians are worried because the last war ended in 1918 and it wasn't until 1927 that pre-world war figures for tourists were reached. A shortage of ships accounted for the slow recovery.

Bermuda's history is one of ups and downs. The land was discovered by the Spanish explorer, Juan de Bermudez, in 1511, shunned as the habitat of devils for a century, and then the English began to settle there in 1609 after a shipwreck of colonists bound for Virginia.

Business a Failure.

Tobacco growing was begun and abandoned because of its inferior quality. The Bermudians began manufacturing salt from the sea only to have the Spaniards destroy their salt pans.

Privateering and wrecking were the principal pursuits in the early days. Bermudians would light fires on their hills to lure ships onto the treacherous coral reefs lying offshore. Then the natives, including the clergy, sailed out to the shipwrecks in their small boats and picked them clean of anything of value.

During the 18th century the islanders carried on considerable trade in their small sloops. Steamships put an end to this. Bermuda was headquarters for confederate blockade runners during the civil war.

In the early 1900s the colony was shipping half a million bushels of onions annually to the United States, but a group of New York promoters founded Bermuda, Texas, and undersold the Bermudians. Introduction of refrigerator cars, which carried produce safely from the south to the north, and higher tariffs combined to ruin the Bermudians' market for vegetables in the United States. Today Bermuda's entire exports, including lilies, amount to only $200,000 a year.

Sell Tropical Weather.

Finally, Bermuda decided to sell its weather, coral sands, bathing beaches, gorgeous flowers, tropical moon and British customs to the American tourists. Having had conspicuous success along those lines, the islanders undoubtedly will go back to it after the war is over and the tourists no longer are scared to travel on the ocean.

At present Bermuda is making hay off the war. In May of last year the colony became an important base for the convoy system. Freighters and tankers making ready to run the submarine gantlet to England refuel, re-victual, take on supplies and juggle cargoes around at Bermuda.

This cluster of coral isles is expected to jump from 20th in the list of world's busiest ports to 5th or 6th when the 1940 figures are compiled. John Trimingham, colonial treasurer, supplied data showing how Bermuda port fees have risen.

With the entry of Italy into the war, the Gibraltar censorship and contraband control station was closed and Bermuda took over. There were 675 censors in the islands and 100 more expected shortly when this correspondent left there. The censorship pay roll comes from England. Three large resort hotels, the Bermudiana, Princess and Inverurie, languishing without tourists, were leased by the censors.

OPERA SINGER HEARD BY HITLER YEAR AGO ENTERS U. S. ARMY

An opera singer who appeared before Hitler in Berlin a year ago was among 165 draftees inducted into the army yesterday at the reception center in the 122d field artillery armory, 234 East Chicago avenue.

Robert Geis.

He is Robert Geis, 31 years old, 616 North Rush street. Geis, a baritone, returned from Europe last June after singing in 53 operas in Berlin last winter. Many of these operas, he said, were attended by Hitler and his aides.

Geis is a volunteer from local draft board 142. He said yesterday that he has a contract to sing with the Chicago Opera company next year and wants to finish his military service before then.

REPORT GRAZIANI FLEES AS BRITISH BLAST QUARTERS

Cirene, 50 Miles West of Derna, Heavily Bombed.

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 24 (AP).—Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, commander of Italy's army in Libya, was reported tonight to have abandoned his headquarters at Cirene, 50 miles west of Derna, apparently under heavy bombardment by British airmen.

Marshal Rodolfo Graziani.

With two-thirds of his effectives and much of his equipment lost in the Egyptian-Libyan campaign to date, Marshal Graziani quit Cirene for a spot more difficult for R. A. F. bombers to find, the British said.

For two days now British motorized units and airmen have been ranging about and beyond Derna, 95 miles west of captured Tobruk, where about 20,000 Italians were seized.

Strong Aviation Support.

With strong aviation support British land forces pushed steadily toward Derna, which is now said to be almost an undefended town. British and Australian patrols were reported west and south of Derna, which was heavily bombed yesterday, as were the Italian air bases of Apollonia and Maraua, farther to the west.

Aided by Haile Selassie, the dethroned lion of Juda now back on his native Ethiopian soil, the British also reported new blows against the Italians both inside and around Ethiopia.

To the north of the Fascist conquered kingdom, said reports reaching Cairo, the British have pushed more than 80 miles into the Italian colony of Eritrea, where they were said to have resumed pursuit of nearly two full Italian divisions routed from Kassala a week ago. The Italians, the British said, had abandoned the outposts of Keru and Aicota.

In Kenya colony, which borders both southern Ethiopia and Italian Somaliland, today's war bulletin said vigorous patrol activity had reached across a large portion of the frontier, but that "few of the enemy were encountered."

Casualties were reported inflicted on the Italians in Ethiopia itself by Ethiopian patriots on the warpath south and east of Lake Tana, in the northwestern corner of the country.

Derna Bombed, Italians Say.

ROME, Jan. 24 (AP).—The Italian war communique today said British warplanes had carried out bombing attacks on the Libyan base of Derna, and that Italian planes had machine gunned British mechanized forces in the Tobruk zone.

The German air corps, meanwhile carried out another bombing attack on the British naval base at Malta in the central Mediterranean, the high command declared.

British Bomb Sicily.

VALETTA, Malta, Jan. 24 (AP).—British bombers this afternoon heavily raided Italian bases in Sicily, from which German bombers also have been operating against the British Mediterranean fleet. The glare of fires apparently started by incendiary bombs could be seen from Malta, which is some 60 miles from Sicily.

LONDON, Jan. 24 (AP).—The Admiralty announced today the British submarine Parthian had sunk a 7,000 ton Italian supply ship south of Italy.

FAMOUS LONDON INN DESTROYED BY MYSTERY FIRE

LONDON, Jan. 24 (AP).—The Cheshire Cheese—once the favorite eating place of Dr. Samuel Johnson, more recently a mecca for American tourists—was destroyed by fire yesterday. The cause of the blaze was undetermined.

Most of the relics which adorned the famous old inn on Fleet street, London's newspaper row, were reported saved.

The first establishment bearing the name was wiped out in the great London fire of 1666. Its successor had been damaged in the great German fire raid Dec. 29 on the "City," London's financial district.

WILLKIE ARRIVES IN PORTUGAL ON WAY TO LONDON

LISBON, Portugal, Jan. 24 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie, en route to London arrived here today by Pan-American Clipper. Reiterating that he expected to remain in England about a fortnight, he said that he hoped to be back in the United States by Feb. 12.

A newspaper man remarked that he had lost money in betting on the recent American Presidential election and Willkie, the defeated Republican candidate, retorted:

"Well, I lost a job."

There were eight other passengers aboard the Yankee Clipper.

Britain Makes Two Deals to Let Spain Get Wheat

MADRID, Jan. 24 (AP).—Britain aided Spain in meeting an acute wheat shortage today by agreeing to permit 65,000 tons of grain previously acquired by Britain to go to Spain thru the naval blockade. Spain will receive 50,000 tons of Argentine wheat under a second agreement signed today, and 15,000 tons of Canadian wheat under the initial cession.

LONDON'S COMMUNIST PAPER TO BEGIN DRIVE AGAINST SUPPRESSION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 24.—Prof. J. B. S. Haldane, chairman of the editorial board of the banned communist newspaper, Daily Worker, announced today a campaign will be launched shortly against the paper's suppression by the government under the wartime emergency defense regulations. The campaign, he said, will be conducted in factories and workshops.

Prof. J. B. S. Haldane.

William Rust, editor of the paper, said an application will be made to a high court for release for sale of the printing plant seized by the police. Debenture holders, he said, would benefit from the sale. He put the circulation of the Daily Worker at 60,000 copies daily and 120,000 copies on week-ends.

HOLD LANGUAGE EXPERT FOR TRIAL AS WIFE SLAYER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 24.—Prof. Arthur Lloyd-James, linguistic expert and father of the "B. B. C. [British Broadcasting corporation] accent," today was committed for trial at Old Bailey court on the charge of murdering his wife at their home on Jan. 14. The professor pleaded not guilty. It was indicated his defense will be mental illness.

Witnesses testified that Lloyd-James, who is 56 years old, and his wife, who was 48, "were very happy—one could almost say, ideally so." The defendant was said to have told the police he had committed the crime so his wife "would die happy." He is alleged to have killed her with a hammer and fork.

A letter written by the slain woman was introduced into the testimony. It was written on the day before the murder. The letter said: "Yesterday I went to fetch Arthur [from a nursing home]. He definitely is better and does not talk so much about himself and his troubles, but he cannot concentrate on anything yet. He does not want to write or read."

BRITAIN SILENT ON TESTIMONY OF COL. LINDBERGH

LONDON, Jan. 24 (AP).—British officials and editorial writers gave the silent treatment today to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's testimony yesterday before the house foreign affairs committee in Washington, D. C.

Unofficially it was said that Lindbergh "still is a name to conjure with in America and his testimony undoubtedly was the most effective of the lease-lend bill opponents."

Lindbergh's testimony was played up in the morning papers, but there was no accompanying comment.

Germans Praise Lindbergh.

BERLIN, Jan. 24 (AP).—"Hats off to Charles Lindbergh for the courage shown," was the reaction of authorized German sources today to the American airman's testimony before the house foreign affairs committee yesterday. "In view of the moral terrorism exerted by interventionists this courage shown is exemplary," they said.

ITALIAN 'WOLVES' DIVISION KNOCKED OUT, GREEKS SAY

Report Fascist Withdrawal North of Klisura.

ATHENS, Jan. 24 (AP).—The famous Italian Wolves of Tuscany division has suffered such heavy losses on the central Albanian battlefield north of Klisura it has been withdrawn and a new commander appointed to reorganize it, Greek reports from the front said tonight.

Other Italian troops also were reported withdrawing in that sector to freshly prepared fortifications. A government spokesman said this withdrawal resulted from Greek occupation of new heights overlooking the Fascist lines.

"We have taken 530 prisoners in two days," the spokesman said.

Eight Officers in One Group.

The Tuscany division was thrown into battle recently after a hurried trip from Italy in an attempt to stem the Greek advance, it was said. Information gained from Italian prisoners said that at least seven Italian divisions have had to be withdrawn for reorganization because of "extremely heavy losses," the Greek said.

A growing number of officers among those captured by the Greeks was noted. In one group of 25 prisoners there were eight officers, it was said.

Greek bombers again raided Berat and Elbasan, communication centers for the Italian forces in the central and northern sectors, dispatches from the front said. A supply column was reported machine gunned.

Italians Take Prisoners.

ROME, Jan. 24 (AP).—The Italian high command reported today that prisoners and automatic arms were captured in patrol actions against the Greeks in Albania.

The high command also announced that British warplanes had bombed the picturesque island of Rhodes, site of one of Italy's mightiest naval and air bases in the eastern Mediterranean.

The attack on Rhodes, which still bears many evidences of occupation by crusading knights in the medieval ages, was said to have been carried out Wednesday night and was said to have caused "slight damage to private dwellings" but no casualties.

CUBANS INDIGNANT OVER BILL PROPOSING INCORPORATION IN U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Jan. 24.—Much indignation was expressed today over a bill introduced yesterday in the United States senate by Senator William H. Smathers [D., N. J.], under which Cuba would be admitted as another state of the American union.

Senator William H. Smathers. [Copyright: Harris & Ewing.]

Editorial and radio comments depicted the United States as the "everlasting, powerful octopus of the north, always ready to crush and absorb Cuba at its first opportunity."

President Fulgencio Batista, however, refused to comment. Some editorials recommended that he "slow up the pace of his recent promise that, Cuba would unconditionally cooperate with the United States should that country participate in the present European war."

Senator Beruff Mendieta said he would urge an extraordinary session of the Cuban congress be called to adopt a resolution against the proposal. Mendieta declared that "The resolution will be in accordance with the grave insult that Senator Smathers has bestowed on Cuba."

ARMY PROPOSES WOMEN'S UNIT IN AERIAL DEFENSE

Boston, Mass., Jan. 24 (AP).—Possibility of establishing a permanent women's unit for aerial defense work on a voluntary basis was seen today by army officials as the air defense command completed four day maneuvers in New England.

A blinding snow storm halted maneuvers earlier than scheduled but officers said they had won 35 theoretical victories out of a possible 50 over "enemy" bombers.

Praising the work of 180 women who worked at the Boston information center of the maneuvers, handling and evaluating information telephoned by 10,000 civilian "spotters," at 700 observation posts, Capt. Thomas J. Cody, the center's commanding officer, said:

"The maneuvers proved most definitely that women can do this work and do it efficiently."

He declared Maj. Gen. James E. Chaney, commander of aircraft warning maneuvers for New England areas during the tests, expressed hope that the women "will see fit to remain subject to call in the event of an emergency."

IRELAND HALTS CATTLE EXPORTS TO GREAT BRITAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Ireland, Jan. 24.—Due to the spread of an epidemic of hoof and mouth disease, the export of cattle to Britain has been suspended, Britain has been receiving 2,500 cattle a week. British areas which are dependent on Irish cattle will be put on short meat rations.

The latest outbreak of the hoof and mouth disease occurred at Abbeyliex, Queen's county, where more than 100 animals were slaughtered. Hitherto, the epidemic was confined to the northern counties. Its extension to the south caused apprehension because more cattle are fattened there for export purposes.

Irish farmers who have cattle ready for export will suffer because they must continue to feed their stock until the embargo is lifted.

PETAIN SELECTS NEW ASSEMBLY —WITH NO POWER

Council of 188 Will Be a Guiding Hand.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Jan. 24.—France's 20th century revolution added another piece of temporary furniture to its equipment today with the selection of a national council, a consultative body of 188 eminent persons from all sections of French life which will enable Marshal Henri Philippe Petain to keep his finger on the pulse of the nation.

All members of the council, which will have no legislative power and will be subject to summons by the chief of state, were chosen or approved by the marshal.

It is hoped that the council will enable the Vichy government more effectively carry out Petain's primary purpose—the preservation of the unity of the French nation. Members of the council have been chosen from all sections of the country's life and from both sides of the line of demarcation. It includes 69 senators and deputies and lacks only those conspicuously associated with the old régime, which lost the war.

Constitution to End Council.

The decree setting up the council specified that it will last only until a new French constitution has been promulgated.

In selecting the council Petain summoned many high personalities to Vichy. Some made the grade and some did not. Edouard Herriot, former premier, was summoned, but was not named to the council.

In the political sphere are Jacques Doriot, extreme rightist and enemy of England; former Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet; Andre François-Poncet, former ambassador to Germany; and Col. Charles de la Rocque, head of the Fascistlike former Croix de Feu.

World War Ace Named.

Gen. Laurencie, who was once Petain's representative in Paris, and Rene Fonck, world war ace, appear among the military members. Emile Mireaux, director of the newspaper Le Temps and former minister of education, also was named. Illustrating Petain's policy of conciliation with the religious life, Cardinal Emmanuel Suhard of Paris and Canon Polisman, and also Pastor Boegner, a Protestant, are members of the council.

Agriculture plays a big rôle in the composition of the council with 40 representatives. Labor unions, artisans, and workers occupy places stronger than in recent parliaments.

Roughly, the function of the council seems to be that of an interim organization for consultation and to enable Petain to avoid mistakes in judging public opinion on both sides of the line of occupation.

Chile Paper Denies Ibanez, Rebel Fugitive, Arrested

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 24.—The newspaper Imparcial tonight reported that official circles "emphatically denied" rumors that Gen. Carlos Ibanez, former president of Chile, had been arrested in Argentina and taken to Buenos Aires on a petition of the Chilean government. Gen. Ibanez fled to Argentina two years ago when a revolutionary movement designed to establish him as president was discovered.

3 NAZI PRISONERS LEAP FROM TRAIN; ONE RECAPTURED

SMITH FALLS, Ont., Jan. 24 (AP).—Two German prisoners of war escaped from a train carrying them to an internment camp today shortly after police recaptured a Nazi pilot who had gotten away in another dash for freedom.

Ottman Hollman, 25 year old pilot, jumped thru the window of the train but was recaptured a few minutes later.

"I am an officer and it is the duty of a German officer to escape if he can," said Lieut. Hollman. He had survived 52 hours in a collapsible boat after his plane was shot down off the coast of Scotland.

Captured in New York.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Jan. 24 [Special].—Baron Franz Werre, 26 years old, a captured Nazi flyer, who said he had escaped from a Canadian train carrying German prisoners to an internment camp, was in police custody tonight after paddling a small boat across the St. Lawrence river, using his hands as oars.

SENTENCING OF 2 TARS CLOSES FLAG INCIDENT: NAZIS

BERLIN, Jan. 24 (AP).—The informed commentary, Dienst Aus Deutschland, commenting on the sentencing of two American sailors responsible for the San Francisco Nazi flag affair, observed today that "it is evident that therewith the incident is considered closed" so far as Germany is concerned.

[The sailors, who ripped the swastika from its staff at the German consulate in San Francisco last Saturday, were given suspended sentences of 90 days Thursday and turned over to the navy, which promised they would be "adequately dealt with."]

'Frightened' Money Flees to Switzerland, Franc Rises

The Swiss franc yesterday rose .06½ cent to 23.28 United States cents in the foreign exchange market, reaching the highest point since late 1937. Foreign exchange dealers said the rise apparently came as the result of a flow of "frightened" money to the neutral nation. The Canadian dollar, after a substantial gain Thursday, dropped ⅝ cent.

SPEED UP DRIVE TO MAKE BRITISH GAS CONSCIOUS

Also Step Up Preparations to Repel Invasion.

LONDON, Jan. 24 (AP).—Great Britain revitalized today the on-again-off-again drive to make her citizens gas conscious and it was disclosed that the millions of men in the armed services had stepped up sharply their preparations designed to repel any axis invasion attempt this spring.

During the Munich crisis in September, 1938, 45 millions of gas masks were distributed, but now only a fifth of the population carries them.

To Hold Gas Alarm Practice.

To require others to do so, there were suggestions that a mask must be shown to obtain entry into an air raid shelter. The ministry of home security also was reported to have under consideration a plan for civilian gas alarm practices similar to those which the armed forces have been put thru.

Apparently the government believes that vast additional quantities of gas fighting equipment may be needed because it was reported that manufacturers of such equipment have been asked to speed up their operations, working 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Study Invasion Possibilities.

Conjectures continued, meanwhile, about axis invasion plans and how Adolf Hitler would try to land his forces on the islands. Some believed that in addition to a possible attempt to send hundreds of thousands of his troops across the North sea and the English channel in boats and barges, he might try to drop shock troops from trains of gliders towed by planes. All observers seemed convinced that the axis effort would be the greatest assault ever launched.

London had its fifth straight raidless night tonight. There were no reports of German planes over any part of the isles. Bad flying weather apparently was responsible. The English channel was shrouded with dense fog and there were occasional showers. The weather also prevented royal air force operations against Germany, it was reported.

The regiment, part of the 37th Cyclone division, is made up of five companies from Gary, two from Whiting, and two from South Bend. Col. John Ward Wheeler of Crown Point is in command.

The companies are below peace strength and are to be built up thru the addition of draftees.

Divorces 'Dictator'

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Sally Payne as she appeared after winning decree.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 24 [Special].—Sally Payne, red haired actress, knows what it means to be married to a dictator. That was what she told Superior Judge Charles S. Burnell today when she obtained a divorce from William Telaak, radio gag writer.

She sued under her legal name of Mrs. Patricia Carty Telaak. She and Telaak had been married seven years.

"He dictated to me everything I did or said. He wouldn't allow me to have children, told me what to eat, what to wear, and how to walk. He even insisted that when I walked I keep my right toe pointed in," she testified.

Also, he wouldn't permit his wife to drink milk or eat liver or oysters, according to the testimony.

NAZIS ORDER 13 POLES TO DIE FOR GERMAN KILLINGS

BERLIN, Jan. 24 (AP).—A DNB, German official news agency, dispatch from Posen today said a special court had imposed death sentences on 13 of 22 Poles accused of murdering German nationals in September, 1939, the month of the German invasion.

Several were said to have confessed, the agency said. DNB said the Poles were members of "Obrona Narodowa," an organization of militia character. They were accused of killing 36 German men and women at the beginning of the war.

BAN ON LIPSTICK FOR NURSES STIRS BRITISH TEMPEST

Hospitals Object to Its Use; Employes Differ.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 24.—London doctors and hospital matrons today defended Sir Archibald Home, county director of the Suffolk Red Cross, who yesterday objected to the use of lipstick by Mrs. C. D. Fellowes, attractive assistant commandant of a hospital in his area.

"The ban on lipstick for nurses in uniform is not the result of narrow mindedness, but of the necessity that nurses be as clean as possible and not use anything that might prove to be a germ carrier," hospital authorities said.

Dons Civilian Dress.

Mrs. Fellowes, the wife of a major, argued that her job was an administrative one and was not bringing her into direct contact with infectious cases. Instead of removing her lipstick, she exchanged her uniform for civilian dress and continued her work.

Despite hygienic reason for barring nurses from using lipstick, several of them said: "If the authorities enforce the rule against conspicuous lipstick, they will have to sack many of their leading members. Many go about in uniform not only with lipstick but with eye shadow and rouge as well."

The use of lipstick is tolerated by Red Cross directors in some areas "if inconspicuous."

Silk Hose Appear Again.

The government announced that silk hose, which were withdrawn from the market except for existing stocks in retail shops, may reappear for sale.

The reason is that millions of pairs lying undyed in warehouses have failed to find a foreign market and will be released to retailers to prevent them from rotting. The price, however, will be double.

Sportsmen are encountering difficulties. A question scheduled to arise in parliament soon demands a ban on stag hunting and "other blood sports" owing "to the cruelty and wastage of national effort."

GERMAN MAGAZINE CHARGES ROOSEVELT MISINTERPRETS PACT

BERLIN, Jan. 24 (AP).—The magazine Berlin-Rome-Tokio, which usually and accurately reflects German foreign office views, declared today that the signatories of the three-power pact would carry out their agreement "to the fullest extent against any aggression."

An article, written by Karl Megerle, a journalist who enjoys the confidence of Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, charged that President Roosevelt had misinterpreted the pact by ascribing to it aggressive intentions by Germany, Italy, and Japan.

The article asserted that the "real effort" at domination of the world comes from the democracies, and added, "but the world is not and will not be Anglo-Saxon."

SIAMESE ACCEPT JAP MEDIATION IN INDO-CHINA WAR

TOKIO, Japan, Jan. 24 (AP).—The Thai [Siamese] government at Bangkok has accepted the offer of the Japanese government to mediate the undeclared border warfare between Thai and French Indo-China and the conferences will begin here soon, the cabinet information bureau announced today.

The Vichy government previously accepted Japan's offer.

Siam Reports Air Raids.

BANGKOK, Thailand, Jan. 24 (AP).—The high command today announced the Thailand [Siamese] air force had carried out widespread air raids on the Cambodia border area of French Indo-China in retaliation for new French air attacks on Thai towns.

WARNS SPAIN MAY HALT FRENCH SHIP WITH REFUGEES

MADRID, Spain, Jan. 24.—Incensed by a report that the Vichy, France, government has permitted 150 Spaniards, including Niceto Alcala Zamora, first president of the republic, to leave for South America, the Falange organ Arriba today warned that Spain "may intercept the ship."

According to Spanish papers, the 10,000 ton French ship Alsina left Marseilles for South America with about 1,000 refugees. Arriba expressed annoyance because Jews were aboard, saying they were going to an easy life and a soft climate, instead of to the penal colonies of French Guiana.

As a question of "Spanish honor," the paper said it was interested in the "assassins" that France is turning loose. Arriba said "most of the names of those aboard the Alsina would be found in the files of the Spanish police."

GIRL, 15, BECOMES HIGH CONSTABLE OF SCOTLAND

LONDON, Jan. 24 (AP).—Lady Diana Denyse Hay, now 15 years old, today became the holder of the ancient title of Lord High Constable of Scotland upon the death of her father, Josslyn Victor Hay, earl of Erroll, in an automobile accident in Nairobi, Kenya colony, Africa. He was 35 years old and had succeeded to both titles in 1928 on the death of his father.

Only once before has a woman held the constable's title, which was granted by Robert Bruce in 1314. That was in 1717 when Charles, a bachelor and the 13th earl, was succeeded by his sister, May, as countess. Lady Diana now becomes countess of Erroll.

The earl's secondary and newer title of Baron Kilmarnock, created in 1831 and carrying a seat in the house of lords, goes to his brother, Gilbert Hay, an artillery lieutenant.

URGES CHANGES TO MAKE AGENCY RULINGS FAIRER

Favors Separate 'Judges' and 'Prosecutors.'

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24 [Special].—Far reaching changes in administrative procedure were recommended today in a voluminous report finally made by a special committee appointed two years ago at the direction of President Roosevelt.

The committee was highly critical of some current practices and proposed the separation of the judicial and prosecutive functions of federal agencies. However, a majority of the committee opposed any extension of court reviews of agency decisions as was provided for in the Walter-Logan bill.

Set Up to Offset Pressure.

It was recalled that the committee was set up to offset the pressure for adoption of that bill, which was designed to curb New Deal burocracy. Whenever renewed demands were made for passage of the bill, the administration always replied that it had a committee working on the subject and that definite action must await completion of the study.

It was considered significant that the report was not made until after the President had an excuse to veto the Walter-Logan bill after it had been passed at the last session of congress.

Recommendations of Committee.

The committee's study of administrative practices embraced 33 agencies and departments, among them the power commission, trade commission, and labor board. Its report made these overall recommendations:

1. Creation of an office of federal administrative procedure to review the procedures and practices of administrative agencies. This would be composed of a director appointed by the President, an associate justice of the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, and the director of the administrative office for the United States courts.

2. Separation of judicial and prosecutive functions by creating a new corps of officers to be known as "hearing commissioners." They would function much as trial judges, with appeal from their decisions being to the agency. They would operate as a "separate unit entirely divorced from any investigative or prosecutive activities."

Standardization of Procedure.

3. Some standardization of the procedure for issuance of rules and regulations, giving persons affected by them greater opportunity to participate in drafting the rules. In general, new rules woud not be effective until 45 days after publication.

4. Simplification of the administrative procedure "by extending the use of conferences and other informal methods to settle controversies." The committee condemned "protracted and expensive hearings."

5. The committee found that there was "inadequate provision for court review of agency decisions, both on the law and the facts," and that any extension of court review would result in "needless litigation, and would place an undue and improper burden upon the courts." It opposed creation of special administrative courts.

The recommendations were embodied in a 22 page proposed bill.

Dean Acheson, Washington lawyer who has just been nominated to be assistant secretary of state, was chairman of the committee which was appointed in February, 1939, by Justice Frank Murphy, then attorney general, at the request of Mr. Roosevelt.

Urge More Drastic Action.

Four members filed "additional views and recommendations" on the ground that the majority report did not go far enough.

Three of these—Carl McFarland, former assistant attorney general; E. Blythe Stason, dean of the University of Michigan law school, and Arthur T. Vanderbilt of New Jersey, former president of the American Bar association—joined in one statement.

They said there should be a more complete separation of judicial and prosecutive functions than proposed by the majority, urged some extension of judicial review of agency decisions, with congressional classification of types of cases, and declared there was a need for a legislative statement of standards of fair procedure.

Still another member, Chief Justice D. Lawrence Groner of the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, said that the corrective legislation proposed by the two groups was not "entirely adequate." He concluded, however, that the statement of the three members "more clearly points the way to improvement" and joined in their recommendations.

STRIKE OVER PAY VOTED BY UNION OF SHIPBUILDERS

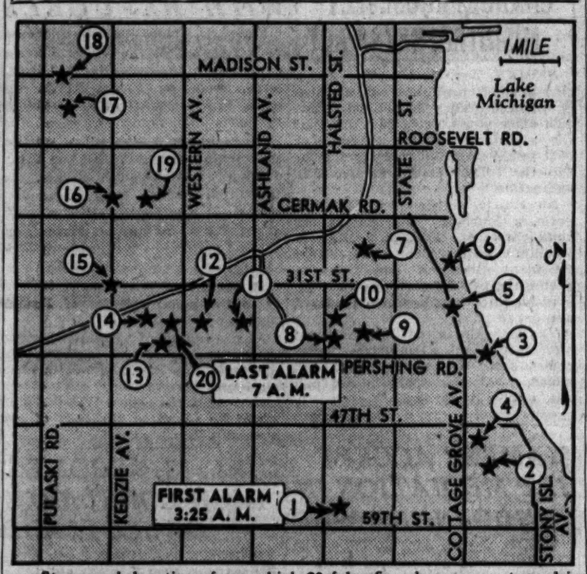
Mobile, Ala., Jan. 24 (AP).—J. W. Atkins, regional director for the Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, C. I. O., announced today the union's employes at the Alabama Drydocks and Shipbuilding company's yards had voted to strike until wage increase demands of 8 cents an hour were met.

The C. I. O. affiliate claims to represent 95 per cent of the 3,400 employés of the company, which has naval repair and general shipbuilding contracts. A large number walked out last night because of what they described as dissatisfaction with wage negotiations.

Federal Conciliators Bryce P. Holcombe and O. T. Flournoy, announced, after an employé mass meeting late today, they had arranged a joint conference between company officials and an M. S. W. A. committee tomorrow. They said they hoped differences could be ironed out quickly.

Union headquarters said "a few" A. F. of L. machinists did not join in the walkout, but later refused to pass thru C. I. O. picket lines.

Hunt Prankster for 20 False Alarms



Stars mark locations from which 20 false fire alarms were turned in during a period of about three and one-half hours early yesterday. The numbers indicate the order of the alarms.

300 Firemen Busy

Police and fire department investigators spurred their search last night for a mischief maker who turned in 20 false fire alarms on the south and southwest sides early yesterday. For more than three and a half hours he had the neighborhoods in an uproar as the alarms came in at short intervals.

More than 75 pieces of fire fighting apparatus, 300 firemen, and 50 policemen were in action, responding to the alarms and trying to capture the culprit. The man was reported to be driving in a dark sedan, occasionally doubling back on his tracks, but always eluding his pursuers.

"This crazy prank so inconvenienced the fire department that there would have been serious trouble and confusion if there had been a big fire anywhere," said Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan.

NAME CAPT. TRAIN BATTLE FORCE'S CHIEF OF STAFF

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24 (AP).—Capt. Harold C. Train has been designated chief of staff to the commander of the battle force, the navy department announced today, and will be succeeded as commander of the U. S. S. Arizona by Capt. Franklin Van Valkenburgh.

Train was born in Kansas City, Mo., in 1887, and was a member of the American delegation to the London naval conference in 1930.

Van Valkenburgh, who has been inspector of naval material for the New York district, is a native of Minneapolis.

Capt. Ellis S. Stone, naval attaché at the embassy in Paris until last April, was named to command the U. S. S. Brooklyn. Capt. Charles Horatio McMorris of Wetumpka, Ala., was ordered to duty on the staff of the commander in chief of the Pacific fleet. He will be succeeded by Commander L. D. McCormick of San Diego, Cal., at present on the staff of the commander of the battle force.

THREATEN TO CUT POWER IN STRIKE AT ALLIS PLANT

Tieup Marked by C. I. O., A. F. of L. Dispute.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 24 (AP).—Shutdown of the $2,000,000 power plant at the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company, where production activities have been paralyzed by a C. I. O. strike, was threatened tonight as a result of a dispute between A. F. of L. and C. I. O. leaders.

The day also was marked by a noisy demonstration of C. I. O. strikers at a meeting called by the A. F. of L. Milwaukee federal trades council. Previous to the meeting the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor sent out about 1,500 letters inviting company employés to join the A. F. of L., which maintains some unions at the plant.

Plant production activities, including $26,000,000 in defense orders, continued at a standstill for the third day.

Strikers Boo at Meeting.

The power plant shutdown, with possible resultant damage to costly equipment, was threatened after leaders of the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers union sought to require A. F. of L. maintenance men to sign statements agreeing not to take part in any future A. F. of L. plant organizing activities. The signatures were a prerequisite to the granting of permission to enter the plant.

The demonstration at the trades council meeting occurred after J. F. Friedrick, council general organizer, stated the A. F. of L.'s position in the strike.

C. I. O. strikers who had packed the meeting jeered, booed and demanded to be heard. A half dozen policemen walked into the hall at this point and after prolonged gavel pounding, order was restored.

ORDNANCE PARTS RELEASED.

Army ordnance officials yesterday announced an agreement with C. I. O. union officials at Milwaukee, Wis., by which 19 important machine parts needed in defense work will be shipped from the strike bound Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company plant in West Allis.

Col. Donald Armstrong, executive officer of the army's Chicago ordnance district, which includes Wisconsin, announced the agreement.

Needed in Cleveland.

Ordnance officials at Washington, D. C., notified Col. Armstrong Thursday that the machine parts—known as Texrope drives — were badly needed by the National Acme company in Cleveland which is building machinery to be used in ordnance production.

New $450,000 Hospital Planned at Scott Field

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24 (AP).—Senator Scott W. Lucas [D., Ill.] said today the war department had informed him it would erect a hospital and infirmary and one barracks at Scott Field, Ill., at a total estimated cost of $450,000. The department said the hospital would be of 295 bed capacity and of the cantonment type, intended to relieve crowding in the present facilities.

9 LIEUTENANTS VICTIMS OF RANK DISCRIMINATION

New York, Jan. 24 (AP).—Nine army pursuit planes, returning to Mitchel field, N. Y., from the air defense command exercises today, were forced down by snow at Suffolk field, about 50 miles away, and the pilots asked for transportation to Mitchel field.

On one of New York's wintriest evenings the following teletype exchanges then took place:

SUFFOLK: Please send transportation for nine pilots. Staff cars with heaters preferred."

MITCHEL: "Transportation for Suffolk departing Mitchel 4:30. No cars available. Have to send two-ton truck. Post guard on airplanes."

SUFFOLK: "If you're joking, it isn't funny. Truck insult. Request suitable transportation."

MITCHEL: "Not enough rank in your detachment, if totaled and compounded, to even sit in a staff car. Upon your return, heating facilities will be placed at your disposal."

The truck was dispatched. The pursuit pilots are lieutenants.

Vet Jumps in Frozen Creek to Rescue Two Children

Kokomo, Ind., Jan. 24 [Special].—Bobby and Mary Cardwell, 9 and 7 years old, owed their lives today to Roy Rooney, 42, a bakery employé and world war veteran. Rooney saw the children struggling in a creek where they were plunged when ice on which they were playing gave way. He broke thru the ice, swam to the youngsters and pulled them to safety. All three are suffering from exposure.

PROBE INDICATED OF GLAZIER UNION CZAR'S INCOME

Federal Agents Get Writ to Seize Records.

The intention of the government to investigate the income of George H. Meyers, czar and business agent of the glaziers' union, became apparent yesterday in federal district court.

George H. Meyers.

Judge Philip L. Sullivan granted E. C. Wright, chief internal revenue agent, permission to take possession of the records of 29 glass manufacturing companies, obtained during the recent antitrust investigation of the glazing industry.

On Dec. 16 revenue agents were permitted by court order to examine these records, consisting of canceled checks, cash disbursements, receipts, and ledger accounts.

Loss of Records Feared.

Observers said that the fact the agents now want the records in their custody indicated their investigation is to continue. Paul Ziffren, assistant district attorney, who presented Wright's petition, said the revenue department feared the records might become unavailable if returned to the companies now.

The government's antitrust case, which alleged a price fixing conspiracy between glass manufacturers and the union, ended Wednesday. Fourteen corporate and individual defendants were fined a total of $31,003.

Maximum fines of $5,000 each were assessed against three business agents of Glaziers' local, No. 27, of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators, and Paperhangers of America—Meyers, Max Glass, and Charles Pfeiffer. Meyers was fined $5,000 in a similar antitrust case in 1929.

Contract Payoff Charged.

In the case just closed Meyers and his aids were accused of collecting nearly $100,000 in tribute from glass contractors from September, 1936, to May, 1939. This was termed the price demanded by the union officials for policing the industry and was paid at the rate of $1.50 a day for every union member at work.

Leo Tierney, special assistant attorney general, who handled the antitrust case, said Meyers' salary from the union is $7,800 a year and the other agents get $5,000 each.

The union has approximately 500 members. They are paid $13.60 a day, and work is prorated among all members so each gets at least two days' work a week, according to union sources. Their dues are $25 every three months.

On this basis, it was estimated the union treasury receives $50,000 annually in dues. The initiation is said to range from $500 to $1,500. If only 200 members work every day of a five day week, the treasury would receive an additional $78,000 annually from glass contractors.

The union pays no sick benefits, unemployment insurance, hospitalization, or death benefits.

300 ON SIT DOWN STRIKE IN C. I. O. STEEL DISPUTE

Bethlehem, Pa., Jan. 24 (AP).—Work was interrupted today in three departments of the Bethlehem Steel company's big plant here.

A company official said 300 men went on a sitdown strike at the billet yard, bridge shops, and tool steel department. Howard T. Curtiss of the C. I. O. Steel Workers Organizing committee, said workers staged a "demonstration" and that as a result about 5,000 were "thrown out" of the plant.

The company, which holds millions of dollars of defense contracts, was reported operating normally tonight. It was denied that any workers were ejected. Curtiss said the plant employs about 6,000 men on each of three shifts and that 3,000 reported for work on the night shift.

2 WOMEN HURT IN TRUCK CLASH ON PICKET LINE

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 24 (AP).—Two women were injured, one seriously, today when a crowd of 250 men and women stormed a truck as the driver attempted to drive thru a picket line in front of the Amalgamated Leather company plant, where a strike is in progress.

Mrs. Nellie Gorok, 48, who was accidentally thrown in front of the truck by the surging crowd, was in a serious condition.

Mrs. Annie Ckeroski, 51, the second victim, was discharged after treatment for abrasions of the forehead, right thigh, left ankle and chest.

Police said that at least a dozen strikers sustained less serious injuries.

Judge, 77, Who Doomed Hauptmann to Die, Retires

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 24 (AP).—Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, 77 years old, New Jersey Supreme court jurist who sentenced Bruno Richard Hauptmann to the electric chair, retired today. In ill health for several years, the white haired justice said, "I figure I'm entitled to a rest now." He had been appointed to the court in 1906.

CRUISE VESSEL LOSES BOATS IN ATLANTIC STORM

New York, Jan. 24 (AP).—A storm-tossed passenger ship returned today from a 12 day cruise to Caribbean ports a short time after a trans-Atlantic liner radioed that she also had encountered a storm and would arrive two days late.

Battered by mountainous waves that smashed two of her lifeboats, damaged five others and injured 11 passengers and crewmen, the Grace liner Santa Rosa reached port a day behind schedule after a layover at Bermuda for repairs and supplies.

Capt. Curt Zastrow said the storm struck his vessel Jan. 11 and lasted 44 hours.

Originally due here Monday with 347 passengers from Lisbon, the American Export liner Siboney radioed that she had been delayed by heavy seas that swept over the ship and into passenger quarters on A deck.

The 23 year old 6,938 ton Siboney ran into heavy weather four days ago. Her war refugee passengers include 90 destitute Americans returning from Europe with the aid of the state department.

U.S.-North American Radio Pact Proclaimed by F. D. R.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24 (AP).—President Roosevelt today proclaimed the United States' ratification of the North American regional broadcasting agreement signed in Havana in 1937 by Cuba, Canada, Haiti, Mexico, the Dominican Republic, and the United States. Under the agreement—effective on March 29—the broadcasting band would be divided between the six countries to eliminate international radio interference. The agreement is for five years, but may be denounced by any country after expiration of one year.

THREATEN STRIKE IN FIGHT ON MILK INSPECTION FEES

McHenry County Farmers Issue Warning.

A threat to stop the delivery of milk to Chicago if the city council passes a proposed ordinance providing a milk inspection fee was voted yesterday by McHenry county dairy farmers in Woodstock.

The threat, tantamount to a strike warning, was the strongest position yet taken by farmers in the Chicago milk shed. Protests from all directions have been filed with the city council. Last week the Wisconsin legislature in Madison protested the proposal.

The proposed ordinance sets up the following schedule of fees for each 100 pounds of milk [46.5 quarts] produced: dairy farms, 1¼ cents; country receiving plants, ¼ cent, and city pasteurization plants, ½ cent.

First Such Ordinance in City.

The proposed ordinance would be the first of its kind in Chicago. Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th], chairman of a council subcommittee, whom the finance committee directed to prepare the ordinance, said similar ordinances are in effect in St. Louis and in several other cities. Ross was directed to prepare the ordinance in December, when the finance committee was preparing the 1941 budget.

The proposal was sent to the council by the finance committee Jan. 8 with no recommendation. Ross subsequently held a public hearing, at which dairy farmers, dealers, and the federal marketing administrator objected to the proposal.

Revenue Put at $395,000.

The measure would raise $395,000 a year in revenue, or approximately the amount the city spends to make milk inspections without cost to producers or dealers.

The McHenry county resolution opposing the proposal was adopted by 300 farmers representing 700 members of the 6th district of the Pure Milk association.

The resolution said that "the 700 members go on record as being in favor of stopping delivery of milk in Chicago if the city further presses its plan of assessing the cost of inspect- milk upon the dairy farmer."

Shippers' Parley Asked.

"We support our leaders in their fight with the [Chicago] city council in opposing this unjust form of taxation," the resolution continued, "and recommend that our board call a meeting of the advisory representatives of all Chicago milk shippers unless Chicago abandons this program."

The latter paragraph was interpreted to mean that the McHenry county group would attempt to persuade other county groups to follow suit if negotiations with the city fail. It was said this would mean a general stoppage of milk into Chicago.

Arthur H. Lauterbach, general manager of the P. M. A., said other P. M. A. districts are opposed to the inspection fee but none had taken such a vigorous stand as the McHenry county group.

PETRILLO WINS CONTROL OVER ALL MUSICIANS

They Must Join Union —or Not Play.

New York, Jan. 24 [Special].—James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians [A. F. of L.], today won a victory over the American Guild of Musical Artists, Inc., when the Appellate division of the Supreme court unanimously dismissed a guild action which would have restrained him from carrying out a threat to bar from concert halls, radio studios, and motion picture theaters instrumentalists who refuse to join his union.

After learning the decision, counsel for the A. G. M. A. said the case would be taken to the Court of Appeals, highest tribunal in the state.

The effect of today's decision would be to compel such instrumentalists as Jascha Heifetz, Albert Spalding, Emanuel Feuerman, Josef Hoffman, Lawrence Tibbett, Gladys Swarthout, Kirsten Flagstad, Grace Moore, and Mischa Elman to join the A. F. M. if they wish to make recordings or appear on the radio or stage.

The guild sought to restrain Petrillo and his organization from interfering with the making, booking, and performance of contracts and engagements of A. G. M. A.; from preventing that organization from contracting with managers and others on its own behalf and on behalf of other artists in the musical profession, and from coercing the plaintiffs and other artists into resigning from A. G. M. A. and joining the A. F. M.

Petrillo, in turn, contended that the A. F. M. had jurisdiction over all instrumentalists.

BARKEEP UNION EXPENSES CUT, SAYS RECEIVER

Normal expenditures of local 278 of the Bartenders' union were reduced $17,078 during four months under receivership, as compared with expenditures during the four months preceding the receivership, according to a report submitted yesterday to Circuit Judge Robert Jerome Dunne by Roy D. Keehn, the receiver. The report showed net savings of $7,292 during this period.

Keehn was appointed receiver Aug. 15 after charges were made that Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti and other members of the old Capone gang had seized control of the union. The union is under the jurisdiction of Judge Dunne.

The report, covering the period Aug. 16 to Dec. 31, listed the following expenses of the receivership: Receiver's fees, $6,800; assistant receiver's fees, $3,136.60; attorney's fees, $1,600; audit fees, $682.50, and other items, $2,270.90.

TWO BURNED TO DEATH.

Mrs. Jennie Douglas, 60 years old, and Frank Hortoff, 70, both colored, were burned to death early yesterday when an overheated stove set fire to a rooming house at 4047 South State street.

BEATING THE DRUMS IN THE JUNGLE.

Col. Charles Lindbergh, a man of science whose chief interest has been aviation, discussed house bill 1776 with congressmen, some of whom were eager to heckle him, to question his motives, to attribute unworthy intentions to him, and to challenge his knowledge of his subject.

His hecklers were men experienced in factional controversy in public debate and verbal encounters, and yet it was apparent that Col. Lindbergh not only was better informed than his detractors, as was to be expected, but that he was more alert mentally in turning aside their thrusts than they were in delivering them. In making their attacks they appeared to bad advantage and in meeting the attacks Col. Lindbergh appeared to good advantage.

Col. Lindbergh has studied aviation and has acquired an experience and a knowledge of the subject unparalleled at the present day. He was given opportunity before the war to inspect the plants, the planes, and the programs of the major European countries. If his reports had been given the intelligent consideration which they demanded, there would have been fewer misunderstandings and misconceptions, less illusion and delusion, as the war approached. When Col. Lindbergh speaks of military aviation, of what it can do in attack and defense, he does so with an authority which is indisputable. No one in this country and probably no one in any other country could offer sounder advice.

Bill 1776 is demanded of congress as a defense of the United States against invasion. That is the talking point. From whatever direction argument starts, it arrives at this central idea that, unless congress gives Mr. Roosevelt the extraordinary and unlimited powers proposed in the bill, the country cannot be protected. People who sound all the notes of alarm which can be struck from this gong find it difficult to land an army in America. They find it difficult to bring the enemy warships and transports across, but out of the air they can conjure the immediate peril. They fill the sky with innumerable squadrons of bombers which can take off from bases yet to be seized and bring America to its knees, engulfing it in the miseries of a Hitler régime.

With that vision of destruction they demand that Mr. Roosevelt be given powers which even he says he would be reluctant to take in any other circumstances and which many of the most thoughtful men in the country say would prove to be the ruin of the republic. "I believe," said Dr. Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, "that the American people are about to commit suicide." "I don't think the President can put the country into war," said Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, "unless the country first has been softened up and brought around to where it wants to get in."

The alarms which issue from the supporters of the bill are intended to soften the people up. They are intended to persuade them that they are on the edge of a great national disaster which can be avoided only if they confer upon the chief executive additional powers, putting in his hands a completely rounded out dictatorial authority to direct this and direct that, without a negation of his will remaining in any other quarter. When they have been softened up to do that they will have been softened up to accept the consequences. This is expected by the proponents of the bill and it is feared by the opponents.

Upon this subject Col. Lindbergh can and does reassure his fellow countrymen. The swarms of bombers with which the alarmists fill the sky in order to carry the roll call in congress are in their eye. They don't exist. "An air invasion across the ocean is, I believe, absolutely impossible at this time or in any predictable future," Lindbergh told the congressional committee. England lives with the German air force on bases less than an hour's flight away. The American alarmists base their enemy planes in Alaska, Newfoundland, Africa, and Brazil. Against these visions Col. Lindbergh outlined measures of defense such as are already in contemplation which, he said, will fully protect the United States.

Bill 1776 is not designed to protect the American republic but to lead it into perils seen and unseen. The seen perils are great; the unseen perils may be greater. The aid the country is giving to Great Britain does not require this act unless it is intended to soften up both congress and the United States so that America can be thrown into the war in spite of the present determination of the majority of the people to stay out of it. It is not a bill for the defense of America. It is one which contemplates a war dictatorship here under which Leon Henderson can draft everything.

It is a bill which may send the greatest expeditionary army the United States ever had to raise to South America, to Africa, to Asia, or to Europe. It is a bill which may make peace here as well as in Europe impossible in our time. It is a bill which may split what is left of civilization from the dome to the foundation.

NO TIME FOR BUCK PASSING.

The county board is in too deep a mess with its 1941 budget to get out by shuffling a few figures around. So far the only acknowledgment the commissioners have made of their plight is a proposal to cut the pay of county employés.

Pay cuts are bad business. They are bad business for the government, for the employés, and for the public. They are indiscriminatory, penalizing employés who earn their pay in order to oblige the political machine by keeping pay rollers in unnecessary jobs. Consequently they result in a disgruntled working force and impaired service. They do not last. Experience has shown that. A blanket pay cut, the easiest kind to make, is also the easiest kind to restore, and if the county board makes it it will be under constant political pressure to restore it.

Even if a pay cut for county employés is justified and necessary, it should not be imposed until the county has got rid of its hundreds of unnecessary jobs. There is no reason, except greed for political patronage, for the increase of approximately 25 per cent in the county's regular and extra jobs in the last eight years.

There is least reason of all for the job increase in the offices in the county building itself, including the fee offices where the number of jobs is fixed by the Circuit judges. The cutting should start there. In approving the continuation of last year's inflated job schedules in the fee offices the Circuit judges also approved the following statement by their committee on help:

"We also recommend that in approving our report, if in your judgment it should be approved, you do so with a clear reservation of jurisdiction over this whole subject matter. If in the course of the labors of the county board to fix their budget they should find that a deficit is inescapable, and it should become necessary for all of the departments of the county, including the offices under our jurisdiction, to make some salary or working schedule adjustments, then we shall be ready to receive any further communications or petitions of the county board, or any of the public officials involved, with a view toward aiding such readjustments."

It will be noted that the judges, by adopting this report, retain complete jurisdiction. They can cut the number of jobs in the fee offices. This is no time for buck passing between the judges and the county board as to responsibility for and power to reduce the fee office patronage. The judges have said that they will entertain a request from the board for such action, if it is necessary. It is necessary. The board should go back to the judges and hold them to their promise.

RUMANIAN PREVIEW OF EUROPE.

Altho the Rumanian situation is too foggy for much clear perception of it, there is a temptation to find a moral which in turn might permit a prophecy. This turbulent country has been under restraints as repressive as have been clamped on any other part of Europe under dictatorship. Apparently the repression hasn't been as competent in operation as it has been in intent, but in addition to the Rumanian authorities the Germans have been in force in the land, having it virtually in protective custody. Nevertheless, the factions find opportunity to break out and commit wholesale murder.

The process of government which must rely upon constant repression and which demands unreserved obedience to unlimited orders breeds the disorders which, it may be hoped, will destroy it. It is little tolerable when confined within one country and is less tolerable when it is exerted by one country in others, when orders are issued in one language to peoples who speak a half a dozen others. The control of Europe as Hitler plans it can never be stabilized by his methods without the presence of armed forces in every part of all the dominated regions. The frailty of such a domination is expressed in the very strength required to maintain it.

MARYLAND DRIVERS' DECALOGUE.

[Baltimore Evening Sun.]

If so august a body as the Supreme court follows the election returns, surely the police and legislative authorities who make up the traffic rules ought to take into consideration the daily practices of Maryland motorists as they are. After a brief consultation with habitual motorists and observers of human nature, we propose the following rules as suitable for adoption for the guidance of the Traffic court:

1. Never give a hand signal when about to make a left turn, or you may be taken for a foreigner.

2. When elderly lady pedestrian is crossing in front of your car as light changes, blow horn loudly. If she drops dead from shock, it is her own fault. Running over her would be yours.

3. When about to come out from curb, never look behind. It is the duty of the driver behind you to wear out his brakes trying not to hit you.

4. In planning for a right turn, get your car to the left side of the highway as far as possible and then turn right sharply across the bows of the cars behind. This increases agility and inventiveness in profane speech among other drivers.

5. Always drive in the middle of the street in a single line, leaving lane at right for fifth columnists and taxi drivers. Then curse and blow horn at drivers who pass on your right.

6. In driving with feminine companion, place her as nearly in your lap as wheel will permit, keep your eyes upon her face and maintain maximum speed of 18 miles an hour in center lane. Disregard horn blowing drivers behind you as narrow minded reactionaries.

7. Always blow horn when light changes from red to green. The man in front expects it and would feel lost without it.

8. When possible, turn around in the middle of a block instead of wasting gasoline by driving around the corner.

9. When you spy a friend on the sidewalk, stop quickly without warning and hail him. What is a smashed fender compared to the claim of friendship?

10. Always speed rapidly close to the curb in streets where small boys play ball unmindful of the passing cars. You may kill one, but they have to learn. Also your horn, which should be blown continuously at obdurate traffic lights, old ladies and slower cars, should not be sounded when passing small children intent on their play.

The above are but a few of the regulations which might be adopted if it is intended to bring traffic rules more into harmony with traffic habits.

DRAMA CRITICISM IN 1884.

We dipped into the files to learn what Chicago drama critics were like in 1884, and came upon a review of a performance by Mrs. Langtry [The Jersey Lily] that provided us with some amusement. Listen to Sir Oracle:

"It is wrong to infer from the performances given last week at McVicker's that Mrs. Langtry cannot act. All women can act, but some win the flowers and the applause of multitudes while others play their parts in the silence and secrecy of their own lives. What smiles are counterfeited every day by lips which pain has kissed; what comedies are enacted behind the painted curtains of society's great stage; what tragedies of self-sacrifice and despair draw to a dreary close, while the only applause is the throbbing of hearts that break! Yes, all women can act, and out of the crowds who go to see Mrs. Langtry probably hundreds could be selected whose aptitude for the simulation of superficial emotions is greater than hers. But art means something more than mimicry; it means a message of joy, or beauty, or of grandeur to mankind.

"Tennyson tells in his poem, 'Œnone,' how the crested peacock, the bird of Juno, lit in a golden cloud upon the treetops of Mount Ida. We may fancy how, when evening fell and that creature of gorgeous plumage had winged his way to far Olympian heights, the silence of the valley below was pierced by the 'melodious madness' of the nightingale. The peacock brought to the world a burst of color; the nightingale a song of passion. But the bird of Juno did not attempt to sing. All things are ordered well in Nature."

By this time the critic was ready to say, in 1,000 words, that Mrs. Langtry was beautiful but cold. Toward the bottom of the column, about 1,500 words down, the critic mentioned the play about which he was writing, "A Wife's Peril," adapted from Sardou, and remarked that it was "unsatisfactory for several reasons."

The article was not signed or initialed.

The Mystery of the Crossed "Cheque."

Let's try to dispel the fog which surrounds the English habit of crossing checks [Jan. 17]:

Skip for the time being the refinements and concentrate on the simple business of two lines crossing the check.

The presence of these two lines means that this check can only be cleared thru somebody's bank account, and cannot be presented over the counter of the drawer's bank. This affords a protection against it being fraudently cashed when falling into a third party's hands.

Now for the refinements. The addition of "and Co." is obsolete, immaterial, and unnecessary. "Not negotiable" means that it must come directly back to a bank and cannot be indorsed by the payee and used by him to pay some one else. "Account payee" means it can only be paid into the account of the person whose name appears as the payee. "So and So bank, such and such place," means it can be paid only into that bank. In theory you can add any other indorsements you may fancy, such as "payable only to a left-handed, cross-eyed Armenian at the stroke of noon, Micklemas," but you would run the risk of the bank thinking you were nuts and closing your account. Sauganash.

[Tell us, Sauganash, do English banks try to make life easy for their customers by issuing checkbooks printed in two forms, crossed and uncrossed?]

ENGLAND ISN'T BLIGHTY NOW.

No Tommy sighs for Leicester Square
Or Piccadilly Circus, gay;
No longer are they places where
A soldier spends his holiday.
No dim nostalgic dreams incline
To England from a foreign shore,
For England's now a battle-line. . . .
It isn't Blighty any more.

No marching troops with banners bright;
Not bands, but air-raid sirens blare;
No cheers—there's only breath to fight
The fierce incendiary glare.
No more do only armies know
The bitter, deadly things of war;
The whole Tight Isle's embattled, so . . .
It isn't Blighty any more.

WINNING AGAINST INDIGESTION.

WHAT do we mean by the statement that such and such an edible is "indigestible"? Only this, that—insofar as we are concerned—we are convinced that our gastric juices cannot dissolve the particular material. If a number of dishes seem to bring on distress we conclude that dyspepsia is the cause.

One's habits may be a factor. Every physician has observed indigestion in those who are "sitters." with the complete disappearance of all symptoms on resuming exercise. A strenuous and enjoyable day out of doors will not only burn up food but will stimulate greater production on the part of the stomach glands.

Most of us can persuade our alimentary tracts to function properly, provided they are not abused. Patients who protest that they never overindulge and are never indiscreet about "quantity" are usually guilty. Then, too, irregular meals and rapid eating, with the swallowing of plenty of air, constitute the "starters" in the majority of cases.

Not long ago a leading light in the community visited his family doctor complaining of a 30 pound drop in weight which had occurred during the last six months. In addition, pain was experienced in the vicinity of the stomach and he would awaken in the middle of the night conscious of thunderous rumblings. Appetite was poor and nothing in the food line appeared tempting.

Naturally, the medical man investigated the gall bladder, the gastric pouch, and the intestinal tract. No lesion was discovered after an intensive search. It was learned, however, that the patient took no exercise, rode to his office, hopped a cab to the restaurant where he ate lunch, and had been a "hearty feeder."

At the outset he was placed on a bland régime and, within three or four days, the soreness vanished entirely. Within two weeks he had gained a little more than a pound and he felt and looked better. A carefully balanced program was then prescribed and, within three months, he had regained his lost avoirdupois.

The explanation is obvious: inactivity slowed down all assimilating processes, and undigested edibles were responsible for his discomfort.

The following instructions, based upon common sense hygiene, will relieve many a disturbance—minor in character—altho the symptoms may appear ominous at the time:

1. Do not overeat, especially when fatigued or excited.

2. Eat regularly. Avoid piecing between meals. The stomach demands intervals of rest.

3. Take plenty of time—20 minutes for breakfast, 30 minutes for lunch, 45 minutes for dinner.

4. Shun very hot or very cold items. Ices and ice cream may be allowed to melt in the mouth until fluid is reasonably warm.

5. Masticate food well. Do not force partly chewed masses into the stomach with water or other beverages.

6. Four or five small meals are better than three large ones.

7. Secure sufficient rest—at least nine hours out of every 24 in bed.

8. Tobacco and alcohol are upsetting to some persons. The omission of one or both, or the reduction of the daily ration, may be desirable.

9. Take some exercise—suited to your age, strength, and occupation.

There is no ideal diet, because what will be satisfactory for you will not do for me. Individual tastes differ, but it is essential that the foods be proportioned properly to maintain weight, vigor, and well being.

EXERCISE?

C. R. writes: Is exercise permissible in pulmonary stenosis?

REPLY.

Everything depends upon maintaining the muscle of the right side of the heart in normal tone. Moderate activity may be permitted. If there is a tendency to cyanosis [blueness] it means that the lungs are not obtaining an adequate quantity of blood.

COULD BE.

H. H. writes: Can peritonitis be responsible for neuritis?

REPLY.

Peritonitis means inflammation of the peritoneum, the thin membrane covering the bowel and lining the abdominal cavity. Neuritis is inflammation of a nerve. The same infection may be responsible for both altho simultaneous occurence is unusual.

THE LESSON OF FRANCE.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 15.—There has been a great deal of talk about learning from the unfortunate example of France. There are two phases glossed over, however, which seem pertinent.

First, France was not prepared for war when she committed herself to defend the liberty of other nations. Similarly, we are not prepared for war altho we prate about guaranteeing "freedom for all."

Secondly, France believed that, if there was a showdown, she could depend upon her strong defense, the Maginot line. She delayed building mobile armament until it was too late. If there had been adequate material for defense the French morale would not have broken. The defeatists, the pro-Nazis, etc., would not have been listened to if France had felt able to defend herself. Had she had small mobile units to stem the rush of the battle of France she could have held out.

I, for one, would feel safer if we spent more thought on armament for our own defense and gave what aid we cou' spare to strengthen our Maginot, the British forces.

ENEMIES.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—Hitler is coming to Denver, I hear, and is not shopping around for a new mountain retreat either. From the commotion in Washington this week one would believe he is parked right on the three mile limit. Messrs. Roosevelt, Hull, and Stimson may be given the credit for sighting him, altho I suspect it was with the aid of a painted telescope in the White House water tower. Well, anyhow, didn't Mr. Hitler say he didn't exactly like democracy? However, I'm not so exctied about it, since he did not promise to "protect" democracies "all over the world."

I am worried about another gentleman, who, obviously, Mr. Roosevelt and the gang have overlooked. I refer to Mr. Kalinin, better known as president of the supreme council of the soviet union, or Mr. Stalin's stooge. He recently let loose with the following modest little time bomb:

"We live in a beleaguered fortress. Of course it is a tremendous fortress covering one-sixth of the world's surface. But the other five-sixths are held by our unprincipled, irreconcilable enemies."

Now how do you like that? I have heard no loud cry in Washington about Mr. Kalinin visiting Denver. That is what worries yours truly. Does it mean we are already part of that "one-sixth" of the earth's surface? It is well known that more than enough of Mr. Kalinin's pals are busy as ants all over our nation, even in Washington.

Are we watching the yard gate for an expected burglar while we know our house is full of them? M. J. SOENS.

MR. KENNEDY'S SPEECH.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—It is to be hoped that members of congress as well as the American people will take a lesson from the sane attitude of Mr. Joseph P. Kennedy. He made Secretaries Hull, Knox, Stimson, Mr. Wendell Willkie, and even President Roosevelt himself look like a group of hysterical women.

Mr. Kennedy has his feet on the ground and his face toward the republic of the United States. MISS JESSIE HARDING.

WHY EUROPE IS THAT WAY.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—I read with deep interest the distortion of facts which appeared in your SUNDAY TRIBUNE of Jan. 12 under the heading "40,000 Germans Ready to Leave Baltic Homes"—by Donald Day. His phrase, "lands Germany recovered in the Polish corridor" implies that Germany was the rightful owner of this territory. That is a gross misstatement. The lands in question are Polish and have been Polish since time immemorial and the Poles did not "obtain their corridor to the Baltic." They owned it centuries before Columbus discovered America. The statements that the Poles forced the evacuation of more than 2,000,000 Germans from these lands is another distortion of the truth. The German government, pursuing a ruthless Germanization and forceful colonization policy in these lands wrested from Poland 150 years ago, did not lay claim to such numbers of Germans in this territory.

The facts are that the German officials and a large number of Germans liquidated their holdings and moved back where they originally came from when these provinces were returned to Poland. The Germans who accepted Polish citizenship and assumed their duties as such were left unmolested. They were granted liberty and equality, cultural and religious freedom, which were denied to the Poles while under German rule.

I have grave doubts that the Lithuanians, Letts, and Estonians would welcome Hitler with open arms. While their lot under the bolshevik régime is undoubtedly terrible, they still would be making a jump from the frying pan into a fire, with probably no chance of ever regaining their freedom. They still have that chance under bolshevik rule, or misrule, as sooner or later there is bound to be a change in Russia. It may take years, but Josef Stalin will not succeed in ruling his people with the knout and bayonet.

A. J. PIERZYNSKI.

SPEAKING OR LICENSES.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—This morning an inspector from the city called to see whether we had applied for our garage license for 1941. His car bore a 1940 state license, no city license, and no safety lane sticker for the past six months. If we had not sent for our garage license, we would have received a court summons. What about this civil servant who is 16 days delinquent to the state, completely delinquent to the city, and at least six months delinquent in safety inspection?

GARAGE OWNER.

THREE CENTS FOR LIBERTY.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—The time has come for opponents of bill No. 1776 to rally in a convincing demonstration that the popular majority is against war and the implication of war contained in the measure. A good slogan would be: "Spend three cents for liberty and write your senator and congressman." C. B.

CONGRESSIONAL MAIL.

Morris, Ill., Jan. 18.—I note that some of our senators say that in the large volume of mail they are receiving the greater part are letters opposing the bill which confers certain powers on the President. This is not so hard to understand. Citizens who see nothing radically wrong with the bill are not saying anything. On the other hand, the German-American bund, the pro-Germans, the pro-Hitlerites, the slackers, and draft dodgers of the last war, those who would be slackers now if there was a war, those who are bitterly partisan, and those who seek peace at any price are swamping the mails with their protests.

I am an American, tho of Irish descent, so naturally I haven't any great love for England. But just the same England today is the only friend we have among the strong nations. I would hate to see her perish.

Just one more thing. The fellow that shouts that he won't fight on foreign shores but will fight if our country is invaded won't fight anywhere if he can crawl out of it. A good soldier doesn't pick his spot. He goes wherever the flag goes. VETERAN.

MUSIC ON THE AIR.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—Isn't this ASCAP-BMI feud ever going to be settled? I'm getting tired of the music coming forth nightly from our radios. If they sing "Jeanie with the Light Brown Hair" once more I'm going to start shouting. The Stephen Foster melodies are all right once in a while, but for every day and every night they are certainly boresome.

For a free country we certainly have some queer ideas of what freedom means. MARY M. ZIMMERMAN.

BIRTH CERTIFICATE.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a chance of getting a good position, that is, if I can produce my birth certificate to prove that I was born in the United States. I was born in the United States. My parents were foreign born and the name of my parents was such a long one and mispronounced by every one that my brothers and sisters changed the name to one that is more easily pronounced. The name has been changed for about 18 years. Could you please advise me:

1. How I can go about this to get my birth certificate?

2. If I can change it under my present name? M. F.

1. Tracing it is a matter of following up clews in your possession.

2. You cannot have the certificate changed, but it should be easy to prove by affidavits that you are the person named in the certificate.

ASSESSOR CLARK OBJECTS TO PLAN FOR BUDGET CUT

Would Be Inefficient, He Tells Board.

County Assessor John S. Clark objected yesterday to the 1941 budget proposals adopted by the county board's finance committee Thursday. Clark said the suggested salary cuts and reductions in appropriations for supplies and extra help would work a particular hardship on his office.

In a letter to Clayton F. Smith, president of the board, Clark said the proposals would result in inefficiency and not economy in the assessor's office, where much of the work is seasonal.

The tentative county budget totals $20,564,625, or $1,968,000 less than the 1940 budget, which included approximately $800,000 in election expenses.

Wage Cuts Proposed.

The economies would be effected thru a 5 per cent wage reduction for the 3,700 employés earning less than $3,000 yearly, and a 7 per cent cut to the 465 employés earning more than $3,000. Savings of $498,000 would result. The committee also ordered 12 per cent cuts in the appropriations for supplies, and for extra help and overtime. These would result in estimated savings of $979,471 and $490,851, respectively.

Clark recalled a hearing at which he said the county board had tentatively agreed to a plan by which the assessor's office would reduce expenses by purchasing less supplies, buying supplies at lower cost, and by turning over to regular employés some of the seasonally heavy work now done by extra employés.

Wants to Use That Plan.

He asked Smith to indicate whether the assessor's office would be permitted to operate by his [Clark's] original plan. Clark's appropriation in 1940 totaled $920,700, of which about $345,000 was for extra and overtime help.

Daniel Ryan, acting chairman of the finance committee which drafted the 1941 budget proposals, said Clark and all other objectors would have an opportunity to be heard Feb. 3, when public hearings on the budget will be held. It is to be voted on Feb. 7.

"It was decided that the arrangement adopted was the most equitable one, affecting all departments alike," Ryan said. "The necessary savings could not be effected except in the manner proposed by the committee."

14 Will Probe Indiana Vote; Missouri Officials Hit Coup

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 24 [Special].—The Indiana state senate today named five Republicans and two Democrats as a committee to sit with a similar group from the house to hear evidence in a contest of the election of Gov. Henry F. Schricker, a Democrat, over Republican Glen R. Hillis.

Senator William E. Jenner, Republican floor leader, explained to the legislators, immediately upon assembling for today's session, the nature of the election protest filed with the general assembly by Former Judge Virgil E. Whitaker of Hammond.

Alien Voting Charged.

The complaint charged that hundreds of aliens voted in the gubernatorial balloting last Nov. 5 in which Schricker won by the narrow margin of 3,963 votes. It asserted that these irregularities warrant a recount and the installation of Hillis as chief executive.

Acting in accordance with a previous agreement, Jenner then nominated five Republican senators and two Democratic members. The senate accepted the nominations by voice vote, as provided in the constitution.

Members of Committee.

The Republicans are Senators Robert Lee Brokenburr, Indianapolis; Roy Conrad, Monticello; Thurman A. Biddinger, Marion; Albert Ferris, Milton, and Harry M. Small, Auburn. The Democrats are Senators Roger H. Phillips, New Albany, floor leader for his party, and Charles H. Bedwell, Sullivan.

The committee will meet within the next few days with the house committee, which is also composed of five Republicans and two Democrats, to open the investigation.

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 24 (AP).—County officials—reluctant to surrender their November ballots—tossed an unexpected stumbling block in the path of the legislature's Donnell-McDaniel governorship vote recount today.

But Democrats stuck to their decision to "open at least one box Monday"—deadline for the start of an investigation of Forrest C. Donnell's 3,613 vote majority over Lawrence McDaniel.

Officials in scattered counties—Butler, Callaway, Morgan, and Jasper—said they would not permit the removal of their ballots from county limits without a court order. Morgan county's sheriff was instructed to use "whatever resistance necessary" to guard the ballots.

Doubts Its Legality.

Floyd Davis, Callaway county clerk, said he doubted the legality of the investigation and insisted only a court order would get that county's votes to Jefferson City.

Senator L. N. Searcy [D., Eminence], chairman of the investigating committee, said the first ballot box would be opened "about 4 p. m. Monday."

A member of the committee indicated no effort to begin a general recount would be taken, however. Several Democrats are disposed to wait until the Supreme court decides on Donnell's title to the governorship.

Searcy invited Republican State Chairman Charles Ferguson to bring three G. O. P. representatives to the capitol to sit in on Monday's proceedings. Ferguson said "I haven't decided what we'll do" and went into conference with Donnell.

Democrats Oppose Recount.

"Whatever the Republicans do, we're going to get this investigation under way Monday," Searcy said.

Opposition to the recount came from three Democratic senators—Allen McReynolds of Carthage, Francis Smith of St. Joseph, and L. D. Joslyn, Charleston—who previously had indicated their dislike for their Democratic majority's plan to bar Donnell from office. But today they carried their fight to the senate floor by sending up a "public protest against any further procedure" by the committee.

The committee is "null and void" they said, because Gov. Lloyd C. Stark vetoed the resolution. Its "partisan" makeup is unfair, they contended, and urged the legislature "to correct this situation."

347 STATE JOBS ARE ABOLISHED BY GOV. GREEN

$850,000 Repair Work Halted.

found that a Chicago contractor, W. E. Boyington, whose business address is carried in the telephone directory as 1632 West 75th place, got the greatest part of the unadvertised work.

Work Involved.

The institutions involved, and the amount of each contract follows:

Peoria hospital	$171,985
Kankakee hospital	143,631
Anna hospital	336,500
East Moline hospital	12,600
Jacksonville hospital	68,000
Chicago hospital	36,000
Lincoln school	70,000
Total	$838,716

Fixing responsibility for the award of the unadvertised wor led investigators to the office of the state supervising architect, C. Herrick Hammond, where it was said that all of the work was ordered by past directors of public welfare—A. L. Bowen, under the late Gov. Henry Horner, and Charles E. Day, under former Gov. Stelle.

Describes Reported Emergencies.

An employé of Hammond's office, who asked that his name not be used, said that in each case it was represented by the welfare department that the work was of an emergency nature, leaving no time to follow the procedure of calling for competitive bidding.

This employé explained that in one case a hospital floor had fallen thru, necessitating immediate action. In others, plumbing systems went to pieces with a spontaneity reminiscent of the deacon's one horse shay, requiring instant attention.

Unadvertised awards during the Horner administration, according to Brandon's office, were for the rehabilitation of the nurses' home at Peoria and rehabilitation of two wards at Kankakee.

All of the others were made under Stelle's welfare director, Mr. Day.

Gov. Green's announcement listed as complete the following work which also was let without bidding:

Peoria, $299,000; Kankakee, $63,000; Elgin, $19,000, and East Moline, $21,000.

Four Jobs Completed.

In his letter to Director Rosenfield, which Green approved, Director Brandon wrote:

"Since certain contracts were made on a time and material basis, contrary to the statutes of Illinois, I should like to suggest that in accordance with article 15, 'termination of contract' which is a part of all contracts entered into with various contractors for various types of work on a time and material basis, notice be served upon the contractors to terminate all work now in progress under such contracts, pending further investigation by your department and ours as to these projects."

GREEN ASKS M'CAHEY, OTHER OFFICIALS FOR SCHOOL BILL PARLEY

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 24 [Special].—Gov. Dwight H. Green announced today that he had asked James E. McCahey, president of the Chicago board of education; Douglas Sutherland, executive secretary of the civic federation and bureau of public efficiency, and John Fewkes, president of the Chicago teachers' union, to confer with him next Monday on the board's $52,000,000 levy bill.

Fewkes and Miss Helen Taggart, vice president of the teachers' union, asked the governor during the afternoon to support the measure which passed the senate last week and is in a position to be considered by the house next week. He is understood not to have stated his position in response to their request, but to have decided first to confer with McCahey and Sutherland.

BRIBE ATTEMPT TOLD TO JURY IN VOTE FRAUD CASE

William Tancig, 21 years old, 5007 Dorchester avenue, employed as a student poll watcher in the general election of 1938, testified yesterday that Lawrence Rasmussen, Democratic precinct captain in the 15th precinct of the 1st ward, marked ballots, assisted voters, instructed the judges to "make it two to one for the Democrats," and tried to bribe him and another watcher with $5 bills.

Rasmussen, a former deputy coroner, and John Franklin, assistant precinct captain, are on trial before Judge Stanley Klarkowski and a Criminal court jury on a charge of conspiracy to commit vote frauds.

Tancig said he refused Rasmussen's bribe offer but that later when they shook hands he found $5 in his palm. Tancig said that when Rasmussen refused to take back the $5, he turned the bill over to the election commissioners after noting its serial number.

STEP TO BEATIFY MOTHER FRANCES TAKEN IN ROME

Mother Mary Richard, provincial of the Sisters of the Holy Family of Nazareth, Des Plaines, received word yesterday from Rome that the first step toward the beatification of Mother Mary Frances Siedliska, founder of the order, had been approved by the Congregation of Sacred Rites at its meeting on Dec. 3, in the Vatican.

Mother Mary Frances.

Mother Frances was born Nov. 12, 1842, at Roszkowa Wola, Poland. In 1885 she came to America and St. Mary's hospital, two high schools and many parochial schools today are the results of her visit to Chicago. She died in the mother house in Rome Nov. 24, 1902.

The first step toward beatification consists of the appointment of a vice-postulator to promote inquiries in all places outside Rome concerning the candidate. Nineteen subsequent steps in procedure have to be accomplished before the late Mother Mary Frances becomes entitled to the prefix Blessed Mother Frances.

ALDERMEN DELAY O. K. ON REPAVING AND NEW BRIDGES

The city council finance committee withheld approval yesterday of recommendations by Oscar E. Hewitt, public works commissioner, for street construction projects estimated to cost $700,025, and the building of four new bridges at a cost of $3,120,000. The street work, part of a $1,560,025 construction program submitted by Hewitt, and the bridges would be financed by motor fuel tax money.

Action was deferred on the repaving of State street from Lake to 11th streets at $540,000 and Dearborn street from Lake to Van Buren streets at $160,025. The committee directed Hewitt to bring in an estimate of the damage done to those streets by subway construction. Under terms of the subway contracts the contractor is required to restore the streets to their original condition. Hewitt's estimates will be submitted to the subway department and in turn referred to the contractors.

Approval of the bridge program was delayed when Hewitt insisted that the city go to court to condemn two parcels of land needed for a new Canal street bridge. The city has offered the owners $23,805, and they demand $26,286. Ald. James J. McDermott [14th] contended condemnation litigation would take a year and was not worth the $2,481 difference.

SHERIFF ARRIVES MONDAY FOR 1924 MURDER SUSPECT

Sheriff Emmett L. Sha, of San Bernardino county, California, notified Cook county authoriti s yesterday that he will arrive in Chicago Monday to return an alimony row prisoner to California to face a 16 year old murder charge.

The prisoner is Harold Kirk, 45 years old, who was sent to jail in November on complaint of his divorced wife, Alice, of Madison, Wis., who asserted he was $7,000 in arrears on alimony payments. Thru fingerprint records Kirk was found to be wanted in California as the Harry Kirk indicted for the murder of James Winn, a taxicab driver, in 1924.

Kirk has denied he was ever in California and expressed willingness to make the trip. Authorities here said a fugitive warrant will be filed in Felony court for Kirk. Permission for Kirk's release must be obtained from Judge Cornelius J. Harrington, who sent him to jail when he was unable to post a $2,000 bond.

Former Convict Sentenced for Rape of Elgin Girl, 14

Edward J. Mapes, 50 years old, an ex-convict, was sentenced to 15 years in prison yesterday by Judge Charles D. Gage in the Kane county Circuit court at Geneva on a charge of rape. He was convicted Jan. 7 by a jury which fixed the punishment. Mapes was accused of having seduced a 14 year old school girl in Elgin while he was a WPA guard at the school she attended.

Seek to Keep City Worker Pensions in Armed Forces

The city council finance committee recommended yesterday that the city pay its share of municipal employés' pensions for all workers who enter the country's armed forces and that the pension and seniority rights of these employés be preserved. The committee asked the council to ask the legislature for power to take such action.

ACCUSE UNION AGENT IN FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT

Police Report Says He Had Been Drinking.

Hudson avenue police placed a charge of manslaughter yesterday against Matthew Martin, business agent and financial secretary of local 63 of the Architectural Iron Workers' union, whose automobile struck and killed a pedestrian Thursday night. Police charge that Martin had been drinking.

Martin was released on $1,000 bond and ordered to appear in Felony court Monday. First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley said last night that his office is awaiting a report on the case from the police.

Body Hurled 100 Feet.

The victim killed by Martin's car was Charles Rieger, 53 years old, 1887 Poe street, a civil engineer. He was crossing the street in front of 1811 Clybourn avenue when the machine, which witnesses said was traveling at high speed, bore down on him. Rieger was hurled more than 100 feet, the witnesses said. His skull was fractured and his right leg was severed.

Police took Martin to the Hudson avenue station. According to Desk Sergt. Martin Joyce, the business agent was unable to give a coherent statement and fell asleep. Sergt. Joyce sent him to the Central station for a sobriety test. Dr. Leonidas Berry reported he smelled liquor on the prisoner's breath.

Auto Skidded 98 Feet.

At the inquest yesterday Policeman Irving Dienstl of the accident prevention bureau testified that the skid marks of Martin's car at the scene of the accident measured 98 feet. He also asserted that Martin had been drinking. The inquest was continued to next Friday for further investigation by Deputy Coroner Eugene Ingles.

Martin is 45 years old, and lives at 2902 Addison street. He was represented yesterday by Mal Coghlan, a lawyer.

Church Giving Naval Students Dance Parties

BY JUDITH CASS.

IF the young girls who worship at St. James' Episcopal church are showing unusual interest and hearty coöperation in the parish activities this winter it is not surprising. By doing so they are helping to entertain the 900 embryo naval officers who are domiciled at Abbott hall on Northwestern university's downtown campus and at Tower hall, just west of the old water tower.

The 900 are being invited in groups of 80 to a series of dances at the St. James' parish house in Rush street. The dances are given every other Saturday night, with Mrs. Robert Flagler and a committee working with the assistant rector, William Charles Taylor, in planning the parties. They invite about 60 girls to each dance so there are the proper number of stags. The music is "canned," which suits every one, and both the young men and the girls who have attended the two dances that have been given report that they are good fun. The next will be held tonight.

Other Organizations Also Extend Invitations.

St. James' is not the only church organization on the near north side that is undertaking to provide some wholesome amusement for the young men who are studying to become officers in the naval reserve for some of the Northwestern sororities, the Fourth Presbyterian church, and the Holy Name cathedral have extended invitations to the young men to join in their activities.

The Young Men's Catholic club, which holds dancing parties every Sunday night at the Chicago Towers club, invites groups of the midshipmen each week, but they have to get special leave to go to these affairs, for 7:45 o'clock is curfew time on Sunday night. They may stay out until midnight on Saturdays. There are some Chicagoans in the present class, of course, but most of the students are from other cities. They have little free time, for their course is an arduous one, and they must be in their quarters by 9:30 regularly, but they are ready for play on Saturday nights, and invitations are more than welcome.

Days of First World War Are Recalled by Parties.

Welcome not only to the recipients are the invatations but to the school authorities, who are delighted to have hospitable Chicagoans introduce the out of town midshipmen to Chicago girls, and to see that the boys are offered some simple pleasures.

This sort of hospitality was extended during the world war on a wholesale scale to the boys of the army and navy stationed in and near Chicago, and many a mother on the near north side who sees her daughter depart tonight for St. James' dance will go back in her memory to when she was a girl, being invited by various committees and clubs to help entertain the soldiers and sailors.

Morris Eddy, Mrs. Seymour Wheeler's older son; James Fitzmorris, one of the Charles Fitzmorrises' sons, and John B. Lindsay, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lindsay, are among the fortunate few whose families live in or near Chicago, so they have plenty of places to go when they have any leave. The present class will be graduated on March 15 and then 900 new boys will troop in for the three month course.

Miss Catherine Patrick's Engagement Announced.

Dr. Hazlett is on the surgical staff of St. Luke's hospital, and is associate professor of the college of medicine of the University of Illinois. No date for the wedding has been set.

Tonight's Emerson House rodeo at the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman will be a complete bit of the old west, even to an authentic Indian dance. Ernest Naguawouma, full blooded Hopi Indian, will do a tribal dance in full regalia.

Gypsy Rose Lee has wired to New York for the cowboy costume she will wear when she awards boxes for the rodeo in March at the Coliseum to the man and the woman wearing the cleverest costumes tonight. Lillian Gish will award the autographed hat and belt which Gene Autry has sent. Larry Adler has promised to take charge of the awarding of several radios. Mitzi Green also will be among the stage and screen celebrities at the ball. A reënactment of the shooting of "Billy, the Kid," is promised by a group of amateurs.

Charles C. Haffners Giving Dinner-Dance Tonight.

The Charles C. Haffners will entertain at a dinner-dance in their Lake Forest home tonight for Mrs. Francis Mandeville Joslyn. Mrs. Joslyn and her children have been visiting Mrs. Haffner's father, Thomas E. Donnelley. Mr. Joslyn is fighting with the British forces in England.

The Saddle and Cycle club members will enjoy a duplicate bridge, backgammon, and paddle tennis party after a buffet luncheon tomorrow. Weather permitting, there will be skating also. Among those who have made reservations are Mr. and Mrs. R. Winfield Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Underwood, the Earl Kribbens, Mr. and Mrs. Aldis Browne, the Frederick Spencers, Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Durbin, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Watermulder.

An ice carnival will be given at the Indian Hill club this afternoon for the children of members. There will be races and a costume parade,

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 24.—By the time Howard Hughes has finished shooting, cutting, and scoring "The Outlaw," his new 300 acre airplane plant near Culver City should be ready to open. Hughes, who has done much experimenting with planes and engines, has rented quarters in Burbank up to now. A report that the new plant has been designed for conversion into a movie studio is declared to be untrue. . . . Anatole Litvak is testing Louis Hayward for a rôle opposite Mrs. H.—Ida Lupino—in "The Gentle People." The couple has never acted together. . . . There seems to be a trend toward department store sets. Over at RKO Sam Wood has an elaborate shop, including a fully equipped shoe department, for Jean Arthur's "The Devil and Miss Jones," and the Warners have equipped a store basement with hardware, stoves, refrigerators, etc., for "Miss Wheelwright Discovers America." . . . As soon as she finishes "Affectionately Yours" at Warners' Merle Oberon will go to work for hubby, Alexander Korda, in a new picture—which is why Korda postponed his trip to England. It will be the third film in a row for Miss Oberon, who says: "I can remember when I thought I had to have six months off after every picture—but work never hurt anybody and I feel fine." Korda, however, is down with flu. . . . Tony Gaudio is trying out a new camera gadget on the Oberon film. It's a big square of lights mounted on the camera around the lens. It kills shadows and eliminates much of the need for time killing changes in electrical setups.

Kenneth Thomson of the screen actors' guild spends much of his time devising ways of discouraging screen struck people from coming to Hollywood. Chances of landing anywhere are pretty close to zero and most extras would starve if they lived on movie earnings. But every once in a while Hollywood turns up a Cinderella story that starts a fresh nation-wide wave of hope. Such a yarn is Juanita Dolores Starke's.

The Warners yesterday took this handsome 20 year old off the relief line and plopped her into a part in "Affectionately Yours," here's Juanita's story in a paragraph:

Born in Cleveland. Came here six years ago with father, mother, sister. Sis now 15. Pa, Henry Starke, now an invalid but once well known in circus and vaudeville as a bag puncher. Juanita hoped, of course, for a film career, but until yesterday never got anywhere. She car hopped, did other jobs, not long ago became a waitress at Republic's tiny 13 stool commissary. Here an agent, Levis Green, spotted her as a possibility, promised to dig up a film job. Meanwhile, Juanita lost her waitress job, went on $10 a week state unemployment relief. This kept her and family uptil Green sold her to Warner's. Today, for benefit of cameramen, she's going to give the state back this week's relief check.

Mme. Kurenko Captivates in 'Romance' Role

Maria Kurenko, noted resident soprano, essayed the part of Margherita Cavallini last night in the Civic theater in the Uptown Players' revival of Edward Sheldon's "Romance." Altho Mme. Kurenko has played the rôle abroad in Russian and French, this was the first time she has done it in English. Appearing opposite her in the two other leading rôles were Leslie J. Walker as Thomas Armstrong and J. Bradley-Griffin, director of the production, as Cornelius Van Tuyl.

Mme. Kurenko started out with certain advantages in tackling the part of the Italian prima donna, for she has a genuine foreign accent [even if it is Russian and not Italian], the ability to sing whenever the stage action demanded it of her, and the innate temperament of a first rate opera singer.

In addition to these qualities she has an intelligence and sense of humor that gleamed thruout the lighter portions of the play. Her breathless joyousness in relating an incident that had delighted her was utterly charming. In her flirtatious or teasing moments she projected a slyness and almost impish enjoyment that captivated her audience just as in the characterization she meant to enchant the serious young clergyman.

The performance as a whole had the usual merits and deficiencies expected from little theaters. Mr. Walker's sincerity in the wooden rôle of Armstrong was the outstanding work outside of Mme. Kurenko's.

The play will be repeated tonight.

Army and Navy Ball.

The Army and Navy ball in the Gold room of the Congress hotel will be on Friday, Feb. 21, and not last night, as announced in yesterday's paper.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

A deodorant or an antiperspirant isn't a preparation to be chosen or used casually. But that one or the other must be used by every woman who puts the proper value on fastidiousness goes without saying.

It's a great mistake to harbor the notion that neither is necessary in cold weather. Warm frocks, fur coats and overheated rooms lessen your chances of going along evenly, without spurts of excessive perspiration. Then, in almost every day, there are occasions when you hurry, or perhaps get hopping mad, or scared or nervous. The increased tension will speed up the perspiration flow and, unless you've taken the necessary precautions, your clothes are well on their way to ruin and you're hardly to be described as "flower-fresh."

The best plan to follow is to use a deodorant regularly, to make its application part of your regular routine, winter and summer. If it's the kind of preparation that takes a long time to dry and that mustn't be allowed to touch fabric, the best plan is to use it at night, when you can give more time to it than you can spare in the morning. If you use just a deodorant use it after bathing as regularly as you use your bath towel.

Remember, in either case, to read the directions with the utmost care. Each manufacturer studies his product; he knows best exactly how it should be used, and you shouldn't follow your own little ideas about it. You'll save yourself possible skin irritation and be more certain of its efficiency if you follow directions precisely.

Lazy Day in Bermuda

Front Views and Profiles

Done by Goya.

One of the most fascinating personalities in all Spanish art, according to Daniel Catton Rich, curator of painting at the Art institute, is Cayetana, 13th duchess of Alba, whose vivid and capricious beauty looks out of many a drawing and print in the fine Goya show that opens at the Art institute next Friday.

The duchess, a spoiled and petted child, versed in music, French novels, and love, was betrothed at the age of 11 to the Marquis de Villafrancia. She soon tired of his anemic and fastidious personality and sought out bullfighters, actors, and artists to grace her salon. Her great rival was Queen Maria Luisa, the "ugly duckling" of the Parma court, who had married the Bourbon, Charles IV., king of spain. When Goya was almost 50 he fell in love with the duchess—she was 30—and after the duke's death in 1796 accompanied her to her estate in Andalusia. There he remained for several months, painting portraits of her, filling a notebook with scenes of her daily life. Several pages from this document are included in the exhibit. One shows Cayetana having a tantrum because the priest told her her face was pale.

A liaison which rocked the courts of Europe and finally shook a king and queen from their thrones is recalled in two great portraits by Goya in the exhibit of the Spanish master's work at the Art institute of Chicago. The first is that of Maria Luisa, queen of Spain, from the Taft museum, Cincinnati; the second, her favorite, Godoy, lent by Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick.

Maria Luisa was a scheming, malevolent and passionate woman, utterly without scruple or shame. A princess of Parma, she shocked Madrid even before she ascended the throne by slipping away from the palace to walk the streets at night alone. Godoy was only a handsome young Guardsman when she met him, but in a few years the queen had made him prime minister and a prince of the realm. Charles IV., good natured and stupid, was fonder of hunting than governing, so Maria Luisa and "The Sausage Maker," as Godoy was derisively called, since he came from a part of Spain which made sausages, tried to steer the country thru the storms of the Napoleonic era. Finally the people revolted and with Napoleon's assistance Charles, Maria Luisa, and Godoy were forced to leave Spain forever. The portrait of the queen shows how near Goya came to libel on a royal commission. The vulturine features (she owned a set of false teeth studded with diamonds which were her special pride) are set down with amazing realism. Godoy looks vain and complacent, but Napoleon, who admired him as the first dictator of modern times, later remarked: "That fellow was a genius."

Sigmund Levarie, conductor of the opera, The Armorer, the University of Chicago's department of music is putting on at Mandel hall Feb. 9 and 10, and Martin Magner, the stage director, were discussing the relative values of strumpet and wench in the translation of the opera from the German. Winfred Stracke, who sings the rôle of Stadinger, the master armorer, remarked in an aside, "That's no strumpet, that's my fife."

Clothing Union Concert Series Wins Acclaim

BY CECIL SMITH.

The Chicago joint board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America has stolen a march on all the rest of Chicago, by presenting a series of 10 concerts for small orchestra under the direction of Nicolai Malko. The fourth of the semimonthly programs by the orchestra, which has been named the Fine Art Symphony orchestra, was played last evening in the Amalgamated Center auditorium, 333 South Ashland boulevard.

It is a remarkable proof of the fruition of democratic education and taste that these concerts should be offered under the sponsorship of a labor union. By persuading the members of his board to underwrite so superior a musical undertaking, Samuel Levin, head of the Chicago joint board, has opened the door to a cultural achievement at least as valuable and progressive as that of the New York union group responsible for "Pins and Needles."

And so it happens that one of the world's finest orchestral conductors, with a top grade orchestra of 30 players or more, may be heard on specified Fridays out at 333 South Ashland boulevard, and nowhere else at all. The auditorium is only 15 minutes from the loop, and I am confident that many admirers of good music expertly performed will want to adventure out to this new concert hall.

The profundity and the eloquence of Mr. Malko's musical gifts cannot be overstated. He possesses consummate control of different styles, textures, and sonorities.

Every moment of his conducting is artistically meaningful and technically correct, and his whole energy is always spent toward the lofty aim of making each specific piece of music sound as it ought to, hang together as it ought to, and communicate its full emotional and intellectual message.

Leonard Sorkin played Bruch's G minor violin concerto in a mood that matched Mr. Malko's, with exceptionally sturdy and warm tone, and with admirable ease and security. A high point of the purely orchestral program was the G minor symphony of Mozart.

Who Is This Girl?

By Helen Topping Miller

SYNOPSIS.

Dining at the apartment of his employer, Harp Greenlee, a sheepman who has grown soft with city ways, Dan McCullough, manager of the ranch, San Mateo, meets Storm, whom Harp introduces as his niece, but Mac has heard him introduce so many women as his nieces that he wonders just who Storm is. Beatrice Abney, also a guest at Harp's, asks Mac about her ex-husband, an artist who is drinking himself to death near San Mateo. Mac tells Harp and Steele Dunlap, Harp's lawyer, that the ranch needs money to fight Humphrey Dane, who is trying to shut off the ranch water and is suspected of stealing their sheep. The next day Mac meets Storm again and finds himself falling in love with her. He takes her home, determined to have it out with Harp about just who Storm is, as Storm has told him that she herself doesn't know who she really is. Harp placed her in a convent when she was a small child and when he recently took her out, he promised soon to tell her who she was. They go to Harp's place and find him dead. Later, Gertrude, one of Harp's ex-girls, shows up and insists on staying.

INSTALMENT XII.

GROWING UP.

Passionate sincerity was in Mac's voice as he said, "I did believe in you, Storm—you must believe that. But I did not believe in Harp. I'd known him a long time. That's why I was startled—and afraid—afraid till it made me sick. So afraid I wanted to snatch you out of this place and run with you to the end of the world!"

But she was not placated. She showed him a strong face, and there lay in her eyes a sly look again but it was a look of storm, high and cold, a look like the wild wind that she remembered.

"You believed—that—of me," she repeated. "It's all so clear now—what I saw in your face. It puzzled me last night. Why——" she demanded sharply, "wasn't I taught anything? Why did they let me grow up—a sweet, soft, pitiable fool?"

McCullough went near to her, so near that the soft fragrance of her hair was pain on his breath.

"Storm—listen to me. I love you. I've loved you since first I looked at you, since that first moment. I'll love you till I die. I'd fight for you—I would have fought Harp for you, I would have wrung the truth from his throat—but he died."

But she moved away, and stood against a tall bookcase, her hands pressed flat on either side, as tho she could not stand alone.

"Don't be—sorry for me please, Mac. Don't try to—change things. Nothing can be changed. Except myself. I—changed just now, I think—in that room. I grew up. It—hurts a little, growing up all at once, suddenly, in a moment, without warning."

"Storm—I'll make you listen to me! Can't you understand? Nothing else matters except that I love you—nothing else in all the world. I'm not sorry for you. Why should I be sorry? I'm proud—because you're so splendid, because you're—you, Storm!"

"Because I'm Storm? A women without even a name? Not even a name!" Her voice broke a little. "You're trying to be generous—and I don't think I can stand—kindness now, Mac. Not now. Please go away. I'll talk to you—tomorrow, perhaps. I can't talk any more tonight."

She turned, and with a swift lightness, almost bodiless, she slipped past him thru the door. And there she smiled at him once, wanly, with thin bitterness.

"No wonder I remember the wind! I think—I am the wind! Homeless—and nameless and—lost!"

And she was gone, down the hall fleetly, he heard a door close with a soft slam. He sped after her, tapped at the panels.

"Storm! Storm!"

But there was no answer. He met Moran in the hall and saw his troubled face.

"That—lady refuses to leave, Mr. Mac."

"All right, let her stay. And you go to bed, Moran. It's past midnight."

"Yes, sir. You think it's all right, Mr. Mac? I think perhaps I'd rather stay around. I—know Miss Chase quite well."

"All right, Moran. You know best. You've been around a long time here."

"Yes, sir. I've been around. About Miss Storm—would you like for Maggie to stay with her tonight?"

"Im sending her to Mrs. Abney—if she can be persuaded to go. She's badly upset," McCullough said. "Where's the telephone book, Moran?"

"Here, Mr. Mac."

McCullough thumbed the pages, dialed swiftly.

"Mrs. Abney? This is Dan McCullough. Forgive me for calling so late but Harp Greenlee has just died. Yes, it was very sudden. Storm is here alone. Would you come for her and take care of her until tomorrow? Persuade her to go with you, if you can."

Beatrice Abney's calm and lovely voice brought him back again to a rational world, a world where women were decent and kind and serene. Even the sight of Gertrude's fox fur still lying on a chair in the hall could not spoil it.

"I'll come at once. It was his heart?"

"Yes, his heart. Thank you very much, Mrs. Abney." He hung up, Moran was still waiting.

"I'll tell Maggie to get Miss Storm's things ready," he said.

"Perhaps you'd better let Mrs. Abney talk to Storm first, Moran. And I think I'll go now. Will you see that Mrs. Abney doesn't meet—that woman in there?"

"I'll be very careful, Mr. Mac. But you know Miss Chase. She's rather—unpredictable. And will you telegraph Mr. Dunlap? I think he would be most insistent that he be notified immediately. He has always been—rather arbitrary about things like that."

"I'll attend to it. And I'll be back in the morning, but Dunlap will make all arrangements, Moran. Please see that Storm goes with Mrs. Abney. I want her out of this house."

"I'm sure Mrs. Abney will manage cleverly, Mr. Mac," Moran lowered his voice uneasily, "I heard what she said in there—about San Mateo. It couldn't be true, could it?"

"I don't think it could possibly be true. But we'll know all that later. Good night, Moran."

"The reason I'm so concerned," Moran followed him a little way, "I thought—perhaps you could make a place for me on San Mateo, Mr. Mac? I think I could learn to ride a horse."

"I don't know that I'll be there myself, Moran. I may be asking you to find me a good post as a chauffeur or something."

The street outside was quiet and almost deserted, a raw autumnal wind blowing. McCullough walked rapidly, breathing deeply, feeling for the first time since Gertrude had entered the room, clean. Clean and sane again. For tomorrow, he told himself, all this dark confusion would be cleared away. Storm would be calm and perhaps she would listen to him. He knew how precarious his own situation was now. There would be changes. But whatever happened to San Mateo, he would make a place for himself somewhere—and for Storm.

He walked all the way to the hotel and found Lank Parrish there, stretched across a bed asleep, fully dressed except for his boots. He shook the long boy awake.

"Get up and get your clothes off! Where have you been—while everything was going to the devil?"

Lank sat up, blinking, blear eyed. "What bust? Where you' been yourself?"

"Harp Greenlee is dead. He died about seven o'clock."

Lank's mouth fell open. "Dead? He can't be. Why I saw him——"

"I saw him, too. And I saw him die. Pull yourself together."

"Gosh," muttered Lank, suddenly sober, "what happens now?"

"Nobody knows. I just sent a wire to Dunlap. He'll be here in the morning."

"But—what about San Mateo? Gosh, we may not even have a job now! What'll happen to the ranch?"

"I tell you, Lank, I don't know. I suppose Harp left a will. Dunlap would see to it that he made a will."

"So—now what do we do?"

"We go to bed." McCullough said wearily, "Tomorrow's another day. And it will be a tough day or I'm no prophet."

He ached all over with weariness as he stretched out in the dark. Strange, he thought, staring at the ceiling, how change came, with such devastating suddenness. Out of a clear sky, abrupt and shattering as lightning, a blow fell and nothing was ever afterward the same.

And for these changes no man was ever ready. War and death and catacylsms of nature found them always surprised, aghast, scurrying unprepared, scattering like ants out of the path of calamity, snatching at the dreams, the possessions, the plans they had hoarded, trying to salvage a little and set life going again in the same pattern, when there was no enduring pattern.

No wonder the high gods laughed, knowing the impermanence and the futility of human scheming. Knowing that weapons and catastrophes were being forged at unrelenting fires, to ruin and destroy. The wonder was that men so seldom considered seriously these wryly bitter jokes of life, that they went on, building their cities to be wasted, their dreams to be torn to pathetic wreckage, gathering and hoarding symbols of their puny achievement, knowing, if they thought at all or read at all, that nothing lasted.

Good Morning!

A bright and exciting little mystery meller this, based on a new adventure of Ellery Queen, the up and coming young detective whose papa is chief inspector of the detective bureau.

Besides detecting, Ellery writes books about detecting and is always on the qui vive for a new plot. . . . This trip his eager news nose leads him into investigation of the strange death of John Braun, head of a physical culture institution. No sooner has he started sleuthing than he runs into romance—tho he wots it not at the time—in the person of gay Nikki Porter who also writes detective stories and whose model is—himself. . . .

Action spins along merrily and baffingly.

Mr. Bellamy—one of the most reliable actors the screen ever had!—handles the title rôle with skill and charm. And I shall say exactly the same thing about Miss Lindsay. . . . Michael Whalen is properly suave and sinister as the main suspect, and Marsha Hunt characteristically colorless as the murderee's daughter. I wish she'd take vitaminso—or sumpin'. . . . Other players are competent and so is the director.

See you tomorrow.

One of the handiest of new kitchen utensils is a griddle-grill. One side is a pancake griddle, the other a grill for meats. The grill side is grooved, so that fat may drain off and you won't get a fried product. I like this utensil particularly well for cooking bacon. Seven or eight long strips of bacon may be cooked at once with no necessity for pouring off fat. They'll lie out flat because of the squared shape of the grill, and when they're cooked they'll be crisp as can be with nary a curl or kink.

Baked frostings for cakes are popular because once the cake is in the oven the cook can shed responsibility for it except for removing it when it is done. A cake such as this is ready to eat as soon as it has baked and cooled.

Spice Cake with Baked Frosting.

[Eight Inch Loaf.]

½ cup butter or other shortening
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 egg plus 1 yolk
2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¾ cup milk

Topping: 1 egg white, ½ cup brown sugar, ¼ cup chopped nuts. Cream shortening and sugar thoroly, add egg and yolk, and beat well. Sift dry ingredients together three or four times and add in alternate portions with milk. Beat well after each addition. Pour batter into 8 inch square pan and spread with the topping. To prepare topping beat egg white until stiff and beat in brown sugar gradually, using rotary beater. Spread over cake batter and sprinkle with nuts. Bake the cake in a 350 degree oven for 50 to 60 minutes.

We eat twice as much ice cream as we did seven years ago. City folks eat more of it than do country folks, averaging close to four gallons per capita in a year. The national average is about two and one-half gallons per capita.

Delicious snacks: Tiny split, buttered, baking powder biscuits sandwiched about hot little broiled cocktail sausages, miniature hamburgers, or cubes of broiled steak. You do the baking, broiling, and buttering. The guests put 'em together and do they go fast!

Bird, Flower Buttons New Color Accent

BY REA SEEGER.

More bright ideas from the button collections prove that there isn't any lack of enterprise among the button makers. Amusing new finds are the bird buttons, most realistic accents colored and cut out in the shape of such feathered friends as a red headed woodpecker, a robin, and a tiny wren. They do everything but chirp! Such spots of color are ideal for simple tailored daytime dresses, for suit blouses, and sports clothes as well as some of the cardigan sweater jackets.

Stunning new flower buttons are made of a smooth composition stuff that is light weight with a dull finish or texture. Out of this trick material come the carnation buttons, life size carnations with the tiny dentate edges to each petal and the long spike leaves of green for contrast. Both white and spicy red shades are plentiful. Three on a bodice are all that's needed to redeem the dullest wool or crêpe frock.

Ready to complete this flower trim stunt are clips of the same carnations. These are so realistic in size, color, and outline that the most blasé shopper sniffs for the welcome fragrance of this spicy bloom.

Buttons and clips of hyacinths are other slick copies of real floral accents for any sort of dress, suit, or even winter coat. White, pale yellow, and a few pink shades offer a good assortment from which to choose.

One of the best showings of cerise colored buttons and belt buckles is featured in this same department. Formerly this shade couldn't be found no matter how you shopped.

Luncheon to Be Given by Society of Lawyers

The sixth annual patriotic luncheon of the Decalogue Society of Lawyers will be held on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22, in the Congress hotel, in compliment to those members who have been inducted into military service. Representatives of all Chicago bar associations and the commanders of eight ex-service men's organizations have been invited as guests.

Bertha Ostrar, Pianist to Play with Symphony

Miss Bertha Ostrar, pianist and member of the Musicians Club of Women, will play the Shastokovich concerto with the Chicago Symphony orchestra at its popular concert this evening. Miss Ostrar is making the appearance, offered by Dr. Frederick Stock, as a result of an audition held by the club. Mrs. Theodore Thomas, wife of the founder of the orchestra, was an early president of this club.

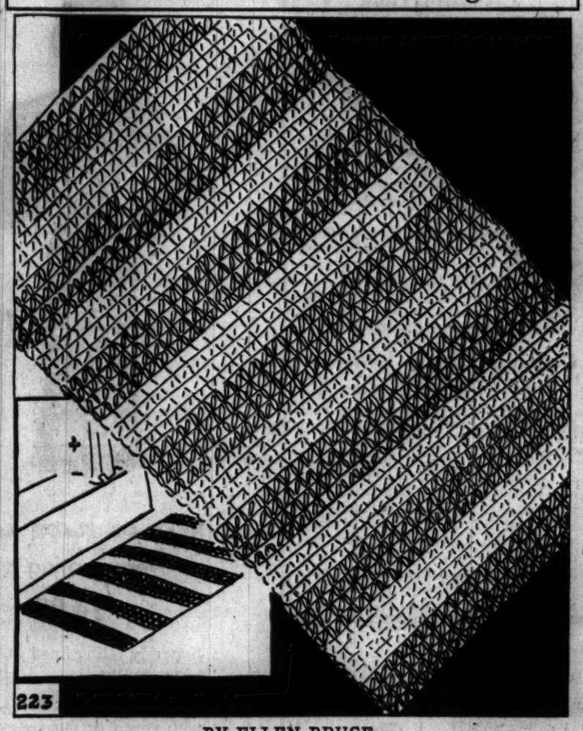
Crocheted Bathroom Rug



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Bathroom rugs may be crocheted to match the shower curtains and general color scheme, thanks to the variety of colors supplied by the ever alert "throwsters." Crocheted of pale green and white carpet warp, which is worked double, this bath rug done in a herringbone stitch is a simple and easy-to-make item which is beautiful as well as utilitarian. To create a mottled effect, the green and white may be worked together instead of in bands, as illustrated.

For instructions in crocheting the bath rug in herringbone stitch, No. 223, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Numerology By Evelyn Holmes

Jan. 25, 1941.

Universal day—Keep keen and nimble-witted. Don't get rattled.

Vocations—Seven being the philosophic number, the combination of two and five give a philosophical trend of mind to those born on this date. There is mental brilliance in the five, softened by the gentle two. Sir Issac Newton, Camille Flammarion, and Ralph Waldo Emerson were all born on the 25th which gives you some idea of how the talents might run if you were born on this date.

Individualism is strong, as it was in the case of Andrew Carnegie and Oliver Cromwell. Religion, science, poetry, and the other arts might be expressed in an individual way. The conventional social traits might be missing and so the vocation should not be based on personality, or at least not the accepted idea of a pleasant personality. That is probably why Humphrey Bogart, who was born on the 25th, has successfully stressed the antisocial type in the movies.

Culbertson Bid Changes Add to Risks of Play

New York, Jan. 24 [Special].—Bridge players thruout the country who are not in the expert class but assiduously strive to improve their play will have a chance to revise their bidding for the better this winter, according to an announcement today by Ely Culbertson, bridge expert, of changes in the system of bidding which he established six years ago.

Culbertson, who is considered the outstanding authority by at least 5,000,000 devotees of the game, has been ill since November in a New York hospital, but even so, he addressed 200 teachers of his system of play from many sections of the country at a meeting in a midtown hotel. His message—viewed as almost an edict in the world of bridge—was carried to his associates by means of a special microphone installed at his bedside.

Explaining that the bidding changes have been made necessary as a result "of new ideas" which have entered into bridge play in recent years, Culbertson urged the instructors "to encourage play of a more risky nature."

"The average player will be 'set' more often," he continued, "but it will make the game more dramatic."

Now, following the bridge master's revised rules, the bridge player can:

Include a singleton, even a lowly deuce, in the honor trick table in the same category with the ace, king, queen.

Bid on minimum suits of queen, 4, 3, deuce in place of the previous bottom of queen, jack, 3, deuce. Even weak five card suits, such as 6-deuce, may also be bid [but he listed them as "conditional biddable suits"].

Culbertson refuted the charge that he didn't follow his own system, by explaining that he has been using the new rules, which affect about 10 per cent of his system, for the last several years, often baffling purists.

"Bridge is on the upswing, as it usually is in troublous times," he commented. "I have heard from many friends in England that bridge is the most popular pastime in the bomb shelters."

"I still have one more bridge to cross," the pundit punned, gloomily: "I haven't solved the problem of slam bidding. It's chaotic now. Anarchy reigns. When I solve it my career will be crowned."

Mrs. Josephine Culbertson, his divorced wife, discussed some of the changes to be made in the bidding, during a brief address to the instructors. She explained that, when there are two four-card biddable suits in a hand, and one of them is the club suit, it should be bid first; otherwise, the higher ranking suit is bid first.

Oswald Jacoby, a rival of Mr. Culbertson both in bridge competition and in the invention of systems of play, expressed his approval of the changes.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

When a player opens the bidding with one no trump, he implicitly states that he will take no aggressive action except at his partner's request. So clear a picture of his hand has been painted by the opening bid that the partner must be the judge of the best final contract.

Thus, a jump by partner to three of a suit indicates only a desire to get to game. It carries no hint of slam. The responder must carry the bidding past game at some stage if he wants to invite a slam. The bidding given below illustrates this principle.

North, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ K 8 3
♥ A 5 4
♦ K 6 2
♣ A K 5 3

WEST	EAST
♠ J 9 2	♠ 7 6
♥ K J 10	♥ 9 8 7 2
♦ J 8 7 3	♦ 10 9
♣ Q J 10	♣ 9 8 7 4 2

SOUTH
♠ A Q 10 5 4
♥ Q 6 3
♦ A Q 5 4
♣ 6

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 no trump	Pass	3 spades	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	4 diamonds	Pass
4 spades	Pass	5 spades	Pass
6 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

North's opening bid of one no trump indicated a holding of about four honor tricks in a hand with no short suit. Note that he did not get enthusiastic when his partner bid three spades and later took out three no trump to four diamonds. He contented himself with a simple preference bid of four spades. When his partner showed slam intentions, however, he carefully decided that the two aces and the fitting kings were worth a slam bid.

West opened the queen of clubs, dummy winning with the king. Declarer could have taken a discard at once, but did not know whether it was better to discard a diamond or a heart. In order to find out, he immediately led a low heart from the dummy. When the queen of hearts lost to the king, South's problem was solved.

A heart return was taken by the ace, and South's losing heart was discarded on the ace of clubs. The king and ace of spades were next cashed.

At this point South had to determine how to play the diamonds. If they split 3-3 a slam would be a laydown, but a 4-2 split would give him trouble. Deciding against a rather remote squeeze play, South abandoned the trump suit and ran three rounds of diamonds. East showed out on the third round, but did not have the last trump. South could lead his last diamond and ruff with dummy's carefully preserved trump, after which it was easy for him to return to his hand and draw the last trump.

BLONDE WIDOWS SELF A SECOND TIME WITH GUN

Runs Her String of Tragic Marriages to Four.

East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 24 [Special].—For the second time in her span of four marriages, Mrs. Lue Burns was widowed today by her handiness with a gun in domestic arguments. Her latest husband, John Burns, locally prominent jewelry store owner, died in an after dinner dispute last night.

Mrs. Burns, a statuesque blonde of 38, has had bad luck in her matrimonial ventures. Burns' predecessor also died from bullet wounds received in a quarrel with her. Her second spouse, a railroad engineer, drowned in an ash pit. Her first husband died of a brain abscess.

Signs a Confession.

Mrs. Burns signed a confession in which she stated:

"I shot my husband because he was cruel to me and called me nasty names. My husband hit me and I began shooting at him. He hit me again and I kept shooting at him until the gun would not shoot anymore. After this everything went black."

Police quoted her as saying the argument arose over some new clothes she had purchased.

A Negro maid told police the couple quarreled frequently over Mrs. Burns' charge accounts in St. Louis, Mo., department stores.

Last night's argument started at the dinner table over a dress. The garment had been delivered at Burns' jewelry store. Mrs. Burns, police were told, wanted her husband to make a special trip downtown to get the dress, but he refused.

Son Tells of Beating.

Mrs. Burns' son by a former marriage, Gene Rodemich, 21 years old, a junior law student at St. Louis university, said he heard the quarrel from his upstairs room. He hurried downstairs, he said, and saw his stepfather beating his mother.

After being struck, Mrs. Burns left the room, he said, and returned a moment later with a gun and began firing. Burns, wounded four times, staggered out into the back yard of his home where police found him lying. He died en route to a hospital.

Mrs. Burns was treated at St. Mary's hospital for hysteria and a bruise on her head before being removed to jail.

Married 7 Years.

The jewelry store owner was 45 years old and a veteran of the world war. He and the thrice wedded blonde were married seven years ago, a few years after the gun death of her third mate.

Burns' predecessor was Shelby Clay, a railroad man, who was shot to death about 10 years ago in his home at Madison, Ill. When his widow was placed on trial for the slaying, a verdict of justifiable homicide was returned after the introduction of evidence showing that Clay had attacked her with a butcher knife.

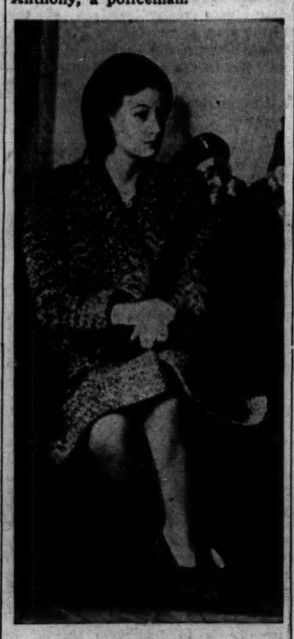
Assistant State's Attorney R. V. Gustin of St. Clair county said tonight that if a coroner's jury tomorrow doesn't hold Mrs. Burns for murder, "we will."

Kum Bum Grad Is Granted Delay in New Trial Plea

Hearing on a motion for a new trial for Hugh Greer Carruthers, ex-convict head of the Neological [new logic] foundation, who was convicted of raping a girl 12 years old, was continued yesterday by Judge Joseph A. Graber of the Criminal court until Jan. 30. Carruthers, self-styled ex-priest of the Kum Bum lamasery in Tibet, is at liberty on $20,000 bail. His punishment was fixed by the jury at 20 years.

Slayer Acquitted

Mrs. Helen Gardner, who late yesterday was found not guilty of a charge of murdering her husband, Anthony, a policeman.



[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Miss Jean Gardner, 21, who embraced her mother after verdict.

Mrs. Helen Gardner, 43 years old, was acquitted late yesterday by a Criminal court jury before Judge Joseph A. Graber on a charge of murdering her husband, Anthony, 43, a policeman at the New City station.

After the verdict Mrs. Gardner embraced her daughter, Jean, 21, and said quietly: "Now I care to go on living—for my daughter."

Gardner was shot to death early in the morning of Sept. 5 in the family home at 2513 West Marquette road. The state charged that Mrs. Gardner shot and killed her husband while he was lying on a daybed.

Mrs. Gardner, testifying in her own defense yesterday, said the shooting occurred while she struggled with her husband for possession of his service revolver with which he had threatened to kill her. She said her domestic life had been a series of beatings and abusive acts.

RADIO ENGINEER SPIES ON WIFE, RECORDS TALKS

Asks Judge to Listen to Divorce Evidence.

When Lawrence Feiler, 25 years old, of 710 Lake Shore drive, became suspicious of the actions of his wife, Edith, 24, shortly after their separation last August, he applied his knowledge as a radio engineering expert.

Yesterday he told Judge Rudolph Desort in Superior court that he had recorded conversations between Mrs. Feiler and an alleged paramour.

Mrs. Feiler has pending a divorce suit which charges cruelty. Her husband yesterday filed a cross bill for divorce, alleging misconduct, and then appeared in court for a hearing on Mrs. Feiler's plea for temporary support.

Stands Outside Apartment.

Feiler, telling his story to the judge, said he took a recording apparatus to the building where his wife lived, and stood in the hall outside her apartment. His machine recorded conversations between Mrs. Feiler and another man, he said. He asked that the conversations, engraved in steel, be admitted into evidence.

Mrs. Feiler, who was in court for the hearing, interposed, "Are you certain it was me?"

"After you hear the records, you'll be sure," was Feiler's reply.

Mrs. Feiler's attorney, Norman Becker, objected. "This is just a bluff," he said. "We can completely disprove any such charges."

Asks Court to Listen.

Feiler's attorney, Robert Cantwell Jr., countered with a request that the court listen to the records.

Judge Desort termed the request quite out of the ordinary, but ruled that he will hear the records next Wednesday and decide whether they are competent evidence. He stated he will do so only because he considered the best interests of the couple's 4 year old daughter, Jean, to be the most important concern of the court.

Both Feiler and his wife are asking for the custody of Jean, who is living with Mrs. Feiler at the latter's present address, 8855 Lowe avenue.

Pending a ruling on the divorce bills, the court awarded her $10 weekly support for the daughter.

Contempt Terms Voided; New Charges Drawn Up

Contempt sentences of one year against Harold H. Bell and of six months against Joseph King were vacated yesterday by Judge Joseph E. Gill in the McHenry county court at Woodstock. The sentences were imposed last week on complaint that Bell, plaintiff in a $10,000 damage suit on trial before Judge Gill, had discussed the case with King, a juror. Judge Gill vacated the penalties on a technicality yesterday, and ordered new contempt charges drawn up.

SEEKS 4 CHILDREN HIS EX-WIFE LEFT FOLLOWING SPREE

Lester B. Marshall, an insurance executive, whose former wife is awaiting trial as the result of a five month spree thru many states in stolen automobiles, appeared before Judge Cornelius J. Harrington yesterday to ask for the custody of their four children—Evelyn, 15 years old; Beverly, 14; Mary, 12, and Lester Jr., 11.

Marshall, who lives at 1135 East 82d street, said his former wife, Evelyn B. Marshall, was awarded custody of the children when they were divorced in 1936.

Mrs. Marshall, who is 39, abandoned the children in Chicago at the end of her odyssey with "Prof." Harold Hennessy, 40. During the trip, which began in Cambridge, Mass., they left behind them a list of unpaid bills and two stolen cars, police said. Both were indicted for using stolen automobiles across state lines, and are now in county jail pending trial Tuesday in Federal court.

Marshall's attorney, Charles S. Hirsch, said Lester Jr. is now living with Marshall and that the three daughters are with Marshall's mother in Massachusetts. Judge Harrington said Mrs. Marshall will be summoned to appear in Circuit court when he rules on Marshall's petition.

DICE PLAYING BANK TELLER GETS 2 YEAR PRISON SENTENCE

Thomas Ralph Page, who embazzled $6,500 from the First National Bank of Dolton, was sentenced to two years in a federal penitentiary yesterday by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan. Page, who is 40 years old and a bachelor, was a teller in the bank. On Jan. 3 he walked into the state's attorney's office and confessed his peculations. He said he had lost the money in crap games.

I. C. to Place 'South Shore' Sign on Cars Going There

Beginning Monday, all South Chicago suburban trains on the Illinois Central railroad will have the legend "South Shore District" on placards above the regular train signs, railroad officials announced yesterday.

MICHIGAN QUINTET TO INVADE N. U. TONIGHT

CCC TRAINING FITS FRED FOR GOLDEN GLOVES

Young Hauenstein Is Ready Now.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Fred Hauenstein, 20 year old German-American youth, learned about boxing in the Civilian Conservation corps in McDermitt, Nev. He now has entered the Chicago Golden Gloves novice tournament, and if he passes his physical examination he will be enrolled in the lightweight class in the north side tournament.

Hauenstein will report at Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street, next Thursday evening for examination. He will have his first bout in the Loyola university gymnasium Feb. 10. Before the north side bouts are concluded Feb. 12 Fred will know whether he wishes to continue in the Chicago city championship bouts in the Coliseum or wait another year.

They're Good Americans Now.

Hauenstein and an older sister support their mother, Mrs. Eva Hauenstein. The father died two and a half years ago. This family, incidentally, now thoroly American, sprang from foreign roots in Hungary, birthplace of Mrs. Hauenstein, and in Germany, birthplace of the father.

Like most American boys—Fred was born in the United States—sports had a place in his early life. He is quite proficient at baseball and was a member of the CCC camp championship nine in McDermitt. Naturally, he was attracted to boxing, a popular sport in all conservation corps camps. Fred was in camp for a year, but received no technical instruction.

"We just paired off at approximately the same weights, tied on the gloves, and went to it," Hauenstein said of his camp bouts.

Wants to Be a Machinist.

Fred attended Lane Technical High school two years. After that he was in the CCC at Cedar City, Utah, as well as at McDermitt. For the last three years he has been a machinist's apprentice at the Acme Industrial plant, 200 North Laflin street. He's interested in his trade and in amateur boxing.

"I have been working nearly all of the time since I left school," Fred said, "and I intend to keep on working. I'm not interested in boxing professionally, but I would like to win a Golden Glove."

Entries will be received until Tuesday for the physical examination at Trafton's gymnasium on Thursday. The last letters of instructions with parental consent blanks will be sent Tuesday. After that date, subsequent entries will be assigned to the physical examination at Trafton's on Feb. 3. These boys, if they pass physical examinations, will be assigned to the north side tournament.

Veterans Go to Collseum.

Experienced boxers will be assigned to the city championship bouts in the Coliseum regardless of the night they appear for physical examinations.

The Kokomo [Ind.] Tribune tournament starts tonight, and thus becomes the sixth center to begin Golden Gloves activities this week. Only one team, however, has been chosen for the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium Feb. 24, 25, and 26. That is the Sioux City [Ia.] Journal's delegation.

He Hopes to Turn Out a Title

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Candidates for Chicago Golden Gloves championships come from all walks of life. This is Fred Hauenstein, novice lightweight, working at his bench lathe in a west side machine shop. He is an apprentice now, but expects to become a full fledged craftsman soon.

Cochran Wins in 32 Innings for New Cue Tourney Record

Welker Cochran of San Francisco, three time holder of the world three cushion billiard title, stamped himself as a leading candidate for 1941 honors by reeling off a 32 inning job in swamping Joe Moriarty, Chicago detective, 50 to 24, in Bensinger's arena yesterday. Welker's performance established a new record for the current competition, the best previous mark being Jake Schaefer's 38 inning victory Tuesday.

Otto Reiselt and Clarence Hall won their evening matches to lead the tourney with six victories and no defeats. Cochran and Jay Bozeman also are undefeated, but have one less victory each. Reiselt defeated John Fitzpatrick, 50 to 40, in last night's first match, while Hall beat Clarence Jackson, 50 to 44, to conclude evening play.

Crane Upsets Denton.

In other matinée games, Irving Crane, the baby of the tournament, who registers from Livonia, N. Y., upset the veteran Tiff Denton of Kansas City, Mo., 50 to 38, in 69 innings, and Paul Lewin of Chicago, another newcomer to title competition, trounced Joe Chamaco, the champion of Mexico, 50 to 44, in a tedius 77 inning duel.

Both Reiselt and Fitzpatrick started slowly and at the end of the 16th inning Otto led, 7 to 6. In the 17th he ran eight, his high run of the match, but Fitzpatrick came back with three two's in succession to make the score 15 to 12 at the end of the 19th.

John Fights Back.

When Reiselt hit for three in the 20th the run seemed to spur Fitzpatrick for John got nine billiards in five frames. Not to be outdone, Reiselt, too, started to hit again and counted 12 in the next six to take a 30 to 21 lead. He lengthened his advantage to 38 to 21 when the west coast star had 11 scoreless innings in succession. Fitzpatrick rallied again, but Otto was too far ahead to be overtaken.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 24 (AP).—The Detroit Red Wings defeated the New York Americans, 4 to 2, tonight, counting twice in a bitterly fought overtime period and moving into second place in the National Hockey league standings.

A crowd of 5,625 saw the Red Wings put on a story book finish that began with a 105 foot shot by Eddie Wares, who whipped the puck into the net from a point just past the center circle. Then, almost before the applause had subsided, Syd Howe streaked down the ice and fired a whistler from the left side that also got past Goalie Earl Robertson.

Detroit players bitterly criticized a ruling by Referee Frank Clancy that gave the Americans a penalty shot which tied things up in the second. They argued for several minutes after Clancy held that Goalie John Mowers unintentionally batted the puck into the stands in making a save.

Charlie Conacher cashed in on the penalty and forced the game into overtime. Lineups:

HAWKS GET HARD DRILL

The Chicago Blackhawks' 3 to 1 victory over the New York Americans Thursday night earned them no rest, for they went thru the hardest workout since training camp days yesterday on orders of Manager Paul Thompson. The Hawks, who meet the Rangers tomorrow, will draw another 90 minute practice session today. Manager Thompson hopes the extra work will pay dividends in a victory tomorrow, for the Rangers trail the Hawks by only a half game.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

LAST season Elden Auker, the Browns' pitcher, and Manager Fred Haney were partners in a bridge game with other members of the club. . . . Auker roughly outlined the Blackwood system to his boss and they went down three on their first bid. . . . A few days later Auker was pitching against the Yankees and they suddenly began to hit him hard. . . . Haney walked to the mound and asked Auker if he would do him a favor. . . . "Yes, what?" the pitcher inquired. . . . "I wish you'd use the Auker system of pitching instead of the Blackwood." . . . Auker grinned, struck out the next man, and won the game. . . . Pay no attention to reports that Clark Shaughnessy of Stanford will not accept a position on the All-Star football staff if the fans elect him. . . . Minnesota has the best track squad since Jim Kelly became coach there several years ago. . . . Jockey Earl Dew, national riding champion in 1940, rates Mioland as his best mount during the whirlwind campaign. . . . For the first time since the Daily Californian, student publication at the University of California, was founded in 1868 the staff is headed by two co-eds, editor and managing editor. . . . Maybe it's the fact that the country these days appreciates the importance of virility in Young America, but at any rate, the demand for tickets to the Chicago Golden Gloves finals, always a sellout, is breaking all records for the 14 year old event. . . . The Cubs' office, which is handling distribution of the National league's baseball film, estimates that 250,000 in the Chicago area will see the picture this season.

The presentation of the Big Ten's Most Valuable Player trophy to Tom Harmon of Michigan the other night served more than one purpose. . . . It was evidence that Harmon actually is back in school. . . . There's an automatic fine of $100 on any player or member of the Chicago Bears' coaching staff caught at a race track from the time training starts until the last game is played. . . . Clark Shaughnessy says he would refuse to remain as football coach at any university which practiced illegal recruiting of players. . . . "I think we showed last season what can be done with a team made up of legitimate students," Shaughnessy recently stated. . . . The sooner other coaches see the wisdom of the Stanford leader's remarks, the better off they and intercollegiate football will be. . . . Green Bay's city fathers, as they say in What Cheer, Ia., are considering expansion of the town's airport so that the Packers will not have to take a train to Chicago to board air liners for their flying trips around the National Football league. . . . Jack Beynon, former University of Illinois quarter back and a member of The Tribune's All-Star football squad in 1934, is an assistant state's attorney of Winnebago county, in his home town, Rockford, Ill.

'Round the Razzberry Bush.

The wife of the United States minister to Bulgaria, George Earle, recently denied a report current in Philadelphia that a ring she has been wearing contains an emerald from the Bulgarian crown jewels which, it was rumored, her husband won from King Boris on a pinball machine. I doubt that there is anything to the story, but if it is true, it certainly is a precedent breaking event. It probably would be the first time in international history that an American diplomat ever won anything.

—Daniel Francis Clancy.

The Old Family Album.

The memories of childhood come a-trooping thick and fast,
It's pleasant when we linger in the daydreams of the past.
We think of things we used to do, of friends we used to know,
In captivating boyhood days we spent so long ago.
I love to live them o'er again with all their hope and joy,
When life seemed just a holiday and I was just a boy.
But of the things remembered, the most sacred one to me,
Is that old family album that we showed to company.

We had a sort of rev'rance for those faces one and all,
The tintypes of Jim Rogers looking soldier-like and tall.
The sun-burned phiz of Jasper Gibbs, the wig of Sammy Brown,
The mustache types that won the girls of countryside and town.
Ah, me, the clock of time doth run at such a rapid rate,
I know the pictures once we loved, would now be out-of-date.
But I would give the world and all, if by some hook or crook,
I'd get the chance to wander back and see that picture book.

DYKES TO STOP OFF IN CHICAGO ON TRIP WEST

White Sox Manager Is Due Monday.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

James J. Dykes, manager of the White Sox, wired the Chicago office yesterday that he positively will make a Chicago appearance next Monday. He will arrive from his Philadelphia home at 8:30 o'clock Monday morning and will depart for Los Angeles that evening at 6:15 o'clock. Between times he will be available for queries, wisecracks, and forecasts on the team to beat in the 1941 American league race.

Jimmy Dykes.

Altho Jim is down on the new White Sox roster as an active player it is not believed that he anticipates going into training before the first squad arrives in Pasadena on Feb. 23. He may, in the meantime, play a little golf and watch the beasties at Santa Anita. The Sox skipper never bets on races but is a great lover of horse flesh as such.

Dykes formerly made the trip from east to west via boat, but abandoned the cruise this winter. His favorite vessel would have been exclusively in neutral waters, but some of those mines break away from their anchorage and no one can tell where they may float, Mr. Dykes has heard.

Office Is Quiet.

At the Cub office it was said things were virtually at a standstill as a result of the absence from the city of General Manager James T. Gallagher. Also there was no word from the coast that Lou Novikoff hed been called off his job as an oil well driller.

It was said that the Cubs are mindful that their $100,000 chattel would depreciate greatly in value were he to lose a couple of thumbs, or even one thumb, and that they would be willing to yield to a light touch to cover Lou's winter groceries, if he would quit his job in the Long Beach oil field.

Senators' Roster Out.

The Washington Senators yesterday became the fourth major league ball club to circulate its 1941 roster. The publication shows no new Latin-Americans, but does list two carry-overs from other lands, Alejandro Carrasquel of Caracas, Venezuela, and Rene Monteagudo of Santa Clara, Cuba.

Most painful entry on the Washington list to the White Sox was that of Emil Leonard of Auburn, Ill. Leonard won 14 games last year, most of them from the Sox.

197 TO COMPETE AT LA CROSSE IN SPEED SKATING

La Crosse, Wis., Jan. 24 (AP).—A record field of 197 contestants tonight promised a wide open fight for championships in the National Outdoor Speed Skating tournament, which opens tomorrow.

Leo Freisinger of Chicago, the men's senior title holder, was ready to defend his crown against such outstanding contenders as Vic Ronchetti, Illinois title holder, Del Lamb of Milwaukee, Ted Ellenwood of Amsterdam, N. Y., and Ken Bartholomew of Minneapolis.

Indications were that the girls might steal the show from their male companions. Their competition listed two divisions which had no defending champions.

Maddy Horn of Beaver Dam, Wis., the senior women's champion and one of the outstanding skaters of the country for many years, has retired from competition and the race to succeed her is wide open.

Audrey Naas, the sensational title speedster from Minneapolis who broke every junior record here two years ago, has graduated from that class and will compete as an intermediate.

Several hundred tickets will be available despite the scant seating capacity, Ticket Manager Ted Payseur said yesterday. This situation is due to final semester examinations at the university.

Chicago, unscheduled in the conference, entertains De Paul's brilliant Blue Demons in the University of Chicago fieldhouse.

The Wolverines probably will start the same five men who whipped Minnesota Monday, 41 to 24. Northwestern also will stick to the lineup that held Illinois to a one point victory in overtime, 42 to 41, and last Monday lost a fourth consecutive Big Ten engagement to Iowa.

Badgers Meet Buckeyes.

Conference interest, however, is focused tonight on Madison, Wis., where the undefeated Ohio State Buckeyes meet Wisconsin. The Badgers lost their opening game to Minnesota and since then have defeated Iowa, Purdue, Chicago, and Michigan. In Gene Englund, Wisconsin has the leading scorer in the conference, altho he has needed five games to score 61 points. Dick Fisher of Ohio State has marked up 38 points in three games, which gives him a slight advantage in points per game over Englund.

Jack McLain, who has scored 33 points in Ohio's three games, backs up Fisher in the Buckeye attack, which many have compared to the fire department basketball played by Purdue and Indiana. If Ohio State can get by Wisconsin it appears likely the two game series with Indiana will decide the 1941 championship.

Wildcats Meet Leaders.

Englund is the bellwether of the Badger attack. In the only game Wisconsin lost, Englund scored only four points.

Indications yesterday pointed to a sellout of 13,000 for the Ohio State-Wisconsin game with a crowd of 12,500 assured on the basis of advance sales. The fieldhouse record is 13,003 at the Purdue game in 1938.

While Northwestern's record of four defeats leaves it in last place in the conference, tied with Chicago which has lost three games, the Wildcats have met four of the five first division teams. The conference leaders, Ohio State and Indiana, won victories over Northwestern on their home courts in the space of three days, Iowa also was played in Iowa City so that last week's battle with Illinois possibly is a better gauge of what the Wildcats may do this evening against Michigan.

N. U. Has Height Advantage.

Except for Jim Mander, Michigan's 6 foot 4 inch center, the Wildcats will have superior height. They must cope with clever ball handling by Mike Sofiak and Mel Comin, and a flaming team spirit that carried Michigan to victory over Minnesota, the favorite.

Henry Clason, who leads Northwestern's scorers with 43 points, will pair with George Benson at forward, Don Clawson will be at center. Clawson has scored 29 points in four games. Capt. Al Butherus and Russ Wendland, guards, complete the starting lineup.

Capt. Joe Stampf, who has scored 41 points in three games, will attempt to spur his Maroon colleagues to better passing and shooting tonight against De Paul. The Blue Demons, however, are expected to repeat last year's victory.

Gainer Leads De Paul.

Elmer Gainer, De Paul's tall center, is expected to lead the Demon's attack. Jim Cominsky and Don Wozny probably will be the starting forwards with Edwin Sachs and Bernie Wekslet at guard.

Besides Stampf the Maroons are planning to start Edgar Nelson and Jack Fons at forward, and Chuck Wagenberg and George Krakowka at guard.

Story of Pitching Streak to Be Heard Over W-G-N

Irving Vaughan, CHICAGO TRIBUNE baseball writer, tonight tells the story of the longest major league pitching streak as one of the highlights of the W-G-N sports program, "At the Sports Desk," to be presented at 7:45 o'clock. Contributions from Bob Becker, Edward Burns, and Arch Ward, sports editor, also will be heard.

TENNIS HEADS TO VOTE TODAY ON CHANGING CODE

Western Group Also Will Name Officers.

Officers and directors of the Western Lawn Tennis association will meet in the Palmer House at 2:30 this afternoon to announce rankings and choose new leaders for 1941, but a discussion not usually included in routine business well may provide the most important item of the session.

They will be asked to ballot on a proposal submitted by the amateur rules committee of the United States Lawn Tennis association which would make professionals of many leading amateur players if they violated it. The proposed rule would prevent players from benefiting in the sale of tennis equipment and would restrict their competition to 12 tournaments a year, unless special permission is obtained from the U. S. L. T. A. for additional competition.

Would Go into Effect March 2.

The result of today's vote will be submitted to the U. S. L. T. A. at its annual meeting in New York Feb. 8 and, if enough organizations affiliated with the parent body support the proposal, it will become a part of the code at that time.

The proposed new rule would become effective March 2.

The names of officers for 1941 who will be installed today on recommendation of the nominating committee include: Stanley McKie of Cincinnati, president; Chester C. Johnson, Chicago, first vice president; Melvin R. Bergman of Toledo, third vice president; James Stewart of Chicago, treasurer, and W. Matson Tobin of Chicago, secretary. All are holdovers except Bergman.

May Decline Office.

Endicott Lovell of Hubbell, Mich., was to have been named second vice president but he may have to decline the office because his business demands too much of his time for him to serve.

Officials expect a Chicagoan to be chosen to replace him.

Breese, Tygh Meet Feb. 3 in Coliseum

Quentin [Babe] Breese, Manhattan, Kas., fighter, who is being groomed for a lightweight championship bout, yesterday accepted $1,000 for a 10 round contest with Jimmy Tygh of Philadelphia in the Coliseum Feb. 3. It will be Breese's first Chicago appearance since scoring an eight round technical knockout over Meyer Alper May 29, 1939.

Babe recently stepped into the limelight by stopping Jackie Wilson, former Chicagoland Golden Gloves flyweight champion, in Hollywood, Cal. Tygh made his Chicago debut against Eddie Lander in Marigold Gardens last Sept. 23 with a record of being undefeated in nine encounters, his victims including Leo Rodak, Billy Marquart, and Benny Bass. Tygh defeated Lander in 10 rounds, but in a subsequent match he was upset by Nick Castiglione.

In his last appearance the Philadelphia boxer conquered Mike Gamiere on Jan. 6. Two other contests of 10 rounds on the Coliseum card bring together Davey Day and Marquart, and Lem Franklin and Carl Vinciquerra.

Promoter Bill Rand has opened negotiations for a 15 round middleweight championship contest between Champion Tony Zale and Steve Mamakos in Chicago stadium Feb. 21. Mamakos earned the proposed encounter by his fine showing in an earlier meeting against Zale. Steve lost a split decision in a nontitle fight after giving the champ a difficult time of it all the way.

Two bouts of four rounds have been added to the show in Marigold Gardens Monday. These will involve Billy Pierce, Milwaukee middleweight, and Lief Erickson, and Johnny Rozina, welterweight, also of Milwaukee, and Tony Vino. The program is featured by eight round encounters between Joe Maxin, 1940 Golden Gloves 160 pound titleholder, and Frank McBride; Elza Thompson, Indianapolis heavyweight, and Willie Snell, and Lou Thomas, 200 pounds, also of Indianapolis, and Orlando Trotter. . . . Dizzy Davis and Karl Krauser will be opponents in a heavyweight wrestling struggle in White City Monday.

Torsten Ahlbeck of Senn High school won a split decision over Charley Johnson of Northwest gym in the five round final of the amateur boxing program in the Madison A. C. last night. They are lightweights. Referee Jimmy Lavell voted for Johnson, while Judge William Brooks and Jack Friedman gave the fight to Ahlbeck.

Joe Louis (left), heavyweight champion, and Red Burman shake hands after signing New York state athletic commission contracts yesterday for their title bout next Friday.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

New York, Jan. 24 [Special].—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis and Challenger Clarence [Red] Burman signed their names to contracts and their managers tendered $5,000 forfeit checks at the boxing commission offices today, completing business arrangements for their 15 round title fight. The more sordid details will be cleaned up by Louis when he flattens Burman in Madison Square Graden next Friday night.

Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the commission dismissed a request by Max Waxman, Burman's manager, that three firms make the gloves for the bout so Louis would have no advantage. Phelan announced that all gloves would be thoroly examined and proved to be the regulation six ounce weight.

Carmel Scores Double Victory Over Fenwick

Mount Carmel juniors pulled into a tie with Leo and the seniors moved into second place by scoring basketball victories over Fenwick in Catholic league north section games last night. The juniors triumphed, 39 to 25, to run their string of triumphs to five games, while the seniors, halting a Fenwick rally in the final quarter, won their third game in five, 33 to 31.

Riley, Mount Carmel junior forward, dropped in seven field goals, and Conners, guard, scored six, to lead the victors. Hacker, center, and Cosgrove, guard, each scored 8 points for the Mount Carmel seniors.

St. Patrick juniors won their fifth straight game and dealt St. George its fifth straight defeat, 22 to 21. Lineups:

TYING POINT POPS UP TOO LATE, SO LANE WINS, 27-26

Roosevelt Scorekeeper's Discovery Ruled Out.

The Lane Tech juniors defeated the Roosevelt juniors, 27 to 26, on the Roosevelt floor yesterday in a game that was complicated by a hide and seek free throw, recognition of which would have made the contest a 27 to 27 tie.

Lane Tech's victory is official and final. As the game ended, the score board showed Lane Tech had won; the score keepers agreed it was so, and Stuart La Gault, one of the officials, signed the score book, sealing the result. It wasn't until the players were under the showers that a discrepancy popped up.

Surprise! He Finds a Point.

Checking his records, the Roosevelt score keeper found he had recorded a Roosevelt free throw that didn't appear on the Lane Tech score keeper's book. The elusive point, if accepted, would have made the score at the end of the regulation playing time 27 to 27 and would have necessitated an overtime period.

However, it was too late to bring the players back on the floor to remove the doubt. In any event, the game became official as soon as La Gault signed the scorebook.

The Parker and Hirsch juniors each won their fifth straight game in other contests on the full schedule of 25. Parker conquered Bowen, 38 to 23, and Hirsch triumphed over Englewood, 35 to 34, in south section clashes.

Sullivan Juniors Win.

Sullivan juniors won their third straight game in the north section, whipping Lake View, 45 to 33.

Hirsch seniors took their fifth game in the south section, 35 to 34, at the expense of Englewood. The Calumet seniors beat Hyde Park, 35 to 25. Lineups:

It's $45,000 for Feller in Feud on Highest Paid

Cleveland, O., Jan. 24 (AP).—The Plain Dealer says it learned from an unimpeachable source that Pitcher Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians will receive $45,000 for the 1941 season.

The figure is for pitching only, the newspaper says, and exclusive of income from testimonials and other sources reckoned to bring the fire ball pitcher at least another $10,000.

Feller signed his 1941 contract Tuesday, but club officials maintained customary silence about the figure except to say that it made him the highest priced pitcher in baseball history. Sports writers estimated he would get at least $30,000.

The claim of highest priced pitcher opened a feud between the Indians and the Detroit Tigers, with Walter O. Briggs, owner of the Tigers, asserting Pitcher Buck Newsom received $30,000 last season and would get at least $35,000 this year.

NARY, HOME PRO, BEATS PAR BY 5 IN CROSBY TOURNEY

Rancho Santa Fe, Cal., Jan. 24 (AP).—Bill Nary, home pro, lifted the $3,000 Bing Crosby golf tournament out of the doldrums today. He blasted five strokes off par and tied the competitive record of the Rancho Santa Fe Country club course with a 67 to lead the field. The big name golfers will get going tomorrow.

Nary, who knows every blade of grass of this par 36—36—72 course, posted nine hole scores of 35—32, tying the record big Ed Oliver hung up last year in his winning round, and almost came in with a 66.

124TH F. A. WILL MEET EVANSTON FOR POLO TITLE

Armory Clash Tonight Ends Short Session.

The 124th Field Artillery team and Evanston Polo club trio will meet in the 124th armory tonight for the National Polo league title. The game will mark the close of an abbreviated season whose termination is necessitated by the early departure of the artillery regiment for the south.

Evanston defeated the artillerists, 20 to 14, in the opening game of the season, then was beaten by Detroit, 12 to 11. The 124th scored nine goals in the final period to defeat the Detroit entry, 23 to 17, last week. Its Lieut. William Fergus, at six goals, will be the highest rated player on either team night.

The Woodland Polo club team, made up of Jerry Forden, together with Claude Mackey and his 20 year old son, William, will meet the Skokie Polo club in a preliminary game starting at 8:30 p. m. W. J. Schmidt, Harold Clark, and Billy Mayer will make up the Skokie team. Lineups:

HINT ARMOUR $6 PREFERRED TO GET DIVIDEND

Business Reported Satisfactory in '41.

Stockholders of Armour & Co. were told yesterday that dividends on the company's $6 prior preferred stock would be resumed as soon as possible. George A. Eastwood, president, at the annual meeting, reported "satisfactory" operations thus far this year and "encouraging" prospects for future business.

Guy C. Fox, who was elected a vice president.

"We are striving to operate the company so that dividend payments may be made as soon as the situation warrants," he said. "Undoubtedly we are progressing toward the desired goal."

Expects Action This Year.

Answering a question from a stockholder as to the exact time of the resumption of dividend payments on the preferred stock, Eastwood said:

"We have made a good start in the first three months of the new fiscal year. If it continues as I expect it will I hope that directors will look with favor on doing something in the way of dividend action this year."

The stockholders reëlected four directors and named a new director. The new member is Henry W. Boyd, a vice president and head of the company's Armour Leather works auxiliary division. He has been associated with the company for 31 years.

Chairmanship Is Abolished.

At a directors' meeting later, the position of chairman of the board was abolished, with Eastwood designated to preside over board meetings and over meetings of the executive committee. Frederick H. Prince, former chairman, will continue a director.

Other changes in the list of officers included the election of Guy C. Fox as vice president in charge of refinery, and the resignation of Harley E. Andre, a vice president.

Four directors reëlected at the stockholders' meeting to serve three year terms were Sewell L. Avery, Charles J. Faulkner Jr., Weymouth Kirkland, and Elisha Walker. Boyd, also was chosen for a three year term. He succeeds Robert H. Cabell, who withdrew as a candidate for reëlection.

Avery and Chase Ulman were chosen to serve as new members of the executive committee of the board. This committee was increased from seven to eight members.

Faulkner was reëlected general counsel for the 24th consecutive year. John P. Barnes was named assistant general counsel. Fred R. Baird was chosen general attorney to succeed Walter C. Kirk, who will retire Feb. 1.

Corrects Interpretation.

In discussing the dividend situation Eastwood told the directors that he was "sorry to learn that a few shareholders interpreted the statement in my letter [in the annual report] to mean that there will be no payment of dividends until the Delaware [subsidiary company] 7 per cent guaranteed preferred stock is retired and the company relieved of the burden of this high costing capital."

"The omission of dividends the last year, despite the fact that they were earned, was for the purpose of improving the company's financial position by augmenting the earned surplus and maintaining an adequate working capital and sound credit position," he said.

Dividends on the Delaware company's preferred stock have been paid regularly, with the 1940 payment totaling $3,746,890. No payments have been made on the company's own preferred since Jan. 2, 1938, and the last payment on the Illinois company's common stock was on Dec. 15, 1937.

Accumulations are $18.

Dividend accumulations on the $6 preferred stock of the Illinois company amounted to $18 a share as of Jan. 1.

Eastwood said that serious study was being given to the problem of retiring the 7 per cent guaranteed stock of the Delaware company.

"We all realize that this 7 per cent preferred stock of the Delaware company is a high and burdensome cost in these days of low interest rates," he said. "Financing its retirement at a lower cost will help immeasurably the Illinois company's preferred and common stocks. It is my sincere hope that in the near future it may be possible to take action."

Explains Meat Situation.

Commenting on the company's operations, he said that the present problem involves the moving out of an accumulation of pork.

"Meat seems to be regaining the important place it formerly held in the nation's diet," Eastwood said. "The government has begun the purchase of meats in fairly large quantities for feeding the defense forces and Armour & Co. has obtained a fair share of this business. It is to be expected that future orders of meat products will increase in size."

U. S. Loans on 1940 Grown Cotton Total 137 Millions

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24 (AP).—The Commodity Credit corporation announced today that growers had stored thru Jan. 20 2,851,029 bales of 1940 grown cotton under government loans totaling $137,339,329.

Zinc Prices Are Too High, Says Defense Unit

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24 (AP).—The contention that prices of scrap and secondary zinc were unduly high was advanced today by the defense commission after a conference with representatives of the industry.

Leon Henderson, defense commissioner in charge of price stabilization, said the group agreed to submit a report in a few days on how requirements of customers may be adequately met during the national defense preparation.

Premiums Are Charged.

"Altho the price of primary zinc has remained at 7.25 cents a pound at East St. Louis for the last four months, some producers of secondary zinc have recently been charging premiums above the price," the commission said. "At the same time the price of zinc scrap, source of the secondary zinc, has jumped sharply.

"It is clear that the actual tonnage of metal which has been sold above the base price is very small compared to the total sales of primary and secondary zinc. Nevertheless, the sales are undoubtedly an unsettling influence on the market.

Try for Highest Prices.

"At the same time some secondary producers and scrap dealers have contributed to the situation by 'overreaching'—trying for the highest price obtainable. In addition, consumers have been made unduly anxious by exaggerated rumors of shortages and high prices."

At the conference, Henderson, C. A. Bishop, and Donald Wallace of the price stabilization division conferred with Harry Goldstein, president, and Charles Haskins, secretary of the National Association of Waste Material Dealers, and 15 representatives of both large and small producers of secondary zinc in the east and middle east.

LUMBER PRICES ARE DECLINING, SAYS INDUSTRY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24 (AP).—Lumber prices are fixed by the law of supply and demand and the trend is definitely downward, spokesmen for the industry said today after they had been told by Leon Henderson of the defense commission that government price fixing would be sought if present quotations do not drop.

"The lumber industry collectively has nothing to do with prices," said M. L. Fleishel, chairman of the timber products defense committee. "The government is getting all the lumber it wants. Prices on cheaper grades of lumber are coming down. And the public should know that plenty of lumber is available for small homes at reasonable prices"

Fleishel attributed price rises in lumber last fall to government buying methods. He told reports that "600 or 700" different agencies were bidding for lumber for the government at the same time and the effect was that the government was bidding against itself.

Lumber production in the week ended Jan. 18 totaled 223,329,000 feet, 2 per cent less than in the preceding week but 16 per cent above a year ago.

BRITON REPORTS GOOD PROGRESS IN STOCK SALES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24 (AP).—Sir Frederick Phillips, under secretary of the British treasury, said today that liquidation of British securities in the United States was "progressing very satisfactorily."

Phillips said that was the gist of a report he made this morning to treasury and Securities and Exchange commission officials at a conference in the office of Secretary Morgenthau.

Morgenthau recently disclosed a British estimate that at the beginning of the year the British owned $616,000,000 of "market" securities and $900,000,000 of direct investments in the United States. His liquidation report, Phillips explained, referred to the "market" securities. He also told reporters he was negotiating with "a very large number" of American investment trusts for the sale of the direct investments.

POSTAL RECEIPTS BREAK ALL-TIME DECEMBER MARK

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24 (AP).—Postal receipts during December, which included the Christmas business, broke all previous records, while receipts during the first six months of the current fiscal year [July-December] indicate another record year, Postmaster General Frank C. Walker said today.

December receipts totaled $95,704,578, a gain of more than $6,000,000, or 7.6 per cent over December, 1939.

In the six months' period receipts amounted to $408,821,109, a gain of more than $21,000,000, or 5.68 per cent, compared with the corresponding period of the 1940 fiscal year.

Charlestown, Ind., Jan. 21.—May I take this opportunity to commend you and your paper on the truly factual series of articles your paper carried relative to the powder plant here at Charlestown, Ind.

Leland Forrester, your correspondent assigned to this project, has handled these articles very accurately and in a most interesting manner. Several papers in this area have made editorial comments on their subject matter and their comments were very favorable. CLARENCE H. FLEMING,

CHICAGO AREA ORDERS FOR DAY TOP 10 MILLIONS

Du Pont Given New Powder Plant Job.

Contract awards and approvals totaling $10,187,699 for companies in the Chicago area were announced yesterday by the government. Orders let to companies elsewhere in the state amounted to $400,638, raising the day's total for Illinois to $10,588,337. Numerous contracts were let to manufacturers and builders in other states, the largest being one for $47,997,000 to E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. for construction and equipment of a smokeless powder plant at Childersburg, Ala.

Elgin National Watch company, Chicago, received the biggest of the Illinois orders, $5,550,000 for artillery ammunition components. Confirming the Washington announcement of the order, Elgin officials said the contract was for artillery time fuses.

Equipping Time Fuse Plant.

About a year ago Elgin National Watch began work on war department "educational" orders totaling about $478,000, mostly for time fuses. The company last fall acquired a plant, containing 48,000 square feet, from the Illinois Watch Case company at Elgin, and is now equipping the plant for production of the time fuses.

The war department announced that the national defense advisory commission had cleared [approved] a $4,000,000 contract by which Stewart-Warner corporation, Chicago, will produce machinery and equipment for the manufacture of ordnance items.

Kellogg Gets Half Million.

Kellogg Switchboard and Supply company, Chicago, received a war department order for $493,000 of microphones; Dicke Tool company, Downers Grove, an order for $146,646 of reel units, Bell & Howell company, Chicago, one for $130,059 of printer assemblies, and Chicago Bridge and Iron company, Chicago, a contract for a standpipe at Manchester, N. H., airport.

Rockford Machine Tool company, Rockford, received three contracts as follows: Hydraulic planer, shaper, $73,442; vertical slotter, $19,413, and hydraulic shapers, $26,875.

Independent Engineering Co., Inc., O'Fallon, Ill., received a $124,840 order for a helium purification laboratory.

Dadant & Sons of Hamilton, Ill., received a navy department order for $9,422 of yellow beeswax.

The Maritime commission awarded a contract to the Moore Dry Dock company, San Francisco, for the construction of six cargo vessels at a price of $2,740,000 each.

Army, Navy to Share Cost.

The big powder plant at Childersburg will be able to produce 300,000 pounds of smokeless powder daily. Production is expected to begin before the end of the year. The plant will cost nearly $35,000,000 and the equipment approximately $13,000,000. The contract was awarded on a cost plus fixed fee basis. Altho the war department let the contract, the navy agreed to pay about a third of the cost because it will use about a third of the powder to be produced.

The army announced purchase of a Diesel locomotive from the American Locomotive works for transportation tests.

Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation announced it is installing additional facilities for light armor plate production at its Homestead and Clairton, Pa., plants.

Price Restrictions Lifted on Two Big Bond Issues

Price restrictions on the $50,000,000 Illinois Bell Telephone company 2¾ per cent bond issue, offered Jan. 17 at 103½, were lifted yesterday. Shortly thereafter the obligations were quoted at 101¾ bid, 102 asked. Price restrictions were also removed and the syndicate closed on the $28,000,000 Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation 3¼ per cent obligations which went on the market earlier this month. Originally priced at par, they were quoted at 98½ bid, 99½ asked, after the removal.

Chicago Ordnance Staff to Get Larger Quarters

Headquarters of the army's Chicago ordnance district will be moved about the end of February to the First National bank building, Col. Donald Armstrong, executive officer of the district, said yesterday. Expansion of the staff made it necessary to find larger quarters than the district office now has at 309 West Jackson boulevard, Col. Armstrong said. The new location will provide 20,000 square feet of floor space. The staff has been increased to 40 army officers and 160 civil employés.

Plans Million Expansion for Defense Work

BY AL CHASE.

Stewart-Warner corporation will spend approximately one million dollars for new equipment to produce the ten million dollars worth of defense contracts it has received from the government. This was disclosed yesterday by Controler Wilford Reetz in explaining the application for a certificate from the war department permitting it to amortize over a five year period, for tax purposes, plant equipment to be used in connection with national defense.

According to Reetz, filling the ten million dollar government orders will increase the corporation's pay roll by 2,000 persons. All of these will be employed in what is known as the "special contract division" devoted exclusively to government defense orders.

Contracts Are Varied.

Stewart-Warner's defense contracts are varied. They include parts for Rolls Royce airplane engines which Packard is building; detonating fuses for artillery shells and bomb fuses for the war department, and projectiles for the navy.

The company also is adapting its automobile heater to aircraft use to fill a large government order. Field kitchens for the quartermaster corps also have been made. Other defense work under way is range finding equipment for the army signal corps.

According to Reetz about 10 per cent of the company's present war orders have been completed.

Buys Factory Building.

F. W. Stewart Manufacturing corporation, which has been at 340 West Huron street for 17 years, yesterday bought the three story factory building, 50 by 162, at 4311 Ravenswood avenue from the Forty Three Eleven Ravenswood Building corporation for $24,500, according to revenue stamps on the deed.

The new plant, to be occupied May 1, will give the company much more floor space, O. C. Koch, secretary and general manager, said. The company makes speedometer parts and flexible shafts for industrial uses. It has had some national defense subcontracts.

U. S. NON-FARM EMPLOYMENT IS HIGHEST IN YEARS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24 [Special].—Nonagricultural employment in the United States in December totaled more than 37,100,000 persons, a new high for recent years, and 1,500,000 more than in December, 1939, the department of labor reported today. Approximately 540,000 workers were added in nonagricultural employment during December.

Manufacturing and construction industries accounted for most of the 12 months' gain, the report said. The December employment gain was termed the largest for that month in 11 years, resulting largely from a more than seasonal gain of 430,000 workers in wholesale and retail trade establishments.

SELL BIG BLOCK OF PLYMOUTH OIL STOCK PRIVATELY

New York, Jan. 24 [Special].—Allen & Co. sold a block of 15,000 shares of Plymouth Oil company common stock at $16.37½ a share in an off-the-market sale after the close of the New York Stock Exchange today. The stock was American owned, the firm announced in denying earlier reports that the sale represented further liquidation of British holdings.

Wertheim & Co. filed a notice of intention to stabilize the price of American Radiator and Standard Sanitary corporation common stock on the exchange to facilitate off-the-market offering of 218,557 shares at $6.75 a share.

DESIGNS NEW ENGINE 'TOO POWERFUL' FOR ANY PLANE NOW MADE

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 24 (AP).—The Allison Engineering division of General Motors corporation announced tonight it has designed an airplane engine for production here that would develop 2,000 horse power.

Engineers said it is a 24 cylinder X-type liquid cooled motor and expressed a belief that no airplane or propeller now being produced is strong enough for it.

The engine is being developed from Allison's 1,000 horse power V-12 motor, for which the division holds $235,000,000 in contracts.

An air lines pilot recently was reported to have dived a plane powered with one of the 1,000 horse power motors at 650 miles an hour near Buffalo, N. Y.

ASSERTS LABOR ACT UNDERMINES ARMS PROGRAM

Policy Council Urges Prompt Action.

The present federal law prescribing time and one-half pay for overtime work is undermining preparedness efforts far more than it is generally realized and must be given prompt consideration, the national policy council of the Chamber of Commerce of the United Sates said yesterday. The council stated its position in its report on priorities, labor, and monetary policies to the board of directors.

The report was accepted and ordered published and distributed by the directors meeting in Chicago yesterday.

Longer working hours at a lower penalty for overtime are required by reason of the shortage of skilled labor, if production goals are to be reached with reasonable economy, the report said.

Position on Priorities.

The policy council stated its position on priorities as follows:

"Where priorities are necessary, they should be established upon a basis of voluntary agreement in order that the best interest of defense requirements and of the normal needs of the country may be served."

The report disclosed the rising dissatisfaction with existing labor legislation and plant shutdowns in defense industries.

"A process of voluntary adjustment of labor problems, aided where necessary by conciliation, is greatly preferable to existing labor laws or antistrike or lockout legislation," it said.

The council came out in favor, in part, of the recommendations made recently by the Federal Reserve board.

Wild Inflation Possible.

"It must be recognized that with excess bank reserves at their present high level, and with huge public expenditures on defense and other account, there are inherent possibilities of uncontrolable inflation," it said. "Recommendations recently made by the federal reserve system in general are of a constructive nature, but some of them require careful consideration.

"Enactment of the recommendations of themselves would not provide a complete remedy. The proposals to repeal the powers to change the gold content of the dollar, to issue greenbacks, and to purchase and monetize foreign silver should be adopted."

Hudson Sales Running Far Ahead of '39 Total to Date

Shipments of 1941 automobiles by the Hudson Motor Car company to date already equal 60 per cent of the 1940 Hudson domestic production, C. G. Beeching, Detroit, midwest sales manager, told 250 dealers and salesmen from the Chicago district yesterday in the Drake hotel. Beeching said sales of the 1940 models totaled 80,700 cars, an increase of 22 per cent over 1939 sales.

Farmers' 1940 Cash Income Climbs to 9 Billion 94 Million

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24 (AP).—The department of agriculture estimated today that farmers received a total cash income, including government benefit payments, of $9,094,000,000 in 1940. This was an increase of $576,000,000 over 1939.

Income from crops totaled $3,504,000,000 in 1940—an increase of 8 per cent over 1939. Income from live stock and live stock products totaled $4,824,000,000—also 8 per cent above 1939.

Government payments totaled $766,000,000 compared with $807,000,000 in 1939.

The department said that farm income in January may be slightly larger than a year earlier due to slightly higher prices for meat products.

Income in December was estimated at $837,000,000, compared with $801,000,000 in December, 1939, and $942,000,000 in November, 1940.

The farm income by classes of products for 1939 and 1940, respectively, included:

Grains, $878,000,000 and $995,000,000; cotton and cottonseed, $609,000,000 and $677,000,000; fruits, $413,000,000 and $426,000,000; vegetables, $582,000,000 and $625,000,000; tobacco, $264,000,000 and $241,000,000; meat animals, $2,262,000,000 and $2,419,000,000; dairy products, $1,355,000,000 and $1,502,000,000, and poultry and eggs, $722,000,000 and $748,000,000.

DOUGHTON BILL LIFTS DEBT TOP TO 65 BILLIONS

Permits Big Variety of Securities.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24 (AP).—Legislation to raise the federal debt limit to 65 billion dollars and permit the treasury to sell a great variety of federal securities, including 25 cent war savings stamps of the type sold during the world war, was presented today to the house.

Chairman Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.] of the house ways and means committee introduced the measure and announced that public hearings would begin on it next Wednesday, with Secretary Henry Morgenthau as the first witness.

Congressional attachés said the bill was designed to simplify the public debt structure as well as to raise the present 49 billion limit on the indebtedness the government may have on its books at any one time.

Funds for Any Purpose.

Altho it was generally understood the request for authority to add 16 billions to the national debt was due chiefly to the enormous expenditures already made or in prospect under the defense program, the bill stipulated that the proceeds from any of the new securities could be used to meet any federal expense.

Questioned about the possibility of reviving the 25 cent war stamps to help finance the defense program, Morgenthau told reporters recently he "would not turn down two bits."

Under the bill's terms, almost all new federal securities would be completely subject to federal taxation, but not to state levies. The question of reciprocal taxation of federal and state securities is to be dealt with, informed sources said, in subsequent legislation.

Would Drop Old Laws.

The measure would terminate provisions of several old laws authorizing the issuance of certificates of indebtedness. One authorized the issuance of $300,000,000 of such certificates at the time of the Spanish-American war, another $2,000,000,000 under the first liberty bond act.

The provision of last year's revenue act which earmarked the $4,000,000,000 debt increase authorized at that time for the retirement of defense obligations would be repealed.

Morgenthau called in two of his favorite financial advisers today to discuss methods of raising the billions necessary for financing the defense program. They were Roswell Magill of Columbia university, former undersecretary of the treasury, and Dr. Jacob Viner of the University of Chicago.

Seeks Financing Advice.

The financing plan began to take shape yesterday when Morgenthau was advised by leading house and senate members that they would introduce and support legislation to raise the federal debt limit. Now, Morgenthau is seeking advice from numerous sources on what types of securities should be sold, and what sales methods should be employed.

Extent of the borrowing contemplated by Morgenthau was shown in President Roosevelt's $17,485,528,049 budget for the next fiscal year, which provided for a deficit of $9,210,093,049. This deficit will have to be met from borrowing except to the extent that new taxes, also advocated by the administration, are enacted.

SEEKS TIME LIMIT.

The Illinois Chamber of Commerce yesterday sent a resolution to congress recommending that any increase in the national debt limit be based upon the anticipated requirements for the ensuing fiscal year only.

MONTH'S AUTO OUTPUT TO SET JANUARY RECORD

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 24 (AP).—Ward's Reports, Inc., today revised its estimate of the probable output of passenger cars and commercial vehicles this month by placing the figure at 525,000 assemblies.

This aggregate, if realized, would be 15 per cent above any previous January in the industry's history, and the best total for any month since May, 1937, when assemblies totaled 540,377.

Ward's estimated this week's production at 121,948 cars and trucks, compared with 124,025 last week, and 106,400 this week a year ago.

Air Lines' Passenger Mile Total Rises 53% in 1940

Col. Edgar S. Gorrell, president of the Air Transport Association of America, reported yesterday that revenue passenger miles flown by domestic air lines during 1940 totaled 1,042,142,561, a gain of 53.86 per cent over the 677,325,511 passenger miles flown in 1939. October was the best month of the year with revenue passenger miles totaling 115,474,262.

Jury Charges Secret Profit in Utility Sale

Media, Pa., Jan. 24 (AP).—A Delaware county grand jury charged today there was a "secret and corrupt private profit" totaling $625,000 in the sale of the Chester Water company to the Chester Municipal authority and recommended the indictment of former State Senator John J. McClure, county Republican leader, and 12 others. Two of these are Chicagoans.

The presentment said the charges against McClure and eight of those named should be conspiracy, and recommended that four Chester councilmen be indicted on charges of "corrupt misconduct and misbehavior in office."

Order Indictments Drawn.

Judges W. Roger Fronfield, Albert D. MacDade, and John M. Broomall ordered the indictments drawn and made returnable next Tuesday.

In addition to McClure, the jury recommended indictment of:

Mayor Clifford H. Peoples of Chester, John P. Connelly of Merion, McClure's personal attorney and former Philadelphia city solicitor; Chester Councilmen John T. Ross, William P. Lear, Edward D. McLaughlin, and William J. McDowell; William C. Purdyk, president of Chester Materials company; Thomas S. Curran, former state representative; John V. Diggins, Chester attorney; C. W. McNear and Robert L. Creek of the Chicago bond house of C. W. McNear & Co., and Cornelius van den Berg, an official of the Federal Water Service company of New York, original owner of the water company.

Councilmen Excepted.

The grand jury's presentment charged that McClure and all except the councilmen conspired "to unlawfully use money and property of the Chester Municipal authority to obtain a secret and corrupt private profit" and to set up the authority to sell the water company to it "at a grossly excessive price and to make a secret, corrupt, and private profit by manipulation of the common stock of the water company."

In addition the nine were charged with conspiring to corrupt members of the authority to acquire the water company "for their own personal aggrandizement."

CALLED POLITICAL FIGHT.

"The action of the grand jury of Delaware county, Pa., in connection with the purchase in 1939 of the local water works by the Chester Municipal authority is an outgrowth of a local political fight of long standing," Harold M. Keele, an attorney for C. W. McNear & Co., said last night. "The two Chicago men named are partners of the firm which purchased approximately $6,000,000 in bonds to finance the purchase of the water system. The information from the district attorney is that the Chicago men were included to insure their presence at the trial in Pennsylvania, as their testimony was deemed necessary for the prosecution of the case.

"The soundness of the entire transaction is shown by the fact that the first year's public operation of the water system acquired by the authority produced a net profit of substantially $200,000 after paying all expenses and full bond interest."

In a report to stockholders Cresap stated that the clothing industry had faced steadily rising costs.

Federal, state, and local taxes, he said, totaled $332,000.

COPPER OUTPUT 873,377 TONS IN 1941; RISE OF 20%

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24 (AP).—The bureau of mines today reported that 873,377 short tons of recoverable copper were produced in 1940, an increase of 20 per cent over 1939. Officials said this had been exceeded only in the war years, 1916, 1917, 1918, and the boom years 1928 and 1929.

The copper was valued at $197,383,202, against $151,490,456 in 1939, an increase of 30 per cent.

Arizona contributed 32 per cent of the 1940 copper output, Utah 26 per cent, Montana 15, Nevada 9, New Mexico 8, Michigan 5, other states, 5.

EXCHANGES TELL OBJECTIONS TO TRADE BAN RULE

Chicagoans Testify at SEC Hearing.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24 [Special].—Objections to the New York Stock exchange regulation which restricts its members' activities on other exchanges were stated today by officials of four regional exchanges at a Securities and Exchange commission hearing.

Kenneth L. Smith.

Among those who testified were Kenneth L. Smith, president of the Chicago Stock exchange, and Arthur M. Betts, chairman of the exchange's board of governors.

The hearings are being conducted by the SEC to determine whether the New York exchange should be allowed to retain a rule which prohibits trading by its members on other exchanges in stocks listed on both the New York board and exchanges in other cities.

Explains Rule Changes.

Smith's testimony mostly concerned modifications in the regulations of the Chicago exchange pertaining to outside trading by members. The changes, he said, were made by members in 1939 for the purpose of clarification and eliminating any suggestion of limitation on the activities of the members.

He denied that any connection had existed between the revision of the Chicago rule and the fact that a special committee of the New York exchange was then studying the question of its members dealing as principals on regional exchanges. This study led to the adoption of the rule now in dispute.

Betts later testified that even if the Chicago exchange had known of the intent of the New York exchange it still would have changed the rules.

Endangers Board's Existence.

Clifford H. Reiter, president of the Cincinnati Stock exchange, asserted that the enforcement of the New York ban on multiple trading would endanger the "existence of our exchange." In his belief, he said, the Cincinnati exchange would "disintegrate" if it was unable to do odd-lot trading in 10 securities listed on the New York and Cincinnati exchanges.

Donald Skall, treasurer of the Cleveland Stock exchange, termed the effect of the rule "detrimental." He testified that the rule reduced volume, prevented local members from making commissions in the dually listed issues, and forced customers to pay larger commissions.

John H. Huhn Jr., secretary of the Philadelphia Stock exchange, said that only two of the odd lot dealers there were also members of the New York exchange, and that both had obtained exemption from the New York multiple trading ban.

SEAWAY SCHEME HIT AS HANDICAP TO U. S. DEFENSE

New York, Jan. 24 [Special].—The revival of President Roosevelt's insistence of the St. Lawrence seaway proposal in the guise of a preparedness project, today was termed "so remote from the facts as to be almost unworthy of debate." B. D. Tallamy of Buffalo, chief engineer of the Niagara frontier planning board, made this charge before the conference here today of the New York state commercial secretaries. John Lowry, president of the merchants' association of New York, called the proposal a "monumental extravagance" that grows worse under further study.

Tallamy said it could not be classed as a war measure because it would require six or seven years to complete; Lowry added that it actually would handicap the preparedness program by diverting huge sums of money, materials, and workers needed elsewhere.

Tallamy said a number of authorities in the engineering field are opposed to the project, which is being pushed by President Roosevelt as a "defense measure."

Year's Shipments of Auto Tires Highest in Decade

New York, Jan. 24 (AP)—Shipments of automotive tires in 1940 totaled 59,155,326 units, highest in a decade, but more than 10 million fewer than the 69,394,855 shipped in 1929, the Rubber Manufacturers association reported today. December shipments amounted to 2,626,190 units, highest December on record, 7.7 per cent above November and 0.5 per cent above December, 1939.

LATE RECOVERY LIFTS SAGGING STOCK MARKET

Gains Outnumber Losses at Final Bell.

New York, Jan. 24 (AP).—Late recoveries outnumbered declines in the stock market today but the close was irregular. Prices had been lower during most of the session.

Support came in the final hour when it was learned British officials were conferring with Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau regarding further liquidation of American securities. Much of the market's diffidence lately has been blamed on threats of foreign selling. Hopes revived that perhaps some means would be found to remove this pressure.

Steels and Motors Firm.

A few steels and motors did better while recently buoyant rails rested at moderately lower levels. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 43.7 transfers of 411,960 shares compared with 465,180 Thursday.

Up fractions to a point or so at the finish were Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Bendix, Texas corporation, Armour preferred and American Smelting.

On the losing end were United States Steel, Anaconda, United Aircraft, Sante Fe, New York Central, Great Northern, Westinghouse Electric, American Can, du Pont, Union Carbide, and Eastman Kodak.

Chicago Stocks.

Trading continued its uneven pace on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, with 33 issues advancing, 27 declining, and 33 closing unchanged. Transfers numbered 20,000 shares, the same as Thursday. Continental Steel preferred set a 1940-'41 price peak at 110¾, up ¼. Merchants and Manufacturers A, the volume leader, moved up ⅛ point to finish at 4 on turnover of 1,250 shares.

New York Bonds.

New York, Jan. 24 (AP).—Industrial specialties and a few utilities moved up fractions to more than a point in today's bond market against narrow changes in other groups.

Turnover fell to $7,691,400, face value, from $10,449,400 Thursday.

Much of the day's activity centered in rails which got off to a poor start and lagged behind thruout. Losing small amounts were such issues as Alleghany stamped 5s, St. Paul 5s, Delaware & Hudson 4s, and Southern Pacific 4½s.

United States government obligations ended down 1-32 to 10-32 of a point. Copenhagen 5s and Japan 6½s were among rising foreign issues.

Bank Stocks.

La Salle National shares declined a point and Continental Illinois half a point yesterday in Chicago bank stock trading. Other leading issues were unchanged.

UTILITY SYSTEM OFFERS 3 PLANS OF INTEGRATION

United Light & Power Files Proposals with SEC.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24 (AP).—The United Light and Power company submitted to the Securities and Exchange commission today three plans for simplifying its 400 million dollar utilities system under the holding company act.

The plans were:

1. Dissolution of the United Light and Power company.

2. Elimination of the United Light and Railways company, No. 2 holding company in the setup.

3. Elimination of the Continental Gas and Electric corporation and the American Light and Traction company, subordinate holding companies.

Here's Plan No. 1.

Dissolution of the United Light and Power company would involve these steps, according to the company's suggestion: Selling for cash all securities of Laporte Gas and Electric company and Mason City and Clear Lake Railroad company; completion of the dissolution of Clinton, Davenport, and Muscatine Railway company; transfer to a new Illinois corporation, probably the Peoples Light and Power company, of the securities of Fort Dodge Gas and Electric company, Moline-Rock Island Manufacturing company, Peoples Power company, Peoples Light company, Cedar Rapids Gas company, Iowa City Light and Power company, Ottumwa Gas company, and Tri-City Railway companies of Iowa and Illinois; sale of most of the new company's assets to United Light and Railways company; splitting United Light and Railways common stock and exchanging it for preferred and common stock of United Light and Power.

Plan No. 2 Suggestions.

Elimination of the United Light and Railways company, under plan No. 2, would be accomplished by selling its interest in United Power Manufacturing company to United Light and Power or Peoples Light and Power company; purchase, redemption, or payment of all 5½ per cent debentures and part of its preferred stock, to be financed by sale of some of its holdings; recapitalization of United Light and Power; merger of United Light and Railways into United Light and Power and issuance of United Light and Power preferred stock to remaining holders of United Light and Railways prior preferred stock.

Donald Richberg, company counsel, said this plan apparently would be less feasible than the first unless United Light and Power were permitted to issue securities to retire a large portion of United Light and Railway prior preferred stock.

Third Plan's Provisions.

Elimination of Continental would involve sale of its investments in Panhandle Power and Light company, the Cimarron Utilities company, Guymon Gas company, and Kansas Power Transmission company. Richberg said negotiations for sale of these properties "are now nearing completion."

Elimination of Continental would involve also sale to the Consumers' Public Power District of the Nebraska electric properties of the Iowa-Nebraska Light & Power company, a deal now awaiting approval of the Federal Power commission; sale of Iowa-Nebraska's Nebraska gas properties; sale by Maryville Electric Light & Power company of its assets to Kansas City Power & Light company; merger of Continental into United Light & Railways.

Delayed to Feb. 24.

Because of the substantial amount of stock held by a larger number of minority stockholders, in American Light & Traction company, Richberg said, "further study is necessary before suggestions can be made as to the appropriate steps required to eliminate that company as an intermediate holding company."

Counsel for the Koppers company, a large owner of United Light & Power voting stock, filed exceptions to the whole procedure.

The commission continued its hearing until Feb. 24 to permit conferences between company officials and the SEC staff.

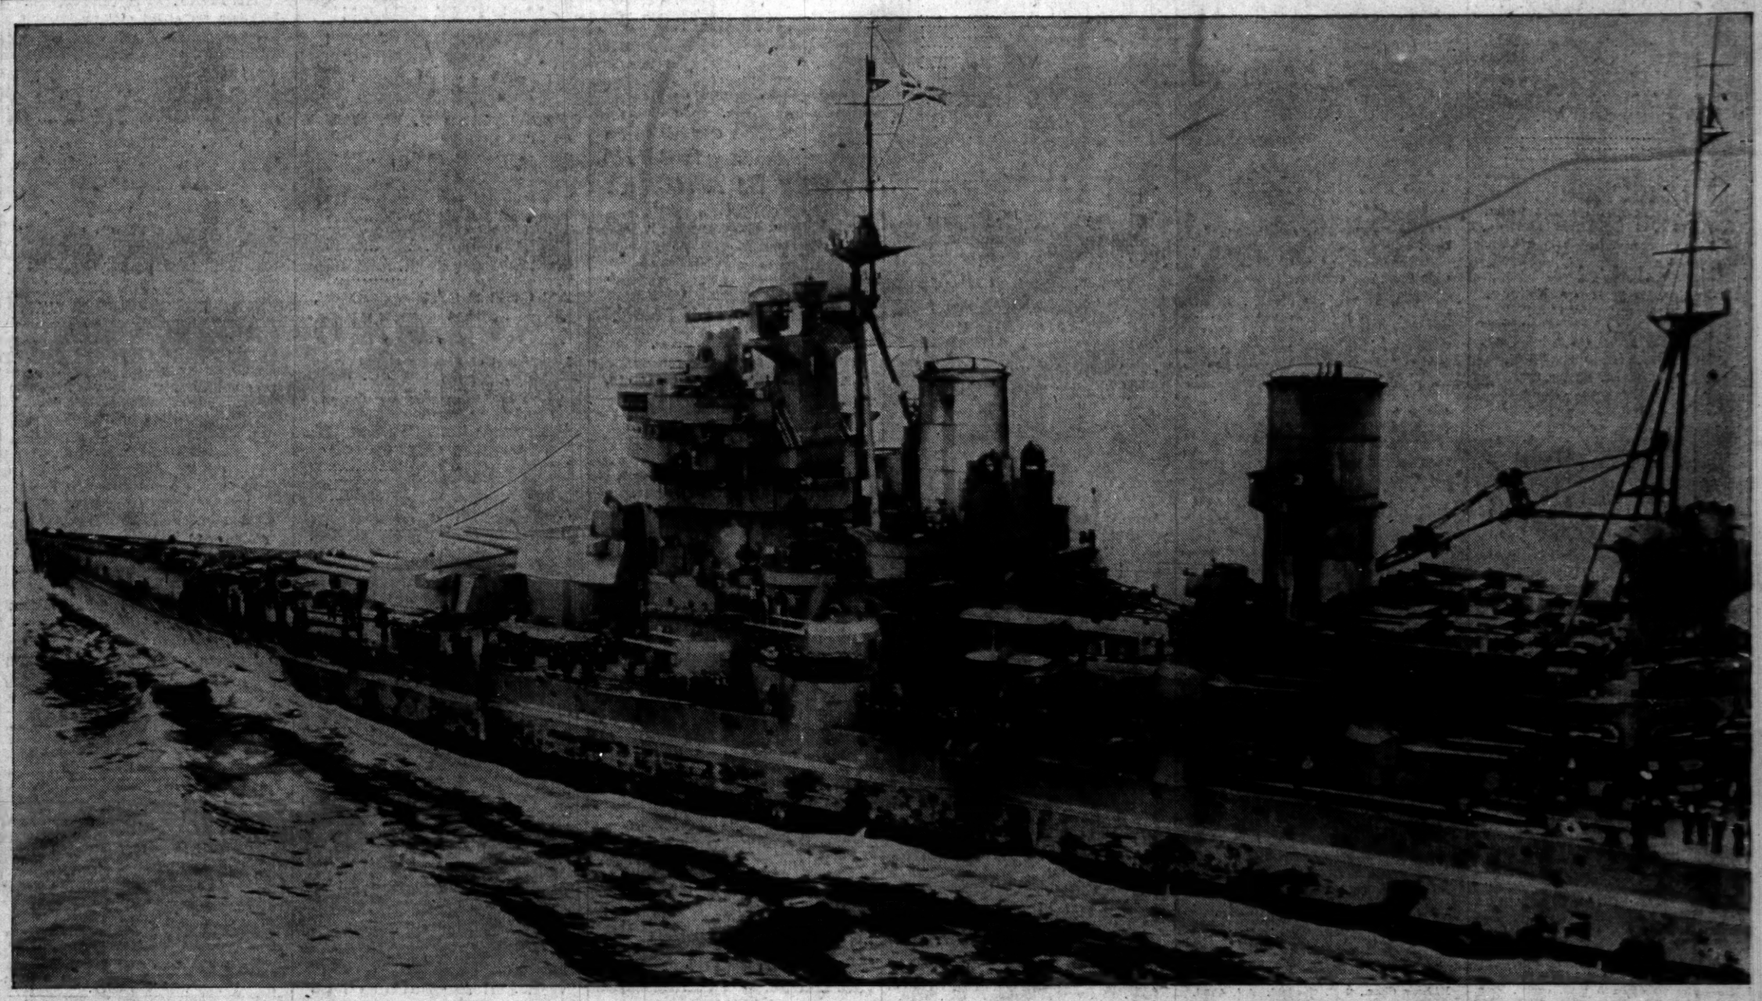
Explosion Demolishes Home on South Side—Roosevelt Welcomes New British Ambassador at Sea

Mrs. Lue Burns, held at East St. Louis in gun death of fourth husband, her second mate to die from bullets.
[Associated Press Wirephoto.] (Story on page 14.)



The new British battleship King George V. photographed as it steamed up Chesapeake bay yesterday to bring the new British ambassador, Lord Halifax, to the United States. The 35,000 ton battleship is one of the five largest afloat. Announcement of its arrival in American waters was the first official intimation that it had been commissioned.

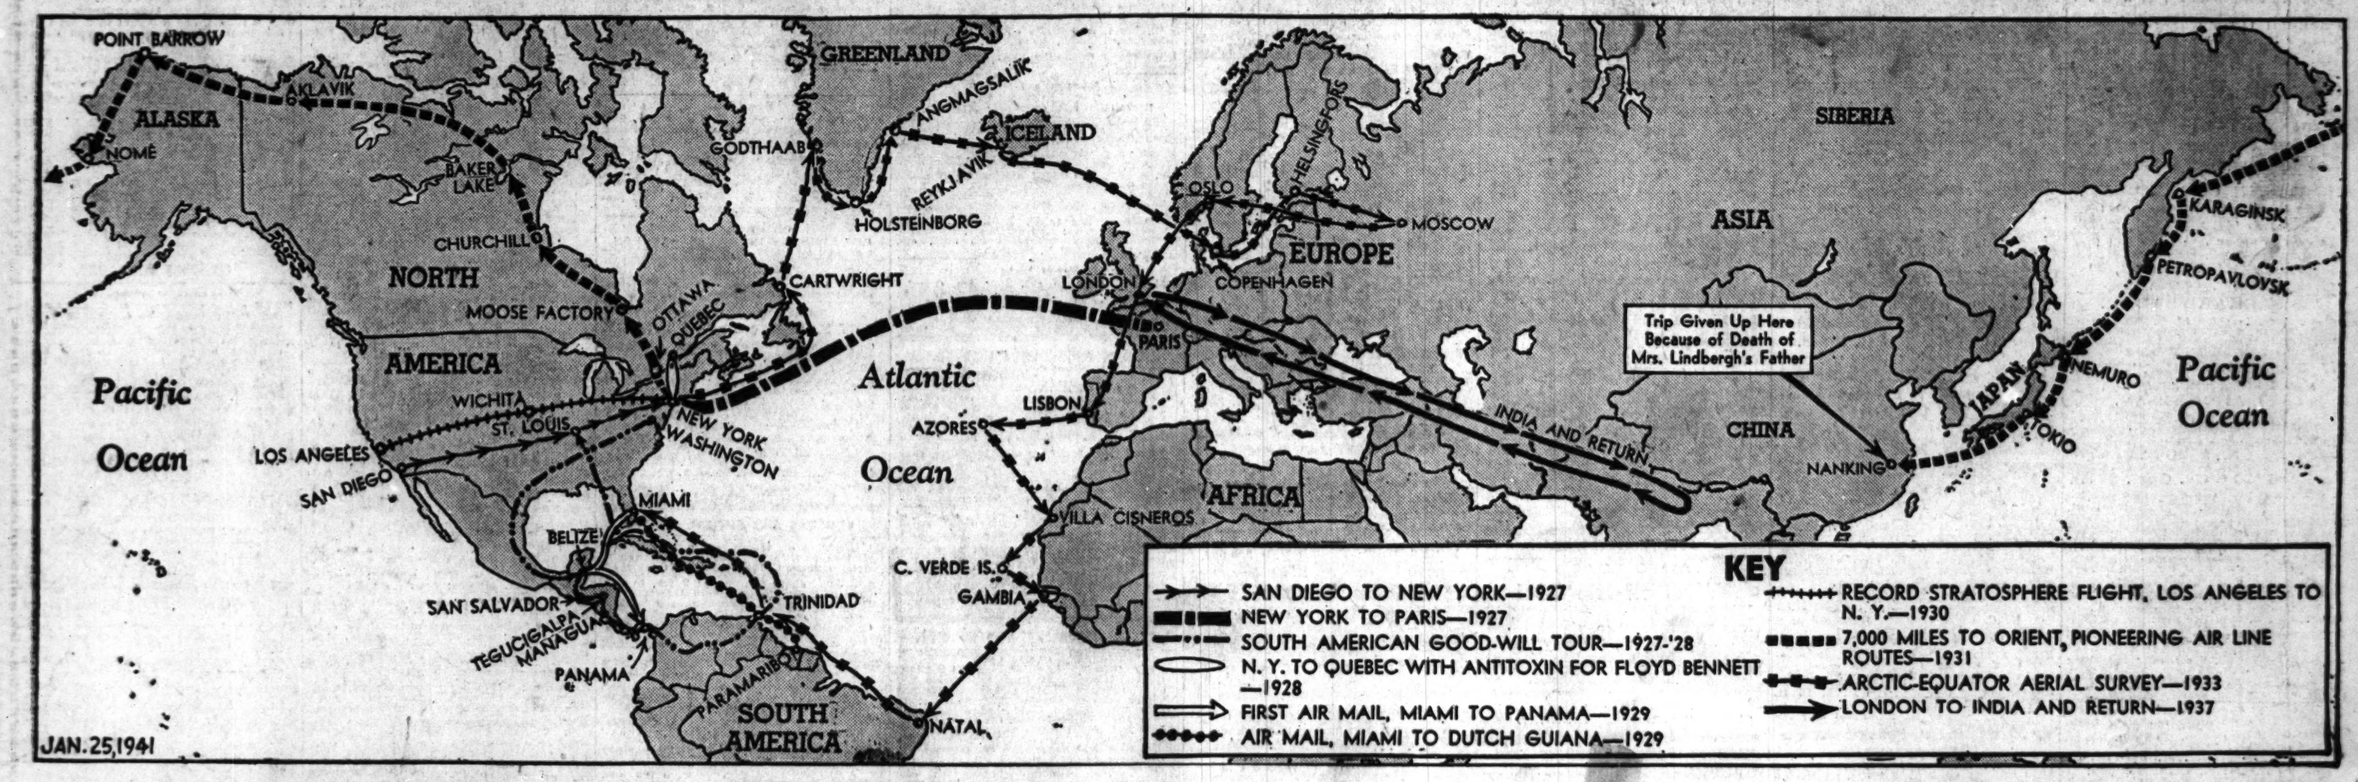
Only the front door and foundation of the bungalow of Walter J. Wende remained after an explosion demolished the home at 2444 West 83d street last night. The cause has not been determined. Nobody was injured. (Story on page 1.)



Here is the map record of the major flights made by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, leading American aviator, who in his journeys has gained wide experience and knowledge of world affairs. Col. Lindbergh's opposition to American entry in the European war reached a high point Thursday when he testified in Washington against President Roosevelt's dictator bill. He declared this country is in no danger of invasion and urged an end to war hysteria in the United States.
